Hennessy In Bid For Nomination As Village Mayor

Delegates to the Hoffman Estates village convention of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) will have a choice in their nomination for the mayor's post.

Trustee Edward Hennessy announced Friday his decision to seek the nomination, running for it against Trustee Virginia Hayter, who announced her candidacy a week ago. But Hennessy emphasized he is running for the mayor's office, not running against Mrs. Hayter. The party candidate to run against incumbent Frederick Downey will be chosen at a Dec. 10 convention.

"It wouldn't matter who was running, I think, in my case, I think independently and could do a job I'd like to see done in the village," Hennessy said.

A concern over priorities was one factor contributing to his decision, said Hennessy. "Certain things which you think should get done don't have quite the priority you think they should have. They have a habit of getting delayed," he commented.

Edward Hennessy

Development of manufacturing industries in the village and a shifting of goals in public works projects are items Hennessy would like to see have higher priorities, he said.

"WE HAVE to take a realistic look at the growth picture and the tax picture," Hennessy said, adding considerations should be "what do we have now, what will be the impact of these things on the finances of the village."

"We're getting a lot of little commercial stuff. Really the thing we don't have, and I think we've got to develop the manufacturing. They can produce more revenues and take the burden off the tax payer," the mayoral candidate said.

Hennessy also called for expansion of the public works department's services and staff. While water and sewer systems are "coming along quite well," flooding may become an issue focusing on that department, he said. Hennessy said the village has put restrictions on new developments that are "taking care of" the flooding problem. Traffic, however, will be one of his concerns. He would like to see more interchanges on the Northwest Tollroad. Sidewalks in commercial areas of the village also should have higher priority, he said.

HENNESSY SAID he could offer the village "a desire to do well, make sure all the loose ends are tied together and there are no loose ends lying around."

"I feel I can get along with all the people on that board. Working with any other taxing bodies, I don't have any difficulties. I can communicate with almost anybody I encounter and communicating is one of the biggest problems in this country," he said.

Hennessy also noted his background in engineering, science and accounting as attributes he would bring to the mayor's office. He is a project engineer in the special projects department of Bell and Howell.

Meeting Rescheduled

The date of the Christmas meeting for the Hoffman Estates Women's Club has been changed from regular scheduling.

It will be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 13 instead of Dec. 20, at the Ground Round restaurant, Roselle Road just north of Higgins Road.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE FIREMEN fought a $300,000 blaze at the Terrace Apartments, 902 Ridge Sq. for 1½ hours Saturday before the fire was brought under control. Some 13 fire departments from neighboring communities and a Civil

Park District Recreation Chief Plans To Resign

Jeff Fox, superintendent of recreation for the Schaumburg Park District, has announced he intends to leave his post at the end of the month. Fox has been with the district since 1970.

A native of Bloomington, Ind., Fox said he plans to accept a position as manufacturer's representative for a furniture company there.

In announcing the resignation, Paul Derda, park district director said Fox has done an outstanding job with the district during his employment.

"We hate to see him go, but we wish him well in his new position," Derda said. "We have been very happy with the job he has done here."

Formal announcement of the resignation will take place at the district's next park board meeting Dec. 14, Derda said.

As superintendent of recreation, Fox has been assigned to coordinating many of the programs offered by the park district, including the special events activities. His major contributions included establishment of a program for mentally handicapped youngsters that is being operated along with the Elk Grove Park District.

"We will miss the many friends we have made in this area, but we are looking forward to the challenging opportunities that are ahead," said Fox.

Both Fox and his wife have relatives in the Bloomington area and they both attended college there.

Derda said he plans to begin conducting interviews with prospective applicants for the position in the near future.

Apparent Policy Conflict

Mamach Resigns Post As SUP Director

Resulting from an apparent policy conflict, Harry Mamach resigned his post as managing director of Schaumburg United Party (SUP) Thursday.

Mamach's resignation was delivered to Mayor Robert O. Atcher, party chairman, immediately following adjournment of the first SUP convention. Mamach has held the managing director's post since the party was formed in August 1971.

"All I can say is that I accept his resignation with regret," Atcher said further. The mayor indicated Mamach's resignation had not been anticipated but declined further comment.

Ray Kessell, SUP deputy chairman and senior village trustee, said he had been asked by Mamach Thursday evening to deliver a letter to Atcher.

Panel Of ROOST Begins Platform Discussions

Preliminary discussions on platform planks for next spring's village election in Hoffman Estates were started Thursday by the Hoffman Estates Municipal Committee of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township.

While representatives of various community groups were scheduled to appear at the session, none did. Platform committee chairman Ralph Lyerta said he had been told members of the Hoffman Estates Jaycees, Hoffman Estates Provisional League of Women Voters and several other groups had planned to attend

"I HAD absolutely no knowledge of the contents of that letter," said Kessell.

Mamach's letter cited six major reasons which "make it totally impossible" to fulfill his duties with SUP.

Charging that press releases or conferences have been held without his knowledge, Mamach contends "so-called well informed precinct reps get their information either through the grapevine or via newspapers."

In addition, Mamach said members of the SUP Executive Board approach precinct representatives without his knowledge, "reducing the party structure and my job to nothing."

He told of his surprise at the SUP caucus last May when he learned precinct chairmen were being named without his knowledge. He feels precinct captains he had named were "badly treated by that maneuver."

Mamach's letter also told of the discovery of persons claiming to be precinct workers who were named by SUP board members.

"I BELIEVE the precinct captain is not just a guy or gal to be used as a free mailman... they are the backbone of communications both to and from the people. Other members of the board disagree," he continued.

Mamach said he had been promised precinct representation for the convention but failed to see this materialize on either the rules or platform committees.

A resident of Weathersfield, Mamach has served as a member and acting chairman of the village plan commission.

He was credentials committee chairman for the first SUP convention, and also, along with former Trustee Donald De Vale, drafted the original SUP constitution.

"I have always been and hope to continue to be a firm and active supporter of honest, efficient and progressive government at all levels," said Mamach. He said it was this philosophy which prompted his interest in formation of SUP.

"The idea of an independent party, of, by and for the people of Schaumburg continued to prod my sometimes sinking enthusiasm, but after a complete review of the party, I find my enthusiasm at the bottom of the heap," he added.

the federal revenue sharing should be included.

MOST OF the committee agreed the revenue sharing program that will bring Hoffman Estates about $73,000 should be used for some capital improvements projects. Sidewalks, street lighting and road improvements were all areas where members suggested the funds might be used.

The subject of flood prevention probably will also become a platform plank. All of the committee members urged that special attention might be directed to the residents of the Parcel A area, who have been plagued by severe flooding problems for many years.

Studies on city form of government and feasibility of a full-time mayor also were recommended as platform planks.

Other topics, such as the establishment of a police auxiliary, working for the construction of complete interchanges on the Northwest Tollway and Barrington and Roselle roads and continued emphasis on controlled village growth were also discussed.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The nation's Democratic governors voted in St. Louis to recommend that Jean Westwood resign as Democratic national chairman and that former party treasurer Robert Strauss be elected later this week to replace her.

The Food and Drug Administration's product safety director said the hidden hazards in toys — pins embedded in dolls or squeaker devices that can be swallowed — have been virtually eliminated from the market this year.

A WEEKEND FIRE that caused $300,000 damage and left 14 families homeless at the Terrace Apartments, 902 Ridge Sq., Elk Grove Village, was caused by a carelessly discarded cigarette, according to fire department officials. Here firemen survey the damage in the unit where the blaze started.

$300,000 Fire Rips Complex

by CAROL RHYNE

Some residents of the Terrace Apartment complex at 902 Ridge Sq., Elk Grove Village, returned to their homes yesterday in the wake of a $300,000 fire that raged through their building early Saturday injuring two persons and leaving 14 families homeless.

A spokesman for Baird and Warner building management company said yesterday that some families were being allowed to move back into the three-story building as soon as water could be vacuumed out of carpeting. He added that in badly damaged units residents were offered accommodations in other apartments in the complex.

"We hope to have the people in partially damaged apartments back in their homes by Christmas, but it may take a couple of months to repair the units that were completely gutted," he said. The spokesman added that only 14 of the 54 units in the L-shaped building were uninhabitable. Many residents in the fire-damaged building chose to remain in their apartments during the weekend.

ELK GROVE Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the fire was started by a cigarette discarded in an overstuffed chair in Apartment 208, belonging to Patrick Fairman. He said occupants of the apartment pushed the burning chair onto the balcony, where the flames ignited the balcony above and spread to the roof.

Hulett said Donald Brady was rescued from a bedroom window of the burning apartment by a ladder truck. He was taken to Alexian Brothers Medical Center in the village where he was treated and released.

Other occupants evacuated the burning building through the hallways and out the exits.

Fireman David McCulla, 32, sustained cuts on his hands while fighting the fire inside the building. He also was treated and released at Alexian hospital.

HULETT SAID the fire was brought under control in 1½ hours with the help of 13 fire departments and a Civil Defense unit from as far away as Skokie, including equipment from Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Buffalo Grove. Engines from Des Plaines and Palatine stood by at Elk Grove Village stations in case of a simultaneous emergency.

Most of the damage was to second and third-floor apartments, with the first floor sustaining mainly water damage. Firemen said five apartments were totally destroyed, six were severely damaged and 21 units sustained water damage. Damage was estimated at $200,000 to the building and $1,000 for contents.

According to Hulett, the fire was prevented from spreading to more apartments by "fire walls" in the building that blocked the passage of the blaze. He said the occupants of the building and the fire department were notified of the blaze by an alarm system that it activated by smoke.

Twelve families left homeless by the fire were given shelter at the Holiday Inn in the village while others stayed with friends and relatives.

A PARTIAL list of residents made homeless by the fire include Theresa Molnae, 15 m a i l L o g h e l, Cynthia Phillips, Dr. Polissner, Lynn Lombardo, T. Dacey, Vance Olson, Gerald Esthosa, Najl Lughod, Lorraine Leahy, Kenneth Wallock, Ellen Hill, Robert Portnoy, Ronald Saelenger, Margaret and Debbie Henline, J. Cristl, C. Felsted, David Mills, Michael McNew, Paul Wavra, L. Schlegel and Edward Haskell.

Hulett said the fire Saturday was very comparable to a blaze in the same apartment complex at 912 Ridge Sq. in January, which caused $267,000 damage. He said he based the weekend's damage estimate on the January fire.

Suburb Housing Mandate Not Likely

by ANNE SLAVICEK

A News Analysis

Suburban towns probably don't have to fear that U.S. Dist. Court Judge Richard B. Austin will take away their power to decide whether public housing should be built within their boundaries.

Austin is the judge who spent three days last week hearing testimony on a proposal to house poor blacks from Chicago in low-income housing units in the suburbs. The plan calls for the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) to build the units within suburban boundaries if the municipalities refuse to build the housing themselves.

The proposal calling for the suburban public housing was advocated by Alexander Polikoff, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney representing a group of Chicago public housing applicants.

On the other side of the fence in the trial was the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, arguing for an order that would only pledge it to its best efforts to avoid segregation in public housing.

A THIRD, BUT almost silent participant, was the Chicago Housing Authority, which told Judge Austin it had enough budget problems trying to provide public housing in the city without taking on the suburbs.

While Austin will not rule on the proposals until January, the judge gave numerous indications of his feelings in the case during the three days of hearings.

While he openly assured Polikoff that he had not intention of adopting the ACLU proposed order in its entirety, Austin also said he was "not overly impressed" with HUD's best efforts to date.

Austin often interrupted Polikoff during the trial, sometimes to ask rhetorical questions and other times to have points clarified.

The judge's comments often touched upon his view of the suburbs and the nature of suburban discrimination.

AUSTIN SAID, for example, "Some suburban areas welcome all who are economically able to live in those areas."

At another point in the hearings the judge quipped "I'll be settling people in Utah pretty soon," as a comment on how far out some of the suburbs under consideration were from the central city.

When Polikoff countered that "there is a lot of land in suburban areas," Austin raised a question about the price of land in the suburbs.

The judge's question touched off a debate between Polikoff — who said "There is no land cost limit with respect to the public housing program," — and HUD Atty James Murray, who said federal regulations only allow spending "the amount prudently required" for public housing sites.

ANOTHER OF Austin's rhetorical questions raised the point that the ACLU proposal would "give villages additional residents to serve without additional income."

"The suburbs live on property taxes," Austin said.

The judge indicated he wasn't questioning the entire concept of public housing in the suburbs, just the concept of building public housing in the suburbs as a means of housing Chicago residents. "If these villages sought money for residents of their villages that's a different kettle of fish than building houses for Chicago residents in outlying areas," Austin said.

One of the witnesses during the hearings was Prof. Philip Hauser, an urbanologist from the University of Chicago who testified about segregation and the movement of whites from the city to the suburbs.

TALKING ABOUT Hauser's testimony Judge Austin commented, "What disturbs me about the motivation of the Hausers and others, is their objective to stop the flight from the city. We're going to put people out there so other people won't flee. We're going to circle them with a wall so the conditions out there will be the same as they are in the city."

After hearing testimony that little federal funding will be available in 1973 to finance public housing projects anywhere Austin said "Looking at the funding I don't see the emergency of threatening the municipalities with losing their veto powers (over public housing)."

Noting that a higher court decision would have some bearing on the decision he will render Austin said, "In view of the funding there's no extreme emergency at this time that this court can't wait for a supreme court decision."

Discussing Congress's reluctance to give HUD power to force municipalities to accept public housing, the judge said Polikoff's proposed order, "Would have the court step in and do what Congress has refused to do."

POLIKOFF ARGUED that a metropolitan distribution of public housing units was needed to break the pattern of racial segregation.

"Can't that be done by Congress?" Austin asked.

Polikoff answered that Congress had refused but that the judiciary had the power to take the action needed.

During another discussion Polikoff told Judge Austin "The image of the CHA in the suburbs isn't the greatest."

"Why do I impose the CHA on the suburbs then?" Austin asked.

POLIKOFF SAID it was necessary "to effect federal constitutional relief" to the black indigents who had filed the suit.

"The violation was by the City of Chicago, not by the suburbs, not by the adjoining counties," Austin said.

Polikoff argued that the racial segregation pattern of the city is duplicated in the suburbs. "That's not because of anything the suburbs have done to this point," Austin responded.

Polikoff admitted that was so, but told the judge suburban segregation did not have to be purposeful, it merely had to exist in order for the judge to have the authority to correct it.

AUSTIN ALSO said at another point in the hearings that he had no intention of setting local zoning ordinances aside in order to allow public housing in the suburbs.

Polikoff pointed out that the suburban sites were needed because the judge's original order produced nothing for the plaintiffs who filed the suit except a small amount of public housing that was as segregated as existing public housing had been.

Between the Lines

Kosin Loses Spat
—But Wins War

by PAT GERLACH

Tom Kosin may have lost a battle, but he made a major contribution toward Schaumburg United Party's uphill struggle to prove itself an open and independent local political organization.

Indications are that Kosin will not be forgotten by the party and may, in fact, play a more important future role in SUP because of his 11th hour decision to insure a contest at the convention.

Originally, he planned to ask for party slating to an unexpired 2-year term and geared his pre-convention activities toward that goal.

When he abandoned that course, he made it clear he was not backing out because he felt it a lost effort against Ray McArthur, a pioneer Weathersfield resident who has been involved in village government for the last dozen years.

THE FACT that McArthur would probably have walked away with delegate support for the short term nomination, apparently never greatly concerned Kosin.

He made it apparent in the past few weeks he likes and respects McArthur, chairman of the plan commission on which Kosin also serves.

But, in the interest of an open convention, Kosin chose to create a race for three 4-year term posts. As a party faithful, he felt responsible to disprove charges of a "cut and dried" convention.

With incumbent Trustees Herb Aigner and Denis Ledgerwood with political newcomer Ray LeBeau unopposed, those remarks could well have been made by critics of SUP.

But Kosin changed all that and while he only garnered a total of 65 of 191 delegate votes, an important point was made. His action at convention proved that anyone meeting the specified qualifications can be placed in nomination.

When, as Aigner predicted in his acceptance speech, Schaumburg "the gem becomes the crown jewel of Cook County and eventually all America," Tom Kosin will probably be one of the facets.

ENTHUSIASTICALLY garnering support for Herbert J. Aigner, Marge Mofford manages the floor for her candidate at Thursday night's Schaumburg United Party Convention in the Lancer Restaurant.

Golf-Higgins
Crossing To Open

The long-awaited opening of the Golf and Higgins roads intersection project is scheduled for Wednesday, according to an official of the state highway department.

Howard Westhal of the state department of transportation said plans are to open the complete intersection about 3 p.m. Wednesday to accommodate the evening rush hour traffic.

The construction project at the intersection has been delayed for months and monumental traffic jams have occurred there.

Westhal said he hopes the completion of the intersection will relieve some of the congestion.

The intersection will allow two lanes of traffic to flow each direction. Left and right turn lanes have also been built. Traffic flow will be controlled by electric traffic signals.

The construction, which was originally scheduled to be completed in August, was first held up by delays in relocating underground utilities in the area. Bad weather and heavy rains also pushed the completion back more than a month.

"The opening of the intersection should be welcomed by many area motorists," Westhal said.

Claim Property Underassessed

Delay Action On Charges By CAP

by WANDALYN RICE

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education Thursday delayed any action on charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP) that property in Schaumburg Township is underassessed.

Board members agreed they did not have enough information on the charges to take any action. They had received a copy of the report, charging that taxing bodies are losing nearly $7 million because of underassessment of four business properties from Doug Verdonek, president of the Dist. 211 Education Association, which helped finance the study.

In his letter to the board, Verdonek offered the legal services of the Illinois Education Association, with which his group is affiliated, if the board should want to take legal action on the assessment against Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

According to the CAP study, Dist. 211

will lose more than $1.6 million in property tax money next year because of the underassessment of Woodfield Mall, Union Oil Co., Meadow Trace Apartment Complex and Motorola Inc. Communications Division.

IN SUGGESTING that the board table the study while awaiting further information, Board Pres. Robert Creek volunteered to disqualify himself from discussion of the report. Creek is executive vice president of Union Oil Co. and is in charge of the Union Oil facility at 200 E. Golf Rd. in Schaumburg Township.

Board member Alexander Langsdorf agreed with Creek's suggestion to table the item, noting that Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert Atcher has said the CAP's statement that commercial property in the township is worth $1 a square foot is excessive.

Supt. Richard Kolze told the board he has invited Atcher to appear to discuss the CAP report at the Dec. 14 board meeting.

Board member Robert Seger also agreed that the board should await further developments and watch actions that might be taken against Cullerton by other governmental bodies.

"Hopefully something will be done on a state-wide or county-wide basis rather than in one area," Seger said. "Maybe there is something we should do, but we should do it on the basis of complete intelligence and not on emotion. Emotionally I think the guy (Cullerton) has done a lot of things wrong."

IN OTHER action, the board also postponed a scheduled discussion of "open campus" policies at their schools because Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tuttle of Schaumburg were unable to appear before the board.

Tuttle had originally appeared before the board in October to ask that the board reconsider its policy that prohibits "open campus," which would allow students to leave the school grounds during their lunch hours.

The board has received a report on open campus operations in other school districts from its administration. Thursday it was presented with more information on the operation of open campus programs at Wheeling and Hersey high schools in Dist. 214. The board has not made the reports on open campus public.

In other action the board: —approved a policy requiring all department chairmen to obtain master's degrees by Sept. 1, 1976. Supt. Richard Kolze estimated that about five chairmen will be affected by the new rule.

—referred to its attorney a proposed definition of "gross disobedience" to be used in student discipline cases. A report is expected from the attorney at the next meeting.

Parents Want Their Kids
To Go To Schaumburg High

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education heard an early plea Thursday from about 40 parents who want to assure that their children will be able to complete their educations at Schaumburg High School when the board redraws boundary lines to accommodate the new Hoffman Estates High School.

The parents from several subdivisions in Schaumburg including Lancer Park, Sunset Hills, and Meadow Knolls said they were afraid their children will be transferred to Conant High School when the board redraws boundary lines.

Mrs. Eleanor S. Thorenson of 322 E. Weathersfield Ln., Schaumburg, told the board, "We feel that students make many ties in their freshman year and that they do not want to change schools later and that they have good reason not to want to change."

THE BOARD has not yet begun formal boundary discussions for Hoffman Estates, but Supt. Richard Kolze said he will ask the board to make a final boundary decision by late January. He proposed that the board use as major criteria the achievement of optimum enrollment in all schools while retaining individual school identity and providing the greatest degree of permanence.

Mrs. Thorenson said the parents she was representing would like to see options provided so the children who have started in Schaumburg High School will be able to finish there even if their younger brothers and sisters must be moved back to Conant.

Another mother said her daughter had moved from Conant to Schaumburg when Schaumburg High School opened and she did not want to see her children move back.

She said, "It's much different putting children in a brand new school where they can help choose the colors and things like that than it is taking students from one established school and putting them in another."

Board Pres. Robert Creek assured the parents their concern will be considered when the board makes its decision.

He said, "Our next action is to ask the administration to study the alternative. My view is that there ought to be a way to have some options, but we'll put this on the agenda again — this is just round one."

O'Mara Named Chief Investigator

Carey Inducted Into Office Today

State's Atty-elect Bernard Carey went into a meeting with Sheriff Richard Elrod last week and came out, 90 minutes later, with a chief investigator, assurance his investigators will be deputized and a temporary investigative staff.

Carey, who defeated incumbent Edward V. Hanrahan for the post Nov. 7, will be inducted into office this afternoon. The ceremony will be held on the fifth floor of the County Building, 118 N. Clark St., at 2 p.m. At that time, Carey is expected to announce the name of his first assistant.

Late Thursday, Carey named Michael O'Mara, currently a captain in the sheriff's police department, as his chief investigator. O'Mara, 33, has been serving most recently as director of personnel and administration for Elrod.

The announcement came at the conclusion of the meeting in which Elrod reportedly told Carey he would give "full cooperation" in deputizing qualified persons as investigators for Carey's office.

According to a spokesman for Carey, Elrod apparently never intended to withhold his deputizing power over investigators, as reported in a Chicago newspaper early last week. The spokesman added Carey never thought there would be a problem in getting his investigators deputized by the sheriff.

If they were not deputized, the investigators would not be empowered to make arrests or carry firearms.

During the meeting, Elrod also reportedly agreed to supply Carey with an undetermined number of sheriff's policemen to serve as investigators, on a temporary basis.

Carey apparently is going to have to get along without the services of 84 Chicago policemen who served as investigators for Hanrahan.

Shortly after Carey won the election, Chicago Police Supt. James Conlisk announced the 84 men would be removed from the service of the state's attorney's office.

Conlisk said he had no intention of undermining the effectiveness of the office, but said the policemen should be under the control of the Chicago Police Department and not the state's attorney. He said he became concerned about the situation when policemen assigned to Hanrahan killed two Black Panthers in a raid on a westside apartment.

Carey said his office would be "crippled" without such an investigative staff. He since has appealed to County Board Pres. George Dunne for $1 million to hire investigators.

It was learned Friday that Carey is seeking a meeting with Conlisk to gain his cooperation.

O'Mara, who has served under four sheriffs, was given a leave of absence by Elrod to assume the post in Carey's office.

He has been a member of the sheriff's department for the past 12 years, originally hired during to administration of Sheriff Frank Sain.

O'Mara previously was commander of the vice control section and commander of Division 2 patrol. He has a master's degree in public administration from Illinois Institute of Technology and currently is working toward a doctorate in public law at Loyola University.

MSD Sells $20 Million In Bonds

by ANNE SLAVICK

The Metropolitan Sanitary District Board of Trustees sold $20 million in general obligation bonds for construction projects late Thursday.

The district sold the bonds of a group of investors headed by the First National Bank of Chicago at the lowest interest rate on any district bond sale since January 1969.

The bonds were sold at an average interest rate of 4.67 per cent.

MSD officials announced after the sale was completed that the sale will raise the 1972 tax rate for the district up to 36.4 cents per $100 assessed valuation. That is the rate which will be applied in figuring the tax bills local residents will pay next spring.

BY COMPARISON, the district's tax rate on Jan. 1, 1972 was 33.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The bond sale will also affect the tax rate for 1973 which shows up on tax bills paid in 1974. That rate is now estimated at 35.42 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

While the 1972 rate is expected to stay at the 36.4 cent level, the 1973 rate may climb considerably as the district issues additional general obligation bonds during the next year. The district is unique in its power to issue the bonds without referendum under legislation enacted by the state general assembly.

The district had originally expected to sell between $40 to $60 million in bonds during 1973, but now is expecting even more bond sales may be necessary because of a cut in federal grant funds announced this week by President Richard Nixon.

MSD GEN. SUPT. Ben Sosowicz estimated the district will lose a total of $300 or $400 million in state and federal grants in the next two years as a result of the federal cutback. An article in Friday's Herald incorrectly stated the grant fund loss at $3 or $4 million.

Sosowicz estimated that the loss would amount to between half and two-thirds of the grant moneys for pollution control projects the district originally had anticipated.

Yet the district must continue to build pollution control projects in order to meet a state law requirement for low pollution levels in 1977.

Just exactly how much more money the district will have to borrow by issuing bonds will depend on how many non-essential programs the district is able to delay and how much of the federal grant deficit the district is forced to make up in local tax revenue.

IN OTHER ACTION Thursday the MSD board gave formal approval to a resolution concerning the flood control coordinating committee.

The resolution, proposed by a blue-ribbon committee of citizens, asks the coordinating committee to extend its studies to include suburban areas served by separate sanitary and storm sewer systems. In its Chicago Underflow Plan the coordinating committee dealt only with flooding and pollution problems of the central city and near suburbs which have a single sewer system collecting both sanitary and storm sewage.

The MSD resolution asks the committee to develop a regional drainage plan to combat flooding and pollution problems on a metropolitan-wide basis.

The board Thursday also agreed to allow the district to advertise for bids on two interceptor sewers in Streamwood which would connect to the new Poplar Creek Water Reclamation Plant.

THE BOARD GAVE its approval with the understanding the advertisements would not be published until the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission receives federal and state approval for an amended regional waste water plan. The plan which now calls for two separate plants to serve the Poplar Creek area and the Elgin area has not been approved, despite the fact that the MSD now has federal grant approval for several of the interceptor sewers which will connect to the Poplar Creek plant.

The plant, when completed, will provide sewage treatment service to portions of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates.

Tax Collections Limited To Twice A Year: Court

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (UPI) — The Illinois Supreme Court has ruled that Cook County, despite its home-rule status, may not collect real estate taxes more than twice a year.

The court, ruling on a suit filed against Cook County Treasurer Bernard J. Kozen and Cook County Clerk Edward J. Barrett, blocked a county plan to bill taxpayers in four installments rather than two installments, as provided by state law.

The Cook County Board of Commissioners, after an unsuccessful attempt to have the law changed in the Illinois General Assembly, adopted an ordinance last February that would have authorized tax collections in January, March, May and July.

The county cited a provision in the new state constitution that "a home-rule unit may exercise any power and perform any function pertaining to its government and affairs."

But the court, in reversing the decision of a Cook County Circuit Court which threw out the suit, said since the county collects taxes for other units of government within the county, the county board could not tamper with state regulations on tax collection.

Religion Today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

"Sex has openly come into the church," reported the Anglican Church of Canada's weekly, "Canadian Churchman," of Toronto. "You'll sing about it at services in the near future."

A new hymnal has been jointly published by Canada's Anglicans (Episcopal) and the United Church of Canada — with little reported dissent from anybody.

The "Sex Hymn," Number 204, by 47-year-old Derwyn Jones, has the following lyric:

"Now thank we God for bodies strong, vitality and zest;

For strength to meet the day's demands, the urge to give our best.

For all our body's appetites which can fulfillment find;

And for the sacrament of sex that recreates our kind."

In some areas of the comparatively conservative United States, this lyric could be a cataclysmic shocker. Or it may be regarded by some uncomfortable churchgoers as the same kind of undue familiarity as the ancient "Kiss of Peace." This revived rite varies considerably, running from handclapping to hugging and even lip-kissing, depending on how far out is the local church. And while this could be regarded as induced or contrived fellowship, it does have the virtue of warming up many of "God's Frozen People."

THE NEW HYMN also is a welcome reminder that sex is a sacrament of sorts, created by God, who should hardly be imagined as regarding the marriage bed any less sacred than the altar. Such candor in worship also can help destroy the still widely held misconception that there is something intrinsically evil about the sex act — as contended by St. Augustine, who said that it consists of "bestial movements."

The new hymn may not only help to break down the ridiculous identification of piety with prudery, but it may provide a healthy and realistic alternative to the current national inundation of sordid sexuality, such as is seen on New York's 42nd Street.

Norman Cousins, former editor of the Saturday Review of Literature — and certainly the antithesis of any book-burning amut-hunter — recently surveyed this scene and published a particularly incisive warning. Noting 42nd Street's full color films and even live performances of "all the sexual variations of which human anatomy and ingenuity are capable," he contends:

"It is possible to oppose censorship and still be severely critical of sex exhibitions — not because they lead to promiscuity, but because they lead to desensitization."

"The problem is not that they arouse lust, but that they tend to produce impotence. By detaching sex from love, they separate sex from its basic sustaining power. In making sex mechanical, they contribute to the malfunctioning of the machine. By annihilating privacy they rob sex of delight."

"An infallible formula has apparently been found for making sex boring . . . The danger is not that the exploitation of sex may create sex fiends, but that it will spawn eunuchs."

AT THE OTHER end of the spectrum, there are some pulpits where the subject of sex is never mentioned — as if sex is somehow unholy, or of no concern to either God or man.

The consequences of this are seen in one clinical case where a devout young married couple were unable to engage in coitus without first removing Jesus' picture from their bedroom wall.

Canadian Christians, in the candor of their new hymn, have rendered a service in helping people to avoid such bizarre tragedies.

88% Vote In Elk Grove Twp.

by BOB LAHEY

There are some lessons for political workers in figures announced recently by Carl R. Hansen, Elk Grove Township Republican committeeman on Nov. 7 election results in his township.

Despite the apathy encountered by precinct workers in his organization, they turned out a whopping 88.7 per cent of the total registered voters on a rainy day, leading all 30 suburban townships. The total turnout in the suburbs was 84.9 per cent.

Despite the fact that percentage was short of the 93.4 per cent attained in the 1968 election, the number of votes cast this year exceeded 1968 by 6,923.

That was made possible by the fact that 10,000 new voters were registered during intense pre-election work — including 5,100 in a single day.

Hansen attributed the registration and voter turnout results to a "superb job" of house-to-house canvassing by party workers. Among the 62 precincts in the township, 22 had turnouts exceeding 90 per cent. The top turnout was in Des Plaines' Precinct 23, headed by James W. Jacobs, 642 Kathleen Dr., with a 95 per cent turnout.

Vote totals compiled by Hansen also reflected suburban attitudes toward the major Republican candidates.

THE LEADING vote getter, Atty. Gen. William J. Scott, compiled a 64.2 per cent winning margin statewide. He exceeded that by a whopping 18 percentage points in Elk Grove Township, with an 82.1 per cent margin. (That has been topped in the township only once, when Donald Rumsfeld achieved 83 per cent in the 1966 congressional election.)

In contrast to Scott, the No. 2 man in the state balloting, Sen. Charles H. Percy, won with statewide total of 62.5 per cent. In Elk Grove, he beat that by only 10 per cent, with 72.7.

The other major candidates exceeded their statewide totals by roughly 15 per cent in the township. President Nixon, with a statewide 60 per cent, got 78.5 per cent. Governor Ogilvie, while losing with a 49.1 per cent total, carried the township by 63.9 per cent. He carried every precinct in the township except one, in which he tied with Dan Walker.)

State Sen-elect David J. Regner also carried all but one precinct in his home township. He lost his opponent's home precinct by 16 votes.

IN THE 3RD Legislative District House race within the township, the cumulative totals varied by only 3,464.5 votes between Republican winners Donald Totten of Hoffman Estates, with 33,108, and Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights, with 29,643.5.

Democratic winner Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights, with 23,651, outpolled the other Democrat, John Kelley of Schaumburg, with 12,050, nearly two-to-one.

Knox Called Male Chauvinist And Religious Bigot

by LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International
November marked the 400th anniversary of the death of an unabashed male chauvinist who became one of the most fearless leaders of the Protestant Reformation.

His name was John Knox.
A disciple and close friend of Geneva's great John Calvin, Knox established Protestantism in his native land of Scotland over the vehement objections of his Catholic Queen Mary.

Knox was a blunt-spoken man and few, including Mary, could have been in doubt whom he had in mind when he published a pamphlet in 1559 under the title: "First Blast of the Trumpet Against the Monstrous Regiment Government of Women."

IN THIS polemic, he expounded a view that was as unpopular with Mary then as it is with Kate Millett today:

"To promote a woman to bear rule above any realm, nation or city is repugnant to nature, contumely to God, a thing most contrarious to His revealed will, and a subversion of good order, equity and justice."

By contemporary standards, Knox also qualified as a religious bigot. He sought not merely to make Protestantism supreme in Scotland, but too ban totally the practice of the Catholic faith.

Actually, Knox brought off the religious revolution in Scotland with less bloodshed than any other country. Only two Catholics were put to death for fidelity to their faith after Protestantism gained ascendancy in Scotland.

In one respect, at least, Knox was in accord with the temper of our time and far ahead of his own. He insisted on laymen playing a major role in the life of the church and its government.

HE DEvised the presbyterian form of church government, in which power resides in a presbytery to which each church sends its pastor and one layman elected by the congregation. Thus laity has a vote and voice equal to that of the clergy.

This form of government has been retained to this day by the "Presbyterian" churches which came to America with the earliest Scottish settlers. Presbyterians today comprise one of the largest American Protestant families.

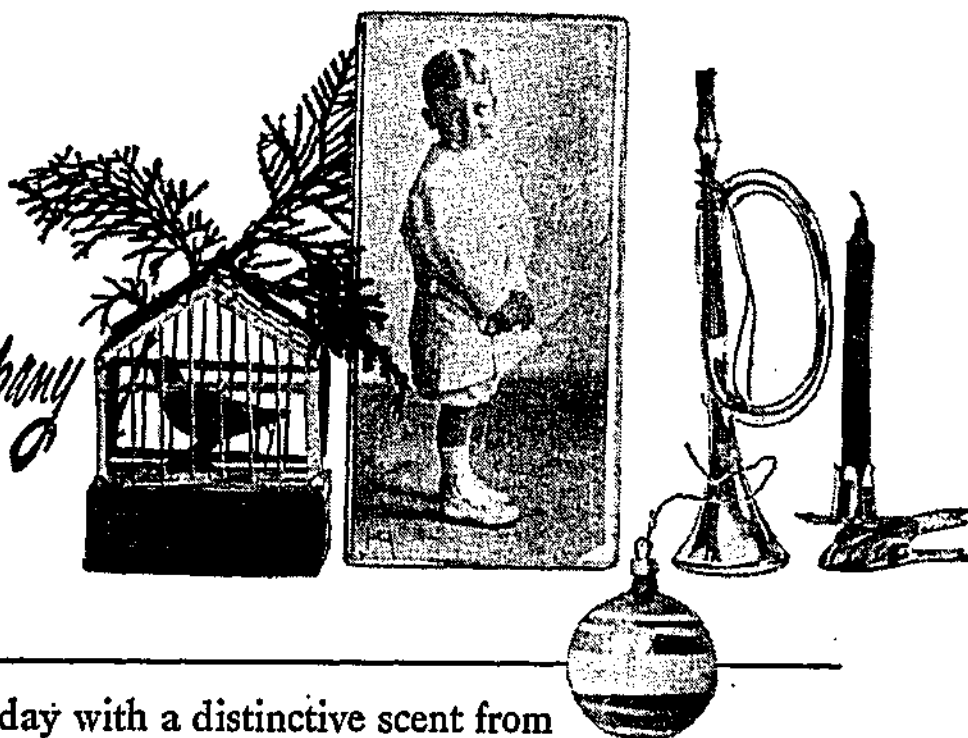

Knox also was a pioneer advocate of free public education. He sought to establish a school in every parish that would be open to all students, without regard to wealth or social status.

At his funeral on a gray November day in 1572, the Earl of Morton, regent to King James VI and veteran of many a clash with Knox, gave him the epitaph he probably would have cherished most:

"There lies one who never feared the face of man."

6 Seek To Fill Vacancy On Harper Board

The Harper College Board of Trustees has received six applications for the vacant seat on the board.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of board member Eugene Nugent. Nugent told the board last month he will be moving to Cleveland, Ohio to take another position at the end of the year.

Board Pres. Jessalyn Nicklas said the board will set up interviews for candidates and make a decision on the new board member in December. The appointee would take his or her seat at the meeting in January.

The appointee will serve until the April board election and then the remaining year of Nugent's term will be filled by the election.

The deadline for filing applications for the board is Dec. 8. Interviews for prospective board members have been set for Dec. 9 and Dec. 11. Applicants so far are:

Emergency!

Paramedic Idea Pays Off—Woman's Life Saved

by RICHARD MONACK

The drama of saving a life was unfolded around noon last Friday in a little room just to the right of the emergency entrance of Northwest Community Hospital.

That's the room that houses the new emergency trauma equipment that communicates with paramedics from nine suburban rescue units. Dr. Stanley Zydlo was standing in the emergency room when the call came:

"This is Buffalo Grove Squad 47 to Northwest Community — Cardiac Alert — Wayne Winter transmitting."

Dr. Zydlo, who was in charge of training the paramedics checked a list confirming the Buffalo Grove Fire Chief as an emergency specialist, and told Winter to send necessary information.

THAT INFORMATION was the pulse, blood pressure, respiration rate and a 15 second Electrocardiogram (EKG) of June Fischer of 271 Selwyn Ln., Buffalo Grove.

When the firemen first arrived on the scene they were told by Mrs. Fischer's mother-in-law, who is an ex-nurse, that she could not find a pulse. The paramedics began administering oxygen and quickly found a faint pulse rate.

"This was cause enough for us to contact the hospital and send back an EKG. We saw that a doctor was needed and he was as near as the radio," said Winter.

Following the sending of the EKG, Dr. Zydlo immediately ordered the paramedics to administer a prescribed IV (intravenous) solution. The paramedics confirmed the order and sent the hospital another EKG.

They repeated sending of the heart beat to the hospital and were given permission to start transporting the patient to the trauma center.

AS PEOPLE STOOD in the emergency waiting area and in the little transmitter room, they could hear constant communication between the firemen and Dr. Zydlo as to Mrs. Fischer's condition.

One man standing in the room said, "My grandmother died on the way to the hospital. If this service had been available at that time, she may have lived. This is one of the most touching events I've ever witnessed."

"Ironically, it was these same paramedics from Buffalo Grove, who one minute after the program went into effect this morning, were called on to save another woman's life," said Mrs. Janet Schwettman. Mrs. Schwettman is a hospital volunteer who conceived the idea of bringing the program to the Northwest suburbs about one year ago.

IMPLEMENTATION of the program was delayed several times as legislation had to be passed removing liability from the participating doctors and firemen, the hospital had to be certified by the state, radio frequencies had to be assigned by the Federal Communications Commission equipment had to be ordered, and the paramedics had to be tested and re-tested.

The program was officially dedicated in ceremonies at the hospital Sept. 23.

The radio again interrupted conversation when Squad 47 reported it was entering the hospital area. Nurses and Dr. Zydlo met the firemen at the door of the emergency room, and immediately began providing medical treatment.

"WE WERE given precious minutes by the firemen performing their duties," said Dr. Zydlo. "When this patient arrived we were ready to start working on her, rather than having to waste time in the emergency room getting simple facts."

"Look at these," exclaimed Zydlo, "these are EKGs that told us exactly what her heart has been doing since the firemen arrived at her home. The firemen have also supplied us with all the changes in her other vital signs, in writing. They also started an IV, which never happened before a patient reached the hospital in the past."

However, the story didn't end there.

As the Buffalo Grove firemen were getting resupplied and ready to return to their village, the patient's relatives were thanking them for their work.

Mrs. Joan Fisher, the patient's mother-in-law, said, "When we saw the firemen drive up we thought they'd just put her on a stretcher and take her to a hospital."

"ALL OF A sudden the firemen began working on her. They contacted the hospital and we could hear the doctor giving them instructions. As an ex-nurse I can tell you that they were as professional as doctors and knew everything they were doing," she added.

Her husband, Joseph, said, "I thought I was watching the Los Angeles County Fire department on television." He was referring to a television show that depicts the work of paramedics in California.

"They didn't waste a second when they came in the door. We're from Evanston and I never heard of them having this program here. I hope it spreads our way," he commented.

Dr. Zydlo credited the Buffalo Grove firemen with keeping June Fischer alive. "This is the second run for these men today, and both times they have kept their patient's alive."

"IF THEY WERE acting as regular firemen or ambulance attendants, there is a very good chance neither patient would have survived long enough to get to the hospital," said Zydlo.

What did the paramedics think? Speaking for his men, Chief Winter said, "It is such a tremendous feeling to be able to do something for a patient. Before a fireman was helpless, with the exception of minor first aid, but now we can save lives — and what's more important when you're in our business?"

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "We haven't talked about our code word 'ARCH' for some time! Analyze the lead — Review the bidding — Count your winners and losers — How can I make the contract?"

Jim: "The Count of winners and losers with today's hand shows South that he must lose one diamond and one club. He may also lose a trick to the king of trumps and will have to lose a second club trick if East holds the ace of that suit."

Oswald: "A Review of the bidding tells him that East has less than seven high card points. He passed his partner's opening bid. The odds are also that any specific high card will be held by West."

Jim: "South also sees that he is in a pretty good contract and wants to give himself the best chance to make it. He knows that East can't hold an ace and a king. That would give him seven high card points."

Oswald: "After all that thought, South sees that he can afford to hang down his ace of hearts. It will cost him a trick if East holds the king but it won't be the contract. West just may hold a singleton king."

Jim: "Sure enough, West does hold it."

County Panel To Watch For Conflicts

The Cook County Board of Commissioners took action last week to establish a committee of commissioners and citizens to develop laws and guidelines to guarantee a prohibition of conflicts of interests for county employees and members of the county board.

The formation of the committee, which will include county commissioners and "outstanding citizens," was delegated to a special committee to be chaired by Comr. John H. Stroger Jr., a Chicago Democrat.

In his resolution, Stroger noted many recent news accounts which have raised questions of possible conflicts between personal interests and public responsibility.

He said in that other legislative bodies have taken action to establish guidelines and to regulate the conduct of their employees, he believes the county board should take similar action.

Stroger said it is necessary, for the effective operation of any governmental body, that the electorate have confidence in its government.

Stroger emphasized, however, "I have no reason to doubt the honesty and integrity," of any person on the board. He said he believes those in public office have the right to compete in the business world.

"When the day comes when we public servants can't think of our families, our businesses, our professions and still serve the public, this type of democracy will cease to exist," Stroger said.

Miller Matter: A Final Word

Radio broadcaster Howard Miller has attempted in recent weeks to engage The Herald in a bit of controversy because of a Nov. 8 editorial in which we criticized Miller, among others, for bringing pressure on Arlington High School to cancel a Black Panther forum at the school.

Normally, we would say no more, because the incident at the root of the situation — the Black Panther cancellation — is a dead issue.

But Miller, on several of his broadcasts, chose to keep the matter alive; directed blistering epithets our way; and — most recently — gave the impression on the air that The Herald had issued him some kind of apology.

Clarification is in order.

The basic thrust of the original editorial was that Arlington High School's administration erred in yielding to pressure phone calls by canceling an after-school, voluntary-attendance appearance at the school of two members of the Black Panther Party. This was to be part of a continuing program of speakers representing a wide range of opinion.

Our position then — and now — is that the school should have allowed the speakers to appear, that students should have access to many diverse viewpoints and should be credited with the intelligence to properly evaluate what they hear.

A part of our criticism was directed at Miller, who first heard of the planned forum in an on-the-air call on his Oct. 31 "talk show" program. He discussed the forum — with comment — for six minutes with the caller, after which Arlington High School principal Bruno Waara received several calls of protest about the forum. Two calls came from an aide of Miller, inquiring what Waara planned to do about the forum. The second time the Miller representative phoned, Waara said he had canceled the program, and Miller — with further comment — reported that on the air.

Miller insists he did nothing to pressure the decision at Arlington High School. But he specifically mentioned the school several times, had the caller spell Waara's name, and included these in his comments to the caller:

"I don't know what would possess a principal — and of course I don't want to sit in judgment of him unless I had an expression from him — but I don't think these men are qualified to present a philosophy to any boys or girls whether they be white, black, green or polka dot. I don't think they've done anything to distinguish themselves as a leader in the community. They preach a hatred, they certainly preach destruction."

"We have a great audience out there. And as a matter of fact, if you'll tell me the name of the school, I'll try to get in touch with the principal and find out what his philosophy is."

"We'll check it out and see what's behind it. I just don't think that these men — I think we should listen to both sides of all issues — but I think there are better spokesmen for the civil rights cause than the Black Panthers."

"I hope that what you say, if it is so — and I have every reason to assume that it is — that the parents of Arlington High School will concern themselves with this issue and see that there is some justification or some reason for a principal making that unilateral decision to have these people into the auditorium."

"I don't think it's over yet. We'll get an expression from Mr. Waara at Arlington High School."

Miller says these remarks, which are actual excerpts from a tape of the Oct. 31 show, do not constitute pressure and that all he was saying was that he had to get both sides before commenting.

There followed several calls from irate residents to Waara's office and the two calls from Miller's aide asking what was going to be done about the situation.

When Miller learned the student forum had been canceled, he reported that on the air; recounted how he had promised the original caller that he would contact the school and principal; said he was pleased with Waara and congratulated him and the original caller; said he had proved "public disclosure means something"; and concluded with, "This is what I call action, and this is where you get it."

When he learned of our Nov. 8 editorial, Miller called The Herald office and talked with the Executive Editor. Claiming that he had been misrepresented, he asked for an apology and printed retraction. Miller was told that a thorough investigation would be made to make certain he had not been treated unfairly and that his request would be considered on the basis of that finding.

Miller did not wait for a response, however. The next morning he went on the air with an attack on The Herald, its management and personnel.

Among his charges were that The Herald refused to listen to a tape of the Oct. 31 program (although at that very time arrangements were being made to listen to the tape), and that the people at The Herald didn't have the "guts" to come on the air and face him (although no such challenge or invitation was ever issued).

Miller's epithets included statements that The Herald practiced "yellow journalism," that some journalists are pot-smokers, and that Herald personnel are "castrated eunuchs." We can think of no reasoned response to such remarks.

After several more days of continued comment in this vein, Miller announced that The Herald had published an apology.

He was referring to comment accompanying the original editorial reprinted in Nov. 15 issues of weekly newspapers published by another subsidiary company of The Paddock Corp.

The weekly newspapers sought to clarify for their readers in Lake County what the continuing controversy was all about. They qualified the reprint by saying the subsidiary company had not "investigated the accuracy of the editorial insofar as it relates to Miller's role in stopping the Arlington program."

Miller apparently interpreted that as an apology of sorts. (In fairness to him, we can understand how he might confuse the weekly subsidiary with the daily newspapers, although they are totally separate and independent entities.)

The Herald has not apologized to Miller. It does not now. It merely presents this lengthy chronology as its final word and leaves it to its readers to judge what influence Miller had on the incident at Arlington High School.

Mail Insurance Hit

Score one for consumerism. A wave of complaints about the direct-mail selling of insurance is beginning to get results.

Some 19 states have either instituted or proposed varying kinds of curbs on companies selling supplemental health insurance by mail. Nine states have fined or have taken other actions against individual companies for misleading advertising.

Following a four-month investigation, as well as the example of numerous newspapers around the country, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners has ordered the drafting of model advertising regulations for adoption by state insurance officers.

The companies under fire typically offer hospitalization benefits of $15 to $50 a day, at a cost of between $50 and $100 a year for premiums. (Actual costs of hospitalization are approaching $100 a day.)

Criticisms center on the headlining of maximum benefits while playing down exclusions, waiting periods and limitations on payments for pre-existing illnesses.

Within the industry itself, criticism has also been brewing.

"Our entire industry is suffering from these direct response approaches," says Ephraim Weiniger, president of the Intercontinental Life Company.

"The consumer receives tempting advertisements in the mail encouraging him to deal directly with the company. When he buys his policy, there is no one there to explain to him what he is buying, how much he should buy, or how it will fit his needs."

People who have bought coverage usually don't find out what they have and what they don't have until they put in a claim, he says, with the result that state insurance departments have been deluged with letters of complaint.

These companies are not serving their own best interests, adds Weiniger, arguing that a properly motivated and properly trained sales force can gain more penetration of the market and still provide better service to the consumer.

Nevertheless, the mail-order way of doing business is in the American tradition. Fortunately, at least as far as insurance is concerned, the consumer will soon be able to know exactly what it is he is buying.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

She Explains UNICEF Program

Once again I feel I must reply to a letter appearing on your Fence Post page with statements about UNICEF which do not present all of the facts. The letter was from Mr. Malcolm McCallum and my reply is based on information published by the U.S. Department of State, a group which does not wish to support any Communist endeavors, and has investigated the very problems about which Mr. McCallum wrote.

Firstly, Dr. Ruchmann, to whom Mr. McCallum refers, was not the "chairman of UNICEF," he was the chairman of the Executive Board (from 1940 to 1950). As the State Department points out, this is a "position which carries no administrative responsibility." The position within UNICEF from which one might influence and influence policies is called "the Executive Director of the UNICEF Secretariat." As the State Department notes, "That position has always been held by an American." Every American citizen employed by UNICEF is subjected to a loyalty investigation by the U. S. Civil Service Commission. The State Department indicates that none have ever been found to be disloyal to the United States.

Secondly, the $10 million dollars to which Mr. McCallum refers was a loan by the United States to the UN (UNICEF) general fund in May of 1961. In December of that year the loan was repaid to the U. S. The U. S. subsequently made a $10 million contribution to UNICEF which was used for child-oriented programs. As a matter of fact, nearly all U. S. funds contributed to UNICEF are spent in this country for materials and supplies (rent, salaries, printing costs, etc.) and thus bolster our own economy.

Thirdly, while there have been UNICEF programs in South Vietnam, there has been no UNICEF assistance to North Vietnam. The money to which Mr. McCallum may be referring to is a total of $200,000 contributed to UNICEF by the governments of Switzerland and the Netherlands and earmarked for buying cloth in Japan to be distributed to North Vietnamese children. UNICEF has stipulated that the cloth be physically distributed by Red Cross personnel and, of course, has assured the U. S. that if the project materializes, no U. S. funds will be used.

The State Department has resources for investigation far beyond those of mine or Mr. McCallum's and that is why I prefer to take their word for the facts in these matters. As for me, Mr. McCallum, I would far rather the crates of polio vaccine be stamped "UNICEF" than "USSR" which is what a struggling country might have to resort to if there were no UNICEF.

Rolling Meadows Officials Lauded

The following is a letter which we would like you to print — so many people downgrade the police, fire departments and city officials that we feel they are to be commended and we have had two personal experiences in the past few months which prove that Rolling Meadows is an outstanding town.

Last evening our father who is 93 was choking when we called the fire department.

We would like to thank fire fighters Abbink and Schmidt for the prompt response to our call and their concern last evening, also the two fine police officers who came, namely Officer Hammer and

'Arlington Heights Won't Help'

Commenting on the letter you received from Thomas J. Storton about people who have no respect for other people's problem with their dogs, I don't think the board of trustees or any village official in Arlington Heights will help.

We have a problem with our neighbor, who has a dog run for a very big dog between our side entrances, in which part of it comes out an L-shape facing our patio. We do not believe this is a proper place for this, especially when it is kept very dirty.

We believe the village of Arlington Heights should have an ordinance where to put a dog run, which is usually in the backyard and that it should be kept absolutely clean. We have talked to Mr. Hansen and he has refused to even come out to see the situation. The building commissioner says there is no ordinance, so they can't tell these people to move it. The director of the health department, Mr. Charleton, says to put a fence or bushes; for it's a matter of sight.

We do not believe putting a fence or bushes is a proper thing to do because the filth is still there and this would make them pile it up more. This is a health department? It's a shame if we are fighting for ecology, environmental and pollution that this village closes its eyes to such a terrible situation, for this problem is a pollution and a nuisance. It is a shame that we have to seek help outside of our own village.

You, Mr. Storton, are so right and I quote, "People who are not willing to put forth the effort to be a good neighbor should not be allowed to own a dog."

Let's hope that somewhere here in our own village we can get help, for there are far too many people ignorant to the welfare of his fellow man.

Hofert Backs 'Right To Criticize'

Dear Nancy Cowger:

I read your news story. I, too, am a firm believer in the openness of meetings for the public to know. As I advised you, I was not at the meeting, so I do not know what was said. It was my understanding that it did not concern itself with the government of the village, but rather with a private political discussion. I accept your criticism in the spirit in which I am sure you wrote it — the desire that the public receive the maximum amount of information, and I believe that your right to criticize public officials is an important right, which keeps their conduct at a high level.

'Palatine Shouldn't Ignore Cultural Needs'

A recent visit to the Arlington Heights Public Library left me with conflicting impressions. The facilities, even though fast becoming inadequate for that community's growing needs, seem utopian when compared to those of Palatine's own cramped quarters. The type of creative programming so evident at Arlington, such as puppet shows, creative dramatics, junior high discussion groups, is physically impossible in our present outgrown library space despite the valiant efforts of our own librarians to expand services wherever possible.

As a result, I am writing this letter to extend yet another plea both to the voters and to the Palatine village trustees. Let's not waste any more precious time haggling over where the new library should be built; rather, let's re-examine our priorities. In a community where a rapidly-expanding population, highly-rated school system and mushrooming Harper College enrollment are realities, can we afford to delay further providing for our intellectual and cultural needs while we continue to serve our material needs by building shopping centers at an ever-accelerating rate? Who are the real losers?

Business Today

by LeROY POPE
Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The soft drink industry, one of the fastest growing businesses throughout the free world, is dominated by American brands.

A case in point is Royal Crown Cola, originated by a company in Columbus, Ga. Outside the United States, it's known just as RC Cola. "RC is the same in any language, like our competitor Coca-Cola," says President William C. Durkee.

Truth to tell, few of the American soft drink companies have bothered to figure out why there are no foreign giants in the business even though there are plenty of strong national soft drinks.

An economist undoubtedly would give two reasons for the global dominance of American soft drink brands. First, the huge size of the American domestic market, which favored the development of big, powerful companies, and second, the Prohibition era in the 1920s and early 1930s. Prohibition halted the legal sale of beer and wines and caused the soft drink industry to boom while, abroad, beers and wines continued to hold first place. By the time Prohibition ended, the American soft drink makers were so far ahead of those in the rest of the world, there was no chance for them to catch up.

THE ENGLISH Schweppes company is about the only important non-American international operator in the soft drink industry, and Schweppes is strictly in the higher priced field.

Nearly all the big American soft drink makers operate syrup plants and franchise bottlers and syrup makers around the world.

"They got started in the international market during World War II when American soft drinks, especially cola flavored drinks, followed GI Joe wherever he went," Durkee said.

RC Cola now is sold in 35 countries, Durkee said.

"In the last few years, we have expanded our marketing by franchising into Japan, Australia, the Philippines and Austria and have pushed into Canada."

This foreign expansion is only part of a recent comeback story for Royal Crown. The company was hit somewhat harder than other soft drink makers two years ago when the federal government slapped the ban on the use of cyclamates as an artificial sweetener. Royal Crown had gambled heavily on the low calorie beverage market and had 25 per cent of its sales in its cyclamate-sweetened Diet Rite Cola in 1969. "So the cyclamates ban hurt hard," said Durkee.

BUT NOW, Royal Crown has only 10 per cent of its sales in low calorie beverages sweetened by mixtures of saccharin and sugar. Durkee said the company is prepared if attempts to ban saccharin succeed — "We won't be hurt again."

As a further hedge against sudden changes in the domestic soft drink business, Royal Crown has diversified into natural fruit juices, acquiring Texsun, a Texas fruit juice processor, and Adams Packing Association, a Florida citrus packer.

Durkee says the company's brightest future is in the overseas soft drink market. He currently is surveying the Arab world. It looks particularly bright, he says, because the Moslem religion precludes large scale competition from beer and wines.

Consumer Credit For Autos Declines

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported on consumer credit and interest rates in the most recent issue of its Banking Briefs publication.

The share of consumer credit accounted for by automobile paper has declined over the last five years, while the shares accounted for by other consumer goods paper and personal installment loans have risen. Revised data published in the October Federal Reserve Bulletin indicate that automobile paper relative to total consumer credit declined from 31 per cent in September of 1967 to 29 per cent in September of 1972. During the same period, other consumer goods paper, which includes loans for mobile homes and bank credit card outstandings, increased from 21 per cent to 25 per cent of the total.

COMMERCIAL BANKS continue to provide the greatest volume of installment consumer credit, accounting for almost 48 per cent of the total in September 1972, compared to 42 per cent five years ago. Credit unions now also account for a larger share of the total than five years ago, while finance companies hold one-fourth of outstanding installment credit, compared to more than 31 per cent five years ago.

The number of auto loans reported for September by a sample of district banks was 38 per cent higher than the number reported for September, 1971. The increase in used car loans was 44 per cent, while the increase in new car loans was 32 per cent. Loans made directly by the banks accounted for 41 per cent of 6,425 loans reported for September 1972. The rest represented purchased paper.

For direct loans, contract balances were less than or equal to dealer cost in more than 90 per cent of the cases, a slightly smaller proportion than in September 1971. For purchased paper, balances were less than or equal to dealer cost on 88 per cent of new car contracts — a little higher than a year earlier — and on 76 per cent of used car contracts.

INTEREST RATES charged on selected types of bank loans to small businesses, farm operators, and consumers have changed very little over the first 10 months of 1972. Based on data from the monthly surveys conducted jointly by the Federal Reserve System and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., the most common rate on small short-term noninstallment loans to businesses averaged 7.44 per cent the first week of October, compared to 7.31 per cent in January. The rate on short-term loans to cattle feeders is virtually unchanged at 7.56 per cent, while the rate on loans for other farm production operating expenses has risen only 9 basis points to 7.72 per cent in October.

Consumer installment loan rates, reported on a Truth-in-Lending basis, declined for all types of credit except credit card plans. In October, the consumer rate on 36 month loans for new automobiles was 10.01 per cent — down 25 basis points from January. The rate on credit card plans edged up from 17.11 per cent to 17.23 per cent. On other categories of installment credit, the average ranged from 10.66 per cent to 12.70 per cent.

Insurance Firm Claims Cleared

More than 2,000 accident claims against auto drivers whose insurance companies went bankrupt have been settled in the last year through a special program, Chief Judge John S. Boyle of the Cook County Circuit Court, said.

More than 30 Illinois insurance companies have gone into bankruptcy in the last 16 years. The result is that thousands of accident claims against defunct companies have clogged the Circuit Court.

Judge Boyle a year ago assigned Judge Burton Palmer to head up a program of making a down-to-earth examination of each litigant's actual expenses in connection with his claim, and to consider his claim in the light of the recoverable assets of the defunct insurance company.

"Settlements based on actual expenses have been reached in 95 per cent of the cases," Judge Palmer said. "If a settlement cannot be reached, the case must await its turn for trial."

Except for the few cases where settlement could not be effected, the cases now being adjudicated involve accident claims from 1968 and 1969.

If the rate achieved in the past year of settling such claims continues, Judge Palmer said the entire backlog involving defunct insurance companies may be cleared up in five years.

THIS DEPENDS partly, however, on the speed with which liquidation proceedings are carried out against the defunct companies, he added. Seventeen of the more than 30 companies which went out of business in the last 16 years still are in the process of being liquidated.

American Motors Net Up

American Motors Corp. reported net earnings of $30.2 million, or $1.11 a share on a fully diluted basis, for the 1972 fiscal year ended Sept. 30. This is the highest level since 1964, and compares with 1971 net earnings of $10.2 million, or 40 cents a share.

Earnings for both fiscal years include extraordinary income tax credits resulting from prior year operating loss carryforwards, amounting to $13.7 million, or 51 cents a share, in 1972 and $4.7 million, or 18 cents a share in 1971. Earnings before extraordinary income tax credits in 1972 were $16.5 million, or 60 cents per share, compared with $3.5 million, equal to 22 cents a share, a year ago.

Net earnings for the 1972 fourth quarter ended Sept. 30 were $3 million, or 11 cents a share on a fully diluted basis, compared with $1.9 million, or 8 cents a share, in 1971. Extraordinary income tax credits for the quarter amounted to $1.9 million, or 8 cents a share, in 1972 and $1.4 million, or 6 cents a share, in 1971. Earnings in the fourth quarter before extraordinary income tax credits were $1.1 million, or 3 cents a share, in 1972 and $500 thousand, or 2 cents a share, in 1971.

Net sales in fiscal 1972 were a record $1.4 billion, up from $1.2 billion in 1971. Fourth quarter volume rose to $363 million, compared with $313 million a year ago.

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

It's doubtful that more than a handful of even the most astute investors have ever heard of Rufino Tamayo — who is merely one of the best investments of the last 35 years.

If you'd had the foresight to invest $100 in one of Tamayo's oil paintings back then, it would be worth around $37,500 today. He is one of Mexico's leading artists.

Or if you weren't quite that foresighted, quite that early, you might have acquired one of the works of Cordelia Urueta around 25 years ago for $125. It would have appreciated in value around 50 times, to a current price of about $6,250.

IT ISN'T generally appreciated, except by art buffs, that our neighbor to the south ranks high among the nations of the world in the quality and abundance of its 20th-century painters. Covarrubias, Rivera and Orozco are among its world-famous artists, whose work can't be bought today at any price.

They are among the Mexican artists whose work, since their deaths, has been declared a national property. Their paintings may not be removed from the country.

But there are many young painters in the country today, already recognized as important artists, whose work has been rapidly appreciating in value in just the past few years.

"The Mexican Investor," an advisory letter published in Mexico City, names several of them in a recent report Mexican paintings as a growth investment.

There's the 29-year-old Jose Luis Cuevas, for example. One of his small water colors which could have been acquired a few years ago for about $125 sold not long ago for $2,200.

Visitors to Mexico who'd like to own some first-rate contemporary art, combined with the possibility of its being a first-rate investment, will find the work of the younger, on-the-way-up artists in the capital city's galleries. The largest of the art dealers is Alberto Miraschi, followed by Ines Amor.

Sounding a note of caution, "The Mexican Investor" notes that "reputable dealers give letters of authenticity, stating that a work is that of the artist who signed it."

IT FURTHER cautions that only long-term investors should venture into this field.

"Paintings are not easily sold, so be prepared to have your investment frozen, and to give yourself sufficient time to sell without being under pressure. Painters can lose value and art investors their money. Also remember that paintings require care and attention plus insurance."

The real trick, of course, is to spot the work of an artist when he's relatively undiscovered. And that, the advisory letter notes, "is of course speculative, since the purchase of paintings from unknowns has a high element of risk in terms of future value."

Still, you'd have something better to hang on the wall than a stock certificate from one of those relatively undiscovered "growth companies" that never did make it, either. Investing in unknowns is risky whether they're producing paintings or some new electronic gadget.

The Doctor Says

What Is The Best Cure For A Fast Heart?

Dear Dr. Lamb — My problem is a fast heart. I went to the doctor but he said it isn't bad and really not fast enough to cause me to have a heart attack and that I should relax. He told me to stop smoking and quit drinking coffee and he gave me some D-12 and that was it. Well, I quit smoking for months and I didn't drink coffee. I drink tea. My heart went back to the way it should be, but I soon went back to smoking and drinking coffee and in the morning when I get up my heart beats so fast I get scared it will cause a heart attack. I am only 40 years old.

I am tired all the time. I have no interest in sex and my husband says I should see a doctor as I am not normal. At my age a person needs sex and all of them want it. I have been married to this man for four and one-half years and he is older than I and he has toughed it out without sex, but he says it is getting a little old now. Could this be from my heart beating so fast. Is it that I am just one of those people who don't need sex? I have been married five times, first at 15 years of age.

Dear Reader — My initial reaction is that anyone who has been married five times must have a basic reasonable interest in sex.

My second reaction is that if you would carefully follow your doctor's advice you might feel a lot better. You have already proved this once by following his advice for a period of time and noted during this interval that your heart functioned better.

It is perfectly true that both coffee and cigarettes tend to markedly increase the heart rate. Some people are more sensitive to those than others and may even have serious irregularities of the heart because of this habit. Your doctor gave you very sound advice and the real problem is that you didn't stick to it. I think you should gradually ease off the coffee and quit it entirely. Don't form a tea or cola habit either. Both also contain caffeine, the drug in coffee that causes the fast heart rate you complain about. Stop your cigarettes and start a reasonable and sensible exercise program. These things help increase a person's general sense of well-being and tend to decrease the sense of fatigue that you have.

There are many causes for fatigue, but if the doctor examines you and finds no serious medical problem, it is often related to one's living habits and, of course, one's interests in life. It is hard to have interests though, if you feel tired all of the time. So, why don't you go back to following your doctor's advice and start a regular exercise program, and it may improve your energy level. Once your energy level is improved, maybe the other aspects of your life will take care of themselves normally.

Incidentally, there are studies which strongly suggest that heavy smoking decreases sexual desire in both men and women. I should think this would be an adequate incentive to a large number of people to give up this useless and dangerous habit.

Fuel Supply Report On Agenda

Energy needs, power development and urban growth will be discussed at a Dec. 15 program sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry (CACI).

The program will begin with a panel discussion at 10 a.m. in the Pick Congress Hotel, Chicago. A luncheon will follow.

Noting President Nixon's warning on the energy crisis that is developing, CACI will present a report on essentials of fuel supply in Chicago, the Midwest and the nation.

Panel participants include: Willard

Ball, vice president of the operations division, Peoples Gas Light & Coke Co.; Frank Schorra, director of process research for the Institute of Gas Technology; Ernest Michelson, assistant vice president of engineering for Commonwealth Edison Co.; T. R. Eck, chief economist of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana; Gene W. Simpson, publisher of "Coal Age"; and Paul Gast, senior scientist at Argonne National Laboratory.

The luncheon speaker will be T. A. Phillips, chief of the Bureau of Power, Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C.

Harper's Dr. Maryann Miller

Her Goal: To Turn Women On To Learning

by MONICA WILCH

You always thought college was for students, didn't you? College is for the under-30 crowd, you said, and it means "matriculating" and dolly classes and all of that.

Well, that's not the way Dr. Maryann Miller sees Harper College.

"We're here to serve the community," she said in a recent Herald interview. Dr. Miller heads the college's Community Services division, which, among other things, holds seminars on executive and industrial management for area businessmen and small businesses.

But this is only one segment of the community, and Dr. Miller is presently trying to identify the other constituencies and find out what needs they have that Harper could fulfill.

"The learning process is so stimulating, and I want to see more people have that feeling of renewal."

INDEED, talking to Dr. Miller is a stimulating experience in itself, because of the excitement this accomplished woman generates. First successful as a businesswoman in the cosmetics industry, Dr. Miller decided she needed more challenges, so she returned to school and got her doctorate in education.

Now she has set about applying business principles to education — and paving the way so that businessmen, housewives, salesmen, secretaries, all can broaden their knowledge without having to formally enroll in classes.

But the most exciting and significant aspect of the community program, Dr. Miller emphasizes, is that the seminars are to be planned in direct response to the needs and wishes of those who will attend. Instead of looking through a catalogue and selecting a course from what is offered, members of the community are invited to tell the college what they would like to have in the way of seminar topics and speakers, and the program will be planned accordingly.

To this end, Dr. Miller has been sending out questionnaires to various professional or interest groups, such as medical assistants, managers of small offices, independent businesses, etc. And she hopes people will start contacting her with their ideas and requests.

"I COULD sit here in my office and try to second-guess what kind of help people need, but maybe I would be wrong and such information would be of little use," she said.

Although the seminars held so far have all focused on business management, as a service for smaller companies that can't afford to sponsor their own in-service training, Dr. Miller foresees leadership seminars providing instruction in regional planning for local government leaders. Seminars and guest speakers — who, incidentally, are experts brought from universities and firms across the country — might zero in on such problems as flood control.

Equally innovative are Dr. Miller's ideas for women, whom she sees as a special focal point of the program.

"Women in the northwest suburbs are dynamic and interested in life — but some don't realize it yet," she said. "I'd like to give the former some ways to use their ambitions, and help the others to discover their talents."

"WE ALL have more than we realize in personal resources," Dr. Miller believes, "but we don't know it until we're tested."

"A woman who can walk into a room of quarrelling siblings or playmates and settle the matter very easily, calmly and judiciously has the basic abilities to be a judge or a labor arbitrator, for example," Dr. Miller said.

Asked what she sees as the end results of the program for women — whether it will encourage more women to seek jobs and to leave the community during the day — Dr. Miller replied that this would be a decision each woman would have to make for herself.

"Some would probably go back to school, some might go into the business world or work with social ills, and some would want to be the very best housewife and mother."

And, she added, a housewife "can be just as successful as a working person. It bothers me that these women sometimes feel guilty."

FOR WOMEN Dr. Miller would like to see short courses — perhaps running eight weeks — which would meet one full day a week. She believes this kind of schedule would make it easier for mothers to arrange babysitting.

The types of courses, she hopes, would be "experiential learning, reality rather than theory." She would "make use of Chicago's many cultural opportunities, such as a tour of Frank Lloyd Wright houses."

"To see the wonderment of life" — that would be Dr. Miller's purpose for the women.

But, she says, she still does not know "what the demand is" from women, or how to reach the ones who haven't realized their potentials. She theorizes that some women are "fearful to do self-analysis because they are afraid they won't like themselves." These women won't come to the programs, she says. "They need a spark."

In her role as liaison between the college and the community, Dr. Miller hopes to find that spark that will "turn on" individuals who have got into a rut.

DR. MARYANN MILLER, Harper College's director of Community Services, wants to bring the excitement of learning to everyone in the community, but first, she says, the community must tell her what it wants to learn about. Another problem — "Some people think that because they have a gray hair, they can't be seen on a college campus."

A Little Color Goes A Long Way

For the first nine years of our married life, I have made a point of having nothing to do with the selection of my husband's clothes. I'm sure I was influenced by the thousands of cartoons whose humor was based on a woman making the decision about her husband's suit while he stood mute in front of a three-way mirror.

Since my husband never asked for my opinion, our mutual approach to the situation worked out well. If I ever did feel an urge to have him wear something more flamboyant than his usual somber style, I satisfied it by selecting his underwear because he left that purchase to me.

This past year, however, as my husband was desperately searching the store for a suit with pants that had front pleats and cuffs, I decided my role had to change. But I didn't announce this to him. There was no point in making an issue out of it. What had to be done had to be done.

LAST SEPTEMBER when his birthday rolled around, I bought my husband four shirts — a green, yellow, gold and white striped number, a bright blue one, a vivid green and one that is sort of a tattersall plaid of a very thin red stripe crossed by gray stripes on a very light gray background. When he unwrapped these, the children cheered, but my husband didn't say much — not even, "Take them back." I was encouraged that he might even wear them.

He did. Now he wears them all the time. Last Tuesday he appeared wearing one of his old white shirts, and before I realized the reason, I had noticed that he looked vaguely different.

"I can't find my red shirt," he announced, explaining his wearing the white one.

"Red shirt . . . red shirt?????" I was thinking hard. I knew it had been a long time since I had ironed, but it couldn't have been so long that I would have forgotten if he owned a red shirt.

"YOU DON'T HAVE A red shirt," I finally said with certainty.

"Yes I do. The plaid one. You know . . . my red shirt!"

Suddenly it dawned on me that he meant the tattersall with that faint line of red.

I was going to laugh, but I suddenly had visions of those pleated suit pants he had not yet bought. I assured my husband that his "red" shirt would be ironed that day. Then I couldn't resist. "You know," I commented, "red is a good color on you."

After he left I plotted the suit search he doesn't know we are about to begin. I grant that he's come a long way. But he sure has a long, long way to go!

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

IT WAS FUN making Christmas decorations and gifts for the Holiday Fair at St. John United Church of Christ, Arlington Heights, judged by the happy faces of Mrs. Clara Wolf, Mrs. Mel Landmeier and Miss Lonie Schober. The fair is set for Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with a salad bar luncheon at 11, noon and 1. Booths include baked goods and white elephants. Lunch reservations should be made at CL-5-6687.

Bah! Humbug!

How To Beat Holiday Blues

by CRAIG PALMER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Christmas and New Year's going to get you down again this year, leave you in a blue funk, feeling lonely amidst merry-makers or blaming yourself when the egg nog sours?

Well, don't think you are the only one, says Dr. Dean Schuyler, a psychiatrist with the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) who believes the "holiday blues" are about as common as Christmas trees and just as likely to disappear after the holidays.

"A very minimal stigma, if any, is attached to holiday blues because it happens to so many people," said Schuyler, who handled research grants in the NIMH depression section. "But it can get out of hand."

"Suicides are always a danger during the holiday period, especially with people who have made attempts before and those for whom Christmas has an anniversary significance — the death of a parent or friend during a previous holiday season, or the remembrance of a hospitalization at Christmas."

"AND IT'S A KNOWN fact that emergency rooms see a tremendous increase in people, not on Christmas or New Year's Day but the day after."

Suicide statistics and hospital records do not solidly support such assertions, but they nevertheless hint of holiday grief and injury.

Suburban Holy Cross Hospital, in a middle class neighborhood of nearby Silver Spring, Md., reports that its emergency room patient load increased the day after Christmas in both 1971 and 1970. In a study of suicides by day of the year, the government's Division of Vital Statistics found in one year that 43 suicides were recorded on Christmas Eve day, 42 on Christmas and 60 on Dec. 26. On New Year's Day there were 63 suicides and the day after, 73.

But most "bah, humbug" feelings during the holidays are less disastrous, and psychiatrist Schuyler offers a shopping list of ways to beat the blues that sounds like it came from a sermon.

"CHRISTMAS HAS a whole bunch of significances," he said. "One is the family getting together, a time when people take off from work, a lot of partying and drinking, a time of profound religious significance."

"One would think if the religious aspect were uppermost in people's minds, that the holiday blues would be reduced," he said. "Depression would probably be seen less often if Christmas were still a religious holiday."

Other Schuyler hints for joyful instead of doleful holidays:

—Show concern for others who might be lonely, ill or troubled during the holidays. "If we could get back to some of the feeling of Christmas as opposed to the commercialism, that might have an effect on depression."

—Enjoy yourself. But don't get your hopes up too high for unrealistic holiday benefits, like the magical healing of old family scars or the renewal of a broken romance.

—REMEMBER YOU can't handle any more liquor during the holidays than you can any other time of the year.

—Consider that the office people you party with at Christmas are the people you will sit beside in January.

—Don't necessarily blame yourself when things go wrong at Christmas but examine the alternatives. "There's nothing wrong with sad, angry, guilty, anxious feelings at Christmas," he said. "It becomes a problem when your self-esteem starts to drop and you feel worthless, incapable and inadequate."

—If the blues get too heavy, talk them out with someone you trust or a mental health professional.

Finally, if all else fails, remember that the holidays will soon fade into January, the month the bills come due from Christmas. There will follow, most likely, another kind of depression.

Lookin' For Tree Ideas?

by PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Here's some help for Santa's helpers who want something different in the way of holiday trimmings. It's especially aimed at those having trouble getting their motors to turn over when they press the brain button that turns on creativity.

One idea: A tree made of five dozen peach, coffee and juice cans? Holes punched into the sides of the cans take the shape of angels, candles, stars and other Yule designs. The tree of old cans (you can use vegetable cans, too) is lit from the inside via bulb on an extension cord or huge battery-operated flashlight. That is one way to solve the safety problems: dropping needles, worry about dry trees catching on fire.

For that idea and those to follow we are indebted to a new exhibition at the Hallmark Gallery in New York. The holiday exhibit is titled "Christmas is what you make it." As you might guess, from things on show are hand-crafted from Nativity sets to gingerbread houses. Consider:

—FROM MRS. Rosemary Disney of Rochester, N.Y. A wreath of 44 chicken and goose eggs. Mrs. Disney, a surgeon's wife, likes to decorate eggs and use egg shells in unusual ways. A holiday room setting by Mrs. Disney features a Christmas tree with decorations made from halved eggshells. The shells contain tiny figures of angels, choirboys, musicians, skiers, tyrolean dancers and manger scenes. Strings of quail eggs add a final, distinctive touch to the tree's adornment.

—Other trees are trimmed with straw ornaments, with grain stalks suspended from the branches via gold braid. There are the standards — from cookies to miniature children's toys.

—Hallmark's designer David Reep shows a wreath made of white and pink seashells.

—A Swedish wooden tree was decorated with white candles, the electric kind.

Santa Survey

Working girls or shoppers, blue collar employees and teen-agers, in that order, lead the list of contributors who drop their money into Volunteers of America chimneys during the Yuletide season, a 10-city survey of the organization's Side-walk Santas has found.

Officers of the national social welfare organization that has put bell-ringing Santas on city streets at Christmastime for the past 76 years say there's a good reason why businessmen are not among the top three categories of individual contributors. "There has been an increase in corporate and business gifts in recent years," they explained. (UPI)

The Home Line

Dear Dorothy: I'd like to know more about "newspaper logs" that burn colorfully in the fireplace. I know they're soaked in certain chemicals, but that's about the extent of my information. I'm quite pollution-conscious and want this only for the upcoming holidays. —Mrs. Rebecca Maus

Don't think you have to worry much about pollution with this one holiday sport. For those who don't know about "newspaper logs," these are made by rolling batches of newspapers into log form, then tying them loosely in three places with heavy twine. They can be treated so they burn with differing colors. Copper sulphate gives off green flames; calcium chloride, orange; copper chloride, blue; lithium chloride, carmine, and potassium chloride, purple.

These solutions have to be made outdoors and should be only in wooden pails or earthen crocks. The ratio is a pound of chemical to a gallon of water. If you want many colors, you either have to have many pails or start fresh with each chemical. One has to wear rubber gloves.

NEVER use chlorates, nitrates or potassium permanganate. Keep to what I've listed.

Allow the logs to soak for a day or two in the solution, then dry thoroughly. Pine cones can also be tossed in these mixes. The end result is often rather spectacular.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any nutritional difference between the dark and light meat of chicken? —Nancy S.

Practically none. The dark meat contains a little more fat, the white meat a trifle more nicotinic acid. White meat, one prefers, chicken contains a lot of nutritious elements.

Dear Dorothy: If you are planning a salad made of raw cranberries, freeze the berries before grinding and you won't lose all of the juice. —Irma Hightower.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, IL 60006.)

Career Pressures Split Family

by ALISON GODDARD

One basic premise of marriage is that husband and wife generally be in the same place at the same time. But when the wife has a profession of her own, togetherness isn't always easy. Outside circumstances sometimes force her to work elsewhere.

This has been the case with Dr. Ruth Weiner, chairman of the department of chemistry at Florida International University. Dr. Weiner works in Miami. Her husband (who's also a scientist) works in Colorado. Their four daughters — ranging in age from 8 to 14 — are divided between them.

"Our family can only get together during school vacations and in the summer now," Dr. Weiner says.

Ruth Weiner recalls that since early childhood she had been groomed for a scientific career by a biologist mother and an obstetrician father. After achieving top academic grades at a Baltimore high school, she attended the University of Illinois, where she majored in engineering physics.

At 18, she married a fellow student, then both went on to earn their master's degrees in chemistry. The year they received those degrees, their first child was born.

"ALTHOUGH MY husband was going on to get an advanced degree in chemistry, I planned to be a high school teacher. I guess I was setting low goals for myself then," Ruth Weiner says.

Her husband's adviser, however, offered her a fellowship so she too could work for a Ph.D. Being the second female student offered this opportunity, she decided to take it.

On completing graduate school, her husband found a teaching job at a Colorado university. When she herself sought college employment, she ran into "sex discrimination and nepotism," she says.

"I discovered the doors open to the male Ph.D. were for the most part closed to me. I also found some schools never hired women for their faculties. One university didn't even look at my application," she recalls.

Other colleges, Dr. Weiner learned, have nepotism regulations which prevent them from hiring the wife — if the hus-

Cheryl Stiles

Barbara Nuss

Mary Atkinson

Cheryl Chamberlain

The engagement and approaching marriage of Cheryl Stiles and Anthony Lanzaratta are announced by Cheryl's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Stiles, 15 N. Wille, Mount Prospect.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lanzaratta, 245 Park Lane, Palatine. He graduated from Forest View High School and Illinois State University and is a teacher at Prospect School.

Cheryl attended Illinois State but is now working for Metered Systems, Inc., Rolling Meadows.

The couple's wedding is set for May 12, 1973.

A June 1973 wedding in the Lutheran Chapel at the University of Georgia, Athens, is planned by Barbara Jean Nuss of Athens and Thomas Alexander Artelt of Mount Prospect.

Their engagement and marriage date are announced by Barbara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nuss.

Tom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Artelt, 1008 Greenfield Lane, will graduate from the university in June with a degree in political science. He is affiliated with Delta Tau Delta Fraternity. Barbara also attends the university.

The engagement of an Arlington Heights couple is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Atkinson, 2415 Kensington Road. Their daughter Mary will be married next June 2 to Wayne R. Sharapata, son of the Robert F. Sharapatas of 100 N. Rammer.

Mary graduated from Prospect High School and Harper College, then became a dental assistant for Drs. Bateman & Bradley in Palatine. Wayne attended Notre Dame High School, is now taking classes at Harper and works for Allstate, Northbrook, as a computer operator.

Cheryl Lynn Chamberlain and Randall William Pinchot of Palatine are engaged and planning a Feb. 24, 1973 wedding. The announcement comes from Cheryl's parents, the Harold P. Chamberlains, 1048 S. Brockway, Palatine.

Both graduated from Palatine High School, and the bride-to-be then earned a bachelor's degree from Indiana University and a master's from Northern Illinois University. She teaches fifth grade at Paddock School, Palatine.

Randy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pinchot, 2102 S. Roselle Road, graduated from Illinois Institute of Technology with a degree in architecture. He is associated with Heriel, Johnson, Elpper and Stopa Architects in Glenview.

Americans Set New Records For Dining Out

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans, though constantly watching their waistlines, are setting new records spending money to eat out, according to a leader in the credit card industry.

Based on official estimates of government and industry, national expenditures for food and beverages consumed away from home will be about $32.5 billion this year for an increase of more than 6 percent over the 1971 figure of $30.6 billion, says R. Newell Lushy, board chairman and president of Diners Club. The figures cover public eating establishments of all types, from gourmet dining places to coffee shops but exclude institutions and private food service operations such as employee cafeterias.

A survey by the company indicates the restaurant industry is making a comeback from the 1970-71 recession slow-down with credit card spending for dining and entertainment also on the upswing.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Heldmann

Ray Heldmanns Wed 50 Yrs.

A couple who have known each other since childhood days just celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. That's quite a record of long-lasting friendship and love for Raymond Eleanore Heldmann of Mount Prospect.

They met while in grade school in Chicago, the city in which both were born and grew up. They were married Nov. 29, 1922 in Chicago and continued to live there until moving to Mount Prospect fifteen years ago. And "home" is still at that address — 219 Hatten Ave.

THE HELDMANNS celebrated their golden wedding a few days early, on Sunday, Nov. 26, by attending a Mass in St. Cecilia Church, Mount Prospect. They renewed their marriage vows before their family and friends, with two of their brothers also taking part in the service.

Eleanore's brother, William Herrmann, acted as commentator and Ray's brother, Carl Heldmann, sang the "Ave Maria" as well as other appropriate songs.

Afterwards 150 guests greeted the anniversary pair at a party at the Camelot Restaurant in Des Plaines.

AMONG THEM were the couple's son and daughter and their families who also live in the area. Raymond Heldmann Jr. makes his home in Rolling Meadows and daughter Mrs. Marianne Hurin in Mount Prospect. They have given the Heldmanns seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mr. Heldmann had a long career in accounting before retiring and still works part time for one of his former employers at the Dominion Room, a tea room in Evanston. His wife taught piano for years and occasionally is called on to lend her talents to a young student.

Dust Upholstery Too

Upholstered furniture gets just as dusty as a table top. Only you don't see the dust. Try to remember it's there every time you dust other furniture. Run a cleaning tool from the vacuum cleaner over the upholstered furniture every time you "dust" other things.

Make Home On West Coast

A romance that started when Bette Neururer and Richard Cowan, both of Mount Prospect, worked for Dominicks in Des Plaines culminated in their marriage Nov. 11.

The couple are making their first home in California, however, since the groom is employed in Encino. They are living in Canoga Park, near Encino, after a two-week honeymoon in Colorado and Las Vegas.

Bette is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph E. Neururer of 1803 Estates Drive. She attended Forest View High School and Harper College, then worked for Industrial Research in Elk Grove until her marriage.

RICHARD is the son of Mrs. Mary Cowan of Mount Prospect and John Cowan of Florida. He is a graduate of Prospect High School.

St. Cecilia Church was the setting for the couple's afternoon wedding. Bette's attendants were all gowned alike in purple with ivory lace trim and carried nosegays of purple, lavender and pink flowers tied with matching satin ribbons.

Sharon Meir of Arlington Heights served as her maid of honor, with Diane Cowan and Mrs. Jean Kovacs, the groom's sisters, and Diane Miskovetz of Mount Prospect as bridesmaids.

THE BRIDE CHOSE an ivory peau de sole gown with a sheer yoked neckline accented with lace flowers. Wide lace cuffs accented the full sleeves, and the skirt flowed from an Empire waist to a long train.

The bride's veil was full-length, falling from a crown of fresh roses and baby's breath which matched the nosegay bouquet she carried.

Her 8-year-old sister Patti was also in the bridal party. As flower girl, Patti wore a dress identical to the adult attendants and carried the same kind of nosegay.

Ron Cowan of Des Plaines, twin brother of the groom, was best man, while another brother, Jerry Cowan, Canoga Park, ushered along with the bride's brother, Michael Neururer of Rolling Meadows, and Michael Gimes, also of Rolling Meadows.

After the wedding there was a reception for 160 guests at the Camelot Restaurant in Des Plaines.

Here's How To Announce Engagement In The Herald

Paddock Suburban Living department is often called by those seeking information on submitting announcements for publication. We print the following for the reader's information and help.

The announcement of an engagement is always made by the parents of the engaged girl, who may either fill out an engagement form at our office or submit their own information along with a wallet sized picture of the bride-to-be.

If a wallet sized photograph is not available, a larger one can be used.

Bring or mail picture and copy to the Herald office in Arlington Heights or Parents not using one of our forms may either write or type the information. If the announcement is submitted in hand-writing we ask that all names be printed to avoid errors. We also request that a phone number accompany the signature at the bottom of the announcement.

A glossy picture is preferable although a dull finish is acceptable. Color photos are used at the discretion of the editors depending on contrast and depth of color.

There is no charge for engagement pictures and announcements. Usually they will be printed within a week after reaching our office.

A Honeymoon In Florida

A visit to Disney World was a highlight of the Florida honeymoon for newlyweds Mary Lee and Joseph S. Hiett. The couple left for the warm climes after their marriage Oct. 28 in the Church of the Covenant, Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hiett

The bride is the former Mary Lee Laufer, daughter of the LeRoy Laufers of Arlington Heights, and her bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Margaret Hiett of Deerfield.

For the afternoon wedding, Mary Lee had her cousin, Bonnie Wolkober, Palatine, as maid of honor, with another cousin, Linda Bjork, Chicago; Debbie Hucker, Deerfield; and the groom's sister, Naomi Hiett, as bridesmaids.

TWO YOUNG cousins of the bride were also in the wedding party. Kathaleen Olaszewski, 6, of Streamwood was flower girl and Joey Wolkober, 6, Palatine, ring bearer.

David Nielsen of Racine, Wis., was his cousin's best man, while Warren Bjork, Chicago; Chris Maloney, Deerfield; and the bride's brother Roy of Island Lake ushered.

A wedding reception for 200 guests was held at the Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines, before the couple left on their honeymoon.

They are living in Buffalo Grove, and both work for Multigraphics Division, Mount Prospect. The bride is a graduate of Hersey High School, the groom of Wheeling High.

Local ESA Chapter Is Outstanding In State

"OUTSTANDING CHAPTER of the Year" was the top award given to Gamma Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha at the sorority's recent state convention. Representing Gamma Theta were Mrs. Donald Bernard, Hoffman Estates; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shanahan, Des Plaines; Mr. and Mrs. John Latko, Hoffman; Mr. and Mrs. Harlo Sartorius, Schaumburg; and Mrs. Allan Schoold, Hoffman.

For the second consecutive year, Gamma Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha earned the top award of "Outstanding Chapter of the Year" at the sorority's state convention held recently in St. Louis.

The award, in the form of a traveling engraved plaque, was presented to Mrs. John Latko, president of Gamma Theta, at the banquet honoring accomplishments in all 51 chapters throughout the state. Several members of the local group attended, along with three of the husbands.

To earn the distinction of "outstanding chapter," the women excelled in the three symbolic letters of ESA — education, service and association. The award covers philanthropic, educational and social endeavors.

IN PHILANTHROPY, the women supported Larkin Home in Elgin; the Bensenville Home Society; St. Jude's Hospital, Memphis, and its affiliate in Peoria; the Heart Association and Cancer Society. They gave both volunteer hours and money or equipment to these projects.

For St. Jude's Hospital, Gamma Theta conducted the first Teenager March

(TAM) in the area and initiated preparations for the second annual march. A total of 1,000 volunteer hours plus cash and merchandise donations of $720 were given in addition to the $2,001 netted in the first TAM drive.

Highlights of the chapter's social functions were a road rally, Chinese auction, "work your heart out" night and a crazy hat fondue party.

FOR EDUCATIONAL excellence individual members were honored. A state paper, ESA's Yours, was co-edited by Connie Schoold and Suzie Sartorius for the year's final three issues. Also, Gamma Theta hosted the Woodfield Area Council leadership conference in February, at which Mrs. Schoold and Mrs. Richard Shanahan, Des Plaines, were co-chairman with Mrs. George McArde, Arlington Heights, president of Alpha Nu chapter.

Next year's ESA state convention will be held at North Hills Country Club, Itasca, in October. The site was chosen by Woodfield Area Council which consists of seven chapters in the Northern District. Co-chairmen will be Mrs. Schoold and Mary Joy Gallagher of Delta Beta chapter in Lombard.

A Reminder To Brides

If wedding bells will soon be ringing in your family, we want to hear them, too. The Herald reminds brides-to-be of the deadlines in effect for reporting wedding news. Full information is printed on forms available in all the Herald offices.

For detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions) information is due within three weeks following wedding date. Information received in Herald office after three weeks and up to five weeks following wedding date will be used for a brief story only or caption.

Accompanying picture should be a black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of bridal pair or bride alone. At the discretion of the editors and the Herald photo department, color photos may or may not be used, depending on color tones contrast and clarity. Small snapshots are not acceptable.

We suggest the bride or some member of the family select a photo for the newspaper immediately upon receiving photographer's proof. Better yet — have the photographer make a selection and send it immediately to the Herald office. Any delay may mean missing the deadline.

If your photographer cannot comply without a photo providing information is in the Herald office before the deadline.

There is no charge for publishing this news.

Next On The Agenda

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Northwest Suburban Alumnae Group of Alpha Chi Omega meets today at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert LeFevre, 412 Royal Court, Palatine, for a puppet workshop and cookie exchange.

An annual service project of the group, the decorated hand-puppets will become gifts for the Easter Seal Center in Elgin.

It's Fashion

by United Press International

Pendleton Woolen Mills positioned feminine sportswear as a fashion headliner with the introduction of a sophisticated spring collection of wovens and knits. Contemporary classics, in wool and synthetic fibers, were re-defined with new soft ease and attention to fine fashion detail. Style development manager Dick Poth termed it Pendleton's most important spring line to date. Among silhouettes in the new line, standouts include: a sleekly tailored hacking jacket; a new short-sleeved shirt-jac; and a reversible cape and black and white wool check that is back to back with solid black poplin. The big three in skirts: a new reversible wrap in the check and black poplin; a box pleated one and an easy side-buttoned longskirt.

Clodagh, the successful Dublin designer, has a credo. It holds that "everything approaching nature is good and lasts and the more one gets away from nature the less good it is and the less lasting."

Fashion

by Genie

All those BP (beautiful people). How they wreak havoc with the wardrobes of all us common folks!

This fall when I needed a new winter coat, I shopped for a boot-length wool one, with tie belt and fur trimmed hood. The fur and the hood were two features I particularly opted for. I was with it . . . so I thought.

Now I find I'm out of style before I begin. In a recent edition of Women's Wear Daily, there was my coat . . . used as an example of what went out last year.

And if I'm outdated now, what will I be this time next year and the year after? For unlike all the BP, I can't afford to trade in my coat every year. But then again, if it lasts long enough I might catch the same style on its second go around. That's a laugh, of course. They don't make coats to last.

I CONTINUED to read on, for if my brand new coat is antiquated, what else can I be guilty of? The picture is very dim for all of us. Here goes.

The clutch bag has it. The shoulder bag is out. (I'll never give up the shoulder bag.)

Masses of chains and charms are definitely out. Simple beads or pearls are in. (I agree.)

Rings on every finger? Not anymore. Just a sentimental ring or two (That's better on the pocketbook.)

The wide jeans belt is passe. The narrow belt with simple buckle is back. (I'll still wear both, thank you.)

The Ali McGraw cap is out and the jersey turban is in. (A jersey turban? I'd feel like a fool.)

Hot pants are no longer welcomed. The short dinner dress is back. (Definitely.)

THE WHITE-COLLARED and cuffed shirt is out. The luxury shirt in natural fabric is in. (I'm still buying the shirts with little white collars . . . and cuffs too.)

The layered look shirt, tank top, blazer and pants are out. Monotone sportswear, the side-wrapped skirt and sweater sets have taken over. (What can I say. That last one dates my entire wardrobe. And I was just amassing enough layers to do justice by the look. Anyhow I hate wrap-around skirts.)

The turtleneck sweater is out. The deep V shirt, sweater and jacket are in. (I kinda think it's fun to switch off. Nothing can beat a turtleneck sweater for warmth. Tell the BP it gets cold in Chicago.)

THE ANKLE-LENGTH tartan skirt, ascot shirt and velvet blazer for evening are outdated. In its place is the sweater dress. (Well, that one I never made at all.)

I've often thought that the only solution is to buy just the opposite of what you see advertised. I'll place bets you'll be dressed in all the latest fashions.

I wonder what effect this has on the baggy pants. I'm just beginning to like them. I'm probably obsolete already.

SANTA'S HELPERS Scott St. Angel and Danny and Debby Rateike make decorations for "Lunch with Santa" event Saturday, Dec. 16, at Hersey High School. Arlington Heights Jaycee Wives invite area women and their children to the lunch, a visit with Santa and program by Sharon Kassel School of Dance.

A Lunch Date With Santa

Area children are invited along with their mothers to "Lunch with Santa" on Saturday, Dec. 16, at Hersey High School. This holiday event is sponsored by Arlington Heights Jaycee Wives.

Santa will appear, clowns will entertain, and a program is slated by a children's dancing school.

Admission is limited to pre-sold tickets which must be purchased by Saturday, Dec. 9. Cost is $1 per person.

Reservations for the 11 a.m. to noon lunch should be made by sending a check or money order plus a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Mrs. Donald Kirchhoff, 733 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights. For the 1 to 2 p.m. seating the same should be mailed to Mrs. David Griffin, 308 N. Windsor, Arlington Heights.

Hersey Bumps Falcons

by LARRY EVERHART

It's not often that the turning point in a basketball game occurs at a time when no one is on the court.

But that may have been the case Friday night when Hersey, with only a slim lead of three points after three quarters, smashed the game wide open with a 23-7 binge in the fourth period for a 70-51 victory over visiting Forest View.

The point at which the game turned around just may have been in the Husky huddle on the sidelines between the third and fourth quarters. It was then that Hersey coach Roger Steingraber announced to his boys that a couple of changes in strategy were about to unfold... one on offense, one on defense.

These changes — coupled with Hersey's aggressiveness and fine shooting and a cold spell for Forest View — spelled out the outcome as the Huskies won the Mid-Suburban League opener for both teams. Both are considered strong title threats in their respective divisions.

The pivotal changes Steingraber decided on were:

- Having his boys, especially 6-11 center Dave Corzine cut through the Forest View zone defense to get free for an instant for 10-to-12-foot shots which would have a better chance of going in than 20-to-25-foot tries.
- Switching from a straight zone defense to a combination zone and man-to-man.

Of the first change, Roger said, "By moving more on offense we were able to (Continued on page 6)

Lineup Change

Bratkowski, Huarte Next Luncheon Guests

It may not sound like good football strategy to any coach, but two quarterbacks have been scheduled to replace a linebacker.

In a lineup switch announced today, Chicago Bears' backup quarterback John Huarte, former Heisman Trophy winner, and quarterback coach "eke" Bratkowski will sub for linebacker Doug Buffone at the next Paddock Publications Pro Sports Club Luncheon Monday, Dec. 11 at Old Orchard Country Club.

Buffone will be in New York next Monday on personal business, and he expressed his regrets to the Herald for this late notice.

"Although we're naturally disappointed at not having Doug Buffone as advertised for our next luncheon," Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk said, "we do feel there is so much interest in the Bears' quarterback situation right now that it would be appropriate to have Bratkowski and Huarte as our special guests. They were very happy to cooperate and help us out."

"Bratkowski, of course, brings years of National Football League experience to his position with the Bears, and he should be able to examine not only the Chicago situation but also the upcoming pro draft and the overall NFL picture, including some comments on his former employers, Green Bay.

"Huarte doesn't have much playing time in pro ball but it's always an interesting situation to look at the quarterback position from the status of the backup man. As a former Heisman Trophy winner from Notre Dame, Huarte should also be able to give our luncheon guests some observations on the pressures of a Heisman winner coming into the pro game."

Bratkowski returned to the Bears this season as a coach. He played five seasons with Chicago after being a second round draft choice as a future in 1953.

Since 1963, he had been with the Green Bay Packers, a backup quarterback to Bart Starr through 1969; then two years as backup coach and, in 1971, active again as a player.

With the Bears, Bratkowski, who played at Danville (Ill.) High School and the University of Georgia, saw action in 1934, went into the Army for two years, then got in four more seasons (1957-1960) before he was traded with Erich Barnes to Los Angeles for Bill Wade in 1961. He remained with the Rams in 1961, 1962 and early 1963 before he was sold to Green Bay.

In 14 NFL seasons Bratkowski completed 762 passes out of 1,484 attempts for 10,291 yards and 65 touchdowns.

Huarte, a total unknown at the beginning of the 1964 college season, quarterbacked the top-ranked Irish to a spectacular 9-1 season, losing only to Southern California in the finale, 20-17. This was Ara Parseghian's first year as head coach at Notre Dame.

Huarte and end Jack Snow combined in a forward passing battery that brought both men All-American honors, and Huarte the Heisman Trophy before he graduated.

Huarte won that 1964 Heisman over such candidates as Joe Namath, Tucker Frederickson, Gale Sayers, Craig Morton, Jerry Ithome and Dick Butkus.

The quarterback with the rifle arm has not known success yet in professional football, and he joined the Bears this season from the Kansas City Chiefs to serve as the backup man for Bobby Douglass. He's waiting for his chance

In addition to the two quarterbacks next Monday at the luncheon, other guests at the head table will be Athletic Director Tom O'Driscoll and Football Coach Angelo Barro of Rolling Meadows High School and Mustang All-State linebacker Jack Lloyd. The Herald is recognizing Lloyd as the first All-Stater at the newest school in the Herald area.

"It's an accomplishment for any school to produce an All-Stater," said Frisk, "but it's even more significant when a school that's only two years old and has played only one year of varsity football has a boy honored. That's why we felt it was appropriate to recognize this achievement."

There are still some good tickets available for this second Paddock Pro Sports Luncheon, but another turn-away crowd is expected by next Monday.

Tickets are $5.00 per person, including tax and tip, for the program and a chef's steak lunch. For reservations, call Anne Chalikis at 394-2300.

Join "Zeke" Bratkowski, John Huarte and high school star Jack Lloyd at Old Orchard Country Club next Monday from noon until 1:30 p.m.

Knights Rock Meadows In Mid-Suburban

Prospect, Palatine Land Two Weekend Wins

by JIM COOK

It was the first opportunity Prospect head basketball coach Bill Slayton had to tour his dressing room and congratulate his players for a job well done.

After three straight losses to highly-regarded Evanston, Maine South and New Trier East, the Knights picked the right moment to break their mild slump.

The occasion was the Mid-Suburban League's season-opening weekend and Prospect chose two-year-old Rolling Meadows to end its frustration, 80-54, in the Mustangs' spanking new gym.

But even new gymnasiums have their faults and it appeared that someone had failed to remove the lid off the Meadows basket in the first half.

"That was just about the story of the ball game," Slayton said in referring to his Knights' commanding 40-16 halftime cushion. "Our offense went pretty well, although we didn't get a chance to run as much as we would have liked to."

The fact that Prospect's perennial fast-break game went awry is a credit to the scrappy play of the Mustangs who shut off the Knight outlet men and were hardly ever caught napping on defense.

"It took us 24 minutes and 10 seconds to finally start running our weak-side offense," Mustang pilot Ken Arneson explained. "We ran it pretty well in the second half," he continued, "and I think we almost played them even."

Arneson's guess was correct. The Knights outscored Meadows 10-38, but the Mustangs held a 23-22 fourth-quarter edge. That the Mustangs even came as close as they did is, in itself, an accomplishment.

Prospect maintained a considerable height advantage that blossomed into 30 offensive rebounds and two, three and sometimes four shots every time the Knights came down the floor.

Spicing the winner's attack was 6-9 senior center Tom Bergen who was devastating from all points on the floor. Bergen often dribbled the length of the court after sweeping the defensive board and either popped from the outside, drove through the maze of Mustang arms or hooked from 10 or more feet away.

The sandy-haired giant hauled down 21 rebounds, hit eight of 14 shots from the floor, cashed four of six free throws and led all scorers with 20 points in just over three quarters of work.

Another pleasant surprise in Prospect's initial season victory was the overall play of junior guard Val Graffitti who found his shooting eye for 14 points and added a strong floor game.

Val couldn't overshadow the play of counterpart John Hogan — a sophomore for Arneson who unveiled a deadly outside shot while pacing the Mustang scoring with 15 markers.

Bergen led the early Knight barrage that eventually produced an 18-9 first-quarter bulge. The Prospect captain hit on a 10-foot jumper and an offensive tip while adding a pair of free throws.

With both teams sporting man-to-man defenses, Prospect got the best of the pick-and-roll combinations by often winding up with obvious mismatches under the hoop.

Bergen added eight more in the second stanza and was directly involved in registering one of Rolling Meadows' two field goals in the period when he was whistled for defensive goaltending. Hogan cashed four of the Mustangs' seven points on an 18-foot swisher and a pair of one-and-one situation free throws.

The second half was reserved for frequent substitutions and a wide-open brand of ball precipitated by the lopsided score. Following Knight Gary Blasco's 15 footer to open the third quarter, the Mustangs reeled off eight straight points and sliced the Prospect margin to 44-26 with Jack Lloyd springing to life with six of the Meadows markers.

But Graffitti matched the Mustang flurry later in the period when the little playmaker canned three successive 12-foot jumpers from the baseline to pull Prospect back into a comfortable lead at 52-27.

The benches from both teams occupied the floor for the final eight minutes and by the time the smoke had cleared, Prospect boasted four players in double figures. Complementing Bergen's 20 and Graffitti's 14 were 11 apiece by forwards Bob Bostrom and Will Freeman. Pat Geegan and Gary Lesley backed Hogan's outside sharpshooting performance with nine each.

Pirates Dispose Of Saxons, Lions

by PAUL LOGAN

If Palatine's other injured basketball players recover like Jim Sander, the Pirates will have a lot to say about what team wins the Mid-Suburban League's North Division.

Sander, a 6-3 center, was a very doubtful starter earlier in the week because of a rib injury last weekend against Glenbrook North.

"I stayed home Monday because I couldn't get out of bed," said the senior veteran after the MSL opener with visiting Schaumburg Friday night.

The injury, which hurt his breathing, kept him out of practice until Wednesday. But it didn't keep him out of action against the Saxons. Potential starters Buddy Hughes and John Nyholt, both in casts on the sidelines, could attest to that.

Sander poured in 23 points, 15 in the high scoring first half, to lead the Pirates to an easy 83-65 victory.

"I personally want to make a comment," said Saxon coach Joe Breault. "Sander is a fine ball player. He does everything for them."

Breault was right, but Palatine's leading scorer and rugged rebounder had plenty of help. Rick McCormick, a quick, heady guard, quarterbacked the team with a lot of flair.

The Pirates jumped out in front 13-2 with McCormick dishing out assists on three straight occasions, Sander on the receiving end each time.

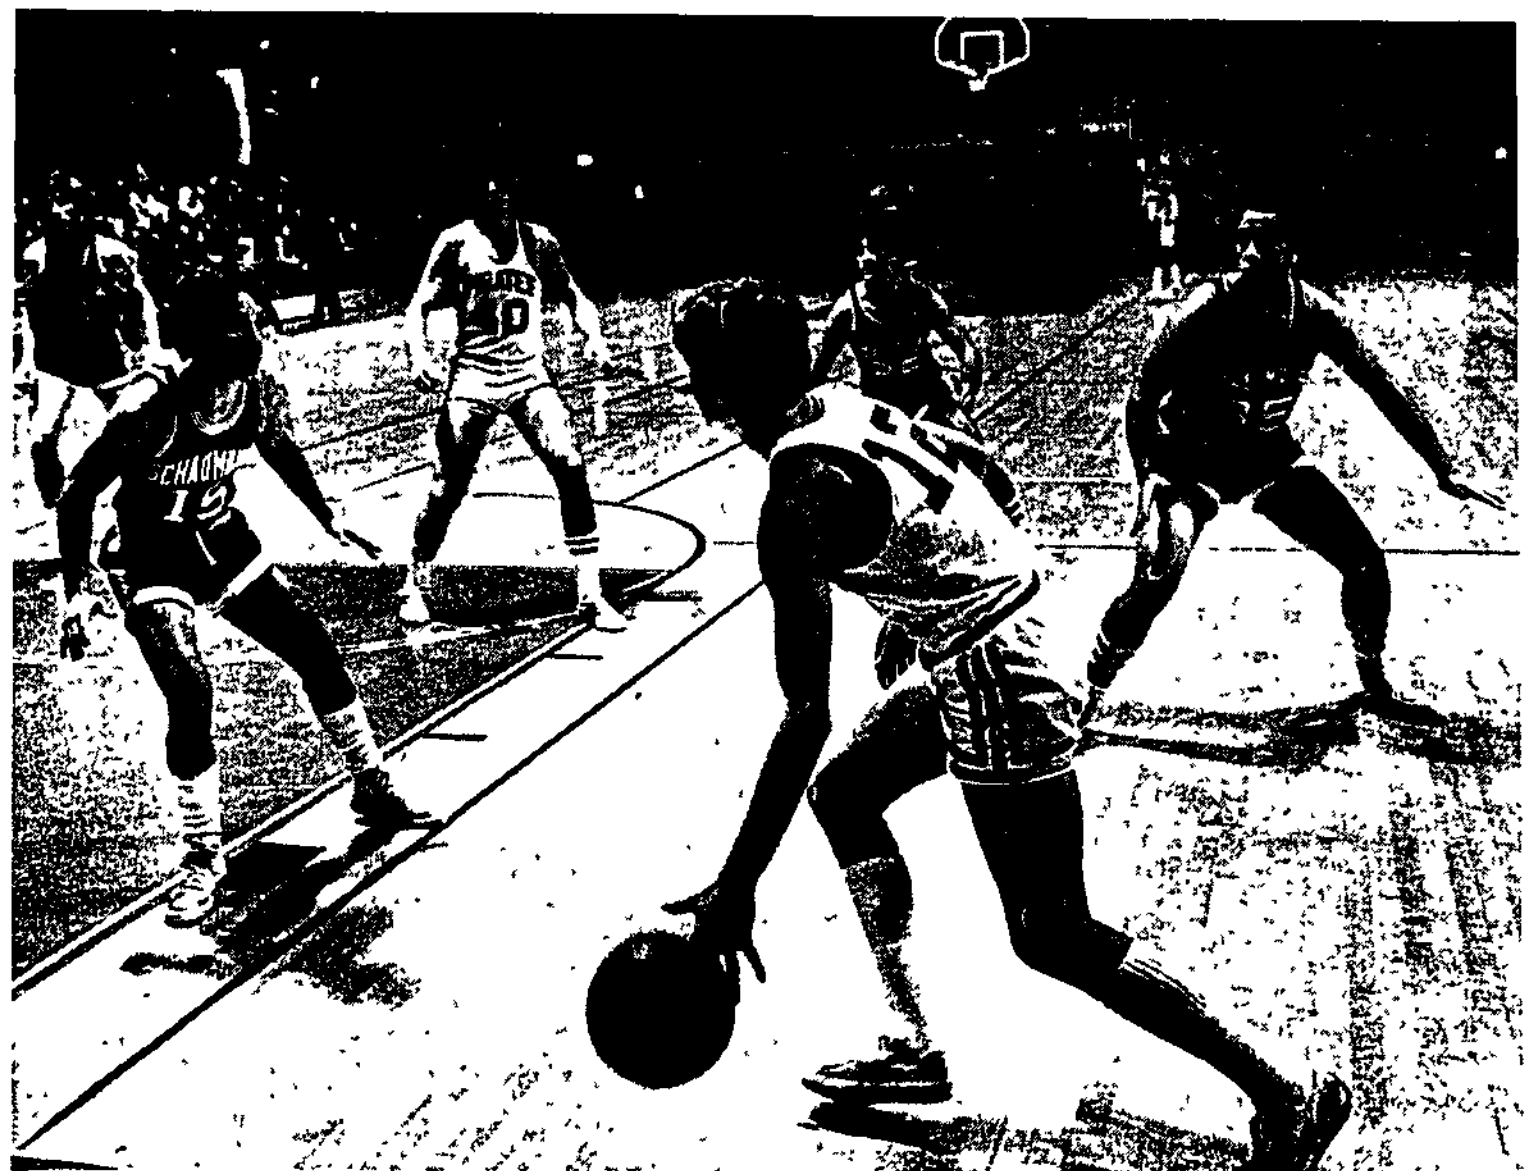

The Saxons, hitting seven of eight from the field in the opening quarter, stayed close at the first buzzer, 23-14. Then came the turning point, according to Breault.

"In the second quarter they went up 16 or 18 points on us," he said. "Then we matched them the rest of the way. That was the ball game."

Palatine, pouring on the pressure, harassed the Saxons all over the court. Seven turnovers helped build up the lead as the Pirates outscored the Saxons in the early minutes 15-6 to take a 38-20 advantage. The visitors never really recovered after that barrage.

Schaumburg trailed by 19 several times in the third quarter, but this young team didn't give up. While Pirate coach Ron Flitrock was trying to rest Sander and Jim Alden, who also had a fine night with 17 points, the Saxons staged a brief (Continued on next page) roared out to an early lead and maintained it in winning the Mid-Suburban League opener, 83-65. (Photo by Bob Strawn)

Prospect Tips Libertyville In 56-55 Thriller

by KEITH REINHARD
Libertyville's nifty outside shooters nearly knocked off Prospect Saturday night.

Nearly . . . but not quite. As it turned out, one of those hot hands beat himself. And as a result the Knights were able to hang on for a harrowing 56-55 triumph over the visiting Wildcats in the exhibition encounter.

It was Prospect's second win of the weekend after starting off this season by succumbing three straight times and they almost found their non-conference slate reading 0-4 when Libertyville came back to life after just about being buried late in the third quarter.

"I thought we had things pretty well under control for a while there," Slayton explained. "But they've got some great shooters on that team. There are about three of them that you can't leave alone for a second or they'll hurt you."

The one who ended up hurting himself, and his team's chances for victory, was none other than the 'Cat coach's son himself, an aggressive guard who had already accounted for 18 points when he came down court during the last half minute of play looking for the go ahead tally.

Bob Leon let about 15 seconds flee the clock before making his move. Then, instead of pumping the 20 footer, he drove toward the basket and with six seconds showing was nailed for an offensive foul that turned the ball back over to the knights.

It was also Leon's fifth foul of the contest and he watched the remaining action from the bench.

When the hosts subsequently took the half out of bounds, Val Graffitti was fouled and there were still six seconds remaining when he stepped to the line for a couple of charity tries. Graffitti missed both free throws, however, and it was left to Will Freeman to wear the hero's mantle by snatching the rebound and running out the clock.

The Knights probably could have prevented the guests from making a run at it had things gone right a little earlier. Ahead 56-51 with three minutes to go, they missed four free throws going down to the wire, were cited for a three-second violation and missed a five-footer from the baseline at 0:25 that set the stage for Leon's antics.

Tom Bergen, Prospect's towheaded 6-8 center and the game's most productive player, was responsible for the missed shot but Slayton refused to fault him. "It was a good percentage shot and he had been connecting from that range earlier in the game. If he made it, the game would have been wrapped up."

Even with the missed shot, Bergen's output for the evening was 21 and his 11 rebounds, coupled with 11 by Freeman and 13 by Bob Dostrom allowed the hosts clearcut control of the boards.

It was that domination which helped the Knights surge into a 28-22 second stanza lead after trailing at the one quarter mark by four. Prospect connected on four straight buckets to open the second period, Dostrom hearding a couple of them back in and later when Libertyville came back to knot things up at 20-20, Bergen tripped in a pair to spur another eight-point rally.

In the third quarter Bergen drifted outside to bag a couple more baskets as Prospect increased their lead to 31. He also connected on a fast break layup during that span, taking a nice feed from Graffitti, and screened a smooth jumper in the middle of the key by Mark Blasco.

The Knights might have widened the gap by even more then but they had very little luck at the free throw line all night, connecting on only six of 14. Fortunately, the Wildcats showed even poorer there, going one for six.

Pirate Gymnasts Open With 2 Straight Wins

The Palatine gymnastics team successfully opened its season Thursday with a tense 99-96 to 97-17 triumph over Naperville and quickly boosted its modest winning streak to two straight with a talented 78-13 to 65-66 victory over Rockford Guilford Saturday.

In a more realistic test, the Pirates under head coach Len Witter, hit their goal of "near the century mark" in beating Naperville.

Palatine won five of the six events with five different Pirates sharing the spotlight. Side horse ace Chuck Howes earned the first blue ribbon with a winning 3.15 routine and teammate Bob Schergen followed the performance with a 6.15 first on the horizontal bar.

Pirate Bill Snyder was next in line for honors when he captured the trampoline competition with a 6.35 and Ken Evensen copied the parallel bars with a meet-high 7.05 effort.

Dick Alcina put the lid on his victory with a 6.95 score on the still rings and earned Palatine's fifth blue ribbon in the process.

Schergen notched a second in free exercise with a 6.15 while Bob Gran added a 5.95 and all-arounder Scott Falkanger netted 5.9. Gran also notched runnerup honors on the high bar with a 6.15.

Lending support to Witter's parallel bar team were Larry Evensen with a 5.8, Falkanger with a 5.25 and Gran with a 5.65. Falkanger's 5.5, Dan Flick's 4.8 and Paul Sunseri's 5.3 bolstered Palatine's rings quartet. Falkanger averaged 4.76 in all-around.

Against Rockford-Guilford, Witter he-moned the fact that the judges were not certified and did not reflect scores indicative of the talent.

"I think the meet hurt us more than anything," Witter said, although acknowledging the fact that Palatine won. "They judged us 21 points lower than our Naperville meet and I couldn't see that much of a difference in our routines."

The Pirates again bagged five blue ribbons with Gran emerging as a double winner in free ex and high bar and Howes, Evensen and Alcina returning to the top in their specialties of side horse, parallel bars and rings, respectively.

rally. Missing their first seven shots of the final period, they cut the margin to 70-57. Doing the damage in that flurry were Bill Papestefan (4 points), Art Abraham (4), Joe Castrogiovanni (2), Trent Tucker (2) and Ray Kralicek (2).

Arden and Sander made sure that was as close as the Saxons would come with a three-point play and a pair of free throws, respectively.

Beault singled out the Palatine press and rebounding as the things that hurt his team the most. Although the Saxons beat the press for easy layups several times — a factor that aided their blistering 64 per cent field goal shooting — most of their 32 turnovers came from the Pirates' pressure tactics. Palatine held the rebounding edge, 25-15.

Finfrock was fairly satisfied with his team's play. He saw three other players besides Sander and Arden hit for double figures. Starters Scott Cole and McCormick had 14 and 12 points, respectively, and substitute Steve Kirk threw in 10 quickies in the final quarter. However, he wasn't pleased with the easy layups Schaumburg received because of his team's over-aggressiveness.

"No, if we win tomorrow night, I'll feel like we've got a ball club," said Finfrock. His team, now 2-1, had to play St. Viator in the always tough Lions' den on Saturday.

Pirates Impressive; Post 72-55 Victory Over Lions

by JEFF RAWLS

Palatine cage Coach Ron Finfrock is convinced that his charges want to and can win basketball games. And evidence to support his convictions is beginning to pour in.

Following an impressive opening Mid-Suburban League win Friday night over the Schaumburg Saxons, the Pirates crushed the St. Viator Lions 72-55 Saturday night on the Lions' home court. The win moved the Pirates' record to three wins and one loss.

Finfrock said his netters are an "excellent shooting, running ball club." He said, "They play good defense and are hustling all the time," adding that they are still improving.

"We will be in every ball game and we won't give up," Finfrock commented. "We will surprise a few people this year."

Testimony to the truth of these statements is apparent in the matchup Saturday night.

During the game, the Pirates continuously alternating their 10 man roster, connected on 28 of 66 shots from the floor for a 42.4 per cent average for the night.

At the same time, the Palatine crew forced the Lions into 27 offensive miscues, resulting in losses of possession of the ball, and drew 19 fouls, including five from one of St. Viator's big point producers, Dave Hutcheson.

Against the Lions Saturday night, Finfrock's five had an additional advantage over Coach Ed Wasielewski's unit. Finfrock said that Palatine's "superior height" was a key factor in their dominating performance

Combining the height with the other attributes of the team, the Pirates took early control of the contest and never relinquished it.

Despite a somewhat slow start, the Pirates grabbed a first quarter lead at 19-12. Senior Center Jim Sander, tallest man on the court and leading scorer of the night with 25 points, and Rick McCormick contributed six each in the stanza.

Hutcheson netted the first floor shot for the Lions, a shot from the corner with a little less than six minutes remaining.

In the second quarter, Sander and Junior Forward Jim Arden combined for 14 of the Pirates 20 points boosting the lead twice to 15 points at 33-18 and 35-20.

The Pirates made seven of 12 shots from the field for their best accuracy of the night while on the other end of the court, the Pirates held the hapless hosts to 25 per cent, allowing them five baskets for 20 attempts.

After intermission, the Lions tried to stage a comeback pulling the game to within 10 points at 41-31 but after a jumper by Steve Kirk and a jumper in close and a tip in by Sander the margin was extended to 16 points and the St. Viator squad never was as close as 10 points again.

With only three minutes remaining, the Pirates pushed the margin to 22 points at 63 to 46, outscoring the Lions in one spurge 7 to 2.

St. Viator's high point man for the night Mike Cook, who scored 17 points, made a three-pointer and Tom Chapman collected two free throws brought the margin back to 17 points where it remained at the end of the contest after the two teams traded two baskets each.

The game was a bitter pill for St. Viator's mentor Wasielewski after a 22 point shellacking which Carmel High School dished out to the Lions in Mundelein the night before.

Wasielewski commented, as he did following the Carmel game, that in-experience was the cause of the turn-overs, which he termed the key factor in the ballgame.

Conant Builds Lead; Fremd Rallies, Falls

by ART MUGALIAN

Conant coach Dick Redlinger repeated it a couple times. "I still can't believe it. It should have been a 40-point ball game. We've never looked that bad."

His Cougar basketball squad had just barely hung on to defeat a charging Fremd outfit 54-48 before a spirited Viking crowd hungry for an upset.

They almost got it too. The smaller Vikings roared back from a 19-point half-time deficit with a second half rush that left the Cougars panting.

Redlinger readily admitted after the game, "They outplayed us in the second half. You can't take anything away from Fremd."

The Cougar coach was growling a bit after the near-disaster. "We missed 10 straight one-and-ones," he complained. "We missed easy lay-ups. Isn't it something the way the momentum changes," he added, referring to the manner in which his team's errors fed the fire of Fremd's comeback effort.

The first eight minutes of action indicated that the Vikes might be blown off their home court by the bigger, stronger Cougars. Conant jumped off to a quick 6-0 lead and the score stood at 20-7 at the end of the first quarter.

Guards Mike Atkocaitis and Dick Southworth were directing a potent Conant attack which easily penetrated Fremd's zone. Steve Irion, the 6-foot-7 Cougar center, was impressing the fans with brilliant defensive play, blocking shots and snagging rebounds, and also netting eight first-half points.

Conant	20	11	12	8-5
Fremd	7	8	20	13-4

The first half belonged to Conant. They led at intermission 34-15 and the conclusion seemed predictable. It's a good thing no one went home.

Fremd coach Leon Kasuboske praised his boys in defeat. "We had them playing our game in the second half," he commented. "The first half was theirs, the second half was ours."

Kasuboske reflected on the preparation for the game. "We had scouting reports on them. We practiced all week working against their zone. Then we got out there and acted like we were scared."

The Vikings couldn't do anything right in the first half. They were committing costly turnovers, weren't getting any rebounds, and, worst of all, their shots wouldn't go down.

Redlinger, upset over his team's sloppy victory, received random statistics after the game which reflected his boys' performance.

"Coach, we missed 11 shots under-neath," one assistant reported.

"Is that right?" Redlinger queried, shaking his head.

"Fremd shot 24 per cent from the field, coach," another assistant intoned. "They took 78 shots."

"Seventy-eight shots!" Redlinger repeated in disbelief.

Yet the Cougar boss wasn't ready to junk his squad. "They played a really beautiful first half," he said. "They didn't make mistakes. We were just too eager in the second half."

Conant's zone press defense throttled the Vikings during the early going. But Redlinger relaxed the press later and it proved costly.

"That's my fault," he admitted. "We were tired. We had to take the press off. When we did, Fremd got a little confident."

Coach Kasuboske felt that his Vikes, though smaller, were better prepared. "I didn't think Conant was in very good condition. One more quarter and I think we would have won."

But the Fremd coach wasn't making any excuses. He mentioned that his team has played the same kind of game twice already this year.

"It's basically the same pattern as in our other games," he said. "We fell behind early and we have to catch up. The kids didn't quit. It's easy to give up."

Kasuboske credited Mark Funk with coming off the bench and firing up the Vikes. "I felt one boy — Funk — took charge in the second half," the coach said. "Our kids were dead."

Guards Funk and Mark Pettit commanded the Fremd comeback bid, stealing the ball repeatedly and setting up scores. Pettit tallied seven points, all in the second half, and forward Bob Youman canned nine second half points, 16 overall.

There may have been one turning point for Conant. Two big hooks by 6-foot-4 forward Dave Sutherland inside the five for Conant. Two big hooks by 6-foot-4 forward Dave Sutherland inside the five minute mark seemed to take a little wind out of Fremd's comeback sails.

Redlinger agreed that the buckets, which opened up a 13 point lead, were crucial ones.

By the end of the game, four Vikings had fouled out — Pettit, Funk, Youman, and Terry Whiteley, the 6-foot-2 forward. However, the Cougars could not capitalize at the free throw line.

Redlinger remarked, "I'd hate to tell you what the score would have been if we had made all those free throws."

Later, the concerned coach reminded his team that concentration was the key to good foul shooting.

Still, Redlinger was at least half-satisfied — he liked his team's first half performance. They worked well together.

Atkocaitis scored 12 points; Irion and Sutherland had 10 each. Irion grabbed 15 rebounds and Sutherland 12.

"Our boys can shoot and jump," Redlinger noted with pride.

Arlington Cashes At Foul Line

Stull Leads Cards Past Elk Grove

by KEITH REINHARD

Last year as a varsity player, Jim Stull scored a grand total of 13 points.

Friday against Elk Grove the six-foot Arlington senior topped his entire '71-'72 output in one 48-minute stint. And it was one of the factors allowing the Cardinals to trip up their guests in an exciting conference liftoff 65-50.

Stull plunked in a total of 20 Friday evening to lead all scorers, connecting mostly from the 15-foot range. But it was more the 'when' than the 'how much' which helped George Zigman's home-standing crew put a dampener on the Grove's aggressive style.

The rest of the damage heaped upon the Grens was done at the free throw line. Although Bill Parmentier's troops outgunned the hosts from the floor, they were unable to make up a 23-4 deficit in charity tosses and wound up absorbing their first setback of the campaign after an opening triumph last week.

The Cards, now 2-0, also earned an edge of seven in the rebounding department but Parmentier felt this had the least impact of all on the final verdict.

"The free throw line is where it was all decided," shrugged the Gren mentor. "We knew they would probably out board us and we were prepared to compensate for that. The personals killed us though. We had too many called on us and they were just too hot at the line."

Actually, since Zigman has been at the helm, Arlington has gained a certain measure of notoriety for its success at the charity stripe. And they did little to shake this image Friday in clicking on 23 of 28 attempts.

That was part of the story. Taking the run away from Elk Grove was another. And the fact that the visitors shot a sluggish 34 per cent affield and faltered on a number of inside shots, including fast break plays, didn't hinder Arlington's chances either.

Plus there was Stull. "I've pointed out before that Jim's probably our steadiest ball player," commented the Card coach. "He may not get 20 for us every game but he's never going to hurt us either. His play is deceptive sometimes because he's strong on defense and you don't always notice that."

Against the Grenadiers he was strong on offense too, and it was obvious. Midway through the second period Elk Grove had built up a 24-19 lead and appeared to be on their way.

Jeff Cleveland countered for the hosts with a 17-footer and 30 seconds later Brian Gaare rebounded Dan Donahue's missed shot and pitched it back in to narrow the gap to one point.

Then Stull popped a 17-footer from the corner to put his team on top for the first time that quarter. A short time later he hit again from nearly the same spot, was fouled and converted the three point play to put the Cards ahead permanently.

Elk Grove didn't know it at the time and they scratched back on outside shots by Mike Millner and Jeff Schroeder. At the beginning of the second half Bob Prince clicked on one of his 20-foot specials to trim Arlington's lead to 33-31.

A short time later it was 37-33 Cards but still close after Prince had struck again. Cleveland dropped in a couple of gratis throws after that and then it was Stull once more, swishing a couple 15 footers to help give the hosts their biggest command of the game, at 45-33.

The Grens rallied once again to trim that lead back down to 45-40 at the end of the third stanza, Rich O'Leary connecting on a couple underneath to help out. After that the game was settled primarily at the line, the Cards sinking 16 of 17 attempts during the last quarter to go with only two field goals — both by Stull.

Prince, in the meantime, had gone cold from 20 feet out. He eventually broke out of it by moving out to the 25-foot range to sink his final two buckets and Jeff Stewart came on with a strong final quarter that kept the Grove from drifting way behind.

But even though the Grens outthit Arlington 8-2 from the floor during the fourth quarter, they were a scant two-for-six at the free throw stripe and wound up being outscored 20-10.

Kaage Paces 'Cat Charge Past Glenbard

by DOUG PALM

"I couldn't have asked for any more out of him tonight."

Wheeling coach Ted Ecker sought to comment further on the performance of George Kaage, but those words seemed to aptly describe the value of the Wildcat junior in the Mid-Suburban League opener.

Wheeling, thanks to a second quarter spurt ignited by Kaage, prevailed over Glenbard North 76-60.

If the Glenbard North coach Terry True were to have commented, it would almost be feasible for him to have attributed the same or similar accolade to his own Mike McFale. It was McFale's play in the opening quarter that necessitated the heroics on Kaage's part, as Glenbard North moved into a slight lead at the outset, and brought the game to Wheeling.

These two individuals were, in a word, outstanding. To be certain they were not alone, but they were key factors to the hopes and performances of their respective teams.

For the first one and a half quarters Glenbard North refused to concede a thing to Wheeling. Thanks primarily to the accurate perimeter shooting of McFale and Daryl Feltes, the Panthers were able to overcome Wheeling's 2-12 zone, which prevented Glenbard from penetrating closer to the hoop for a more preferred 'percentage' shot.

Their inability to penetrate was offset by the hot hands flashed by McFale and Feltes, who hit on a variety of long jumpers for eight and six points apiece.

The tightly played first quarter saw Glenbard break on top first on a jumper from the right by McFale. Glenbard held the lead eight times during that getaway period. The score was deadlocked on six occasions, as Wheeling stayed close on the hustle of Scott Keenan and Pat Smith, who scored seven and six points respectively.

Keenan was filling in for Tom Marzee, who had been forced to the sidelines by muscle spasms resulting from a muscle pulled away from his shin bone.

After consultation with a physician, it was deemed necessary for the 6-1 senior to sit out this game.

Keenan did not hurt Wheeling at all, especially in the first quarter. He was notably effective on a turn-around jumper from the top of the key. In addition, his ball handling aided Wheeling's ability to stay close to Glenbard.

The Wildcats managed the lead only twice in the first quarter. The first time came with less than a minute remaining.

Keenan hit on a turn around jumper to deadlock the affair at 16-all, but in an unrelated foul away from the play, it was discovered that a number discrepancy existed in the Glenbard lineup. Therefore, a technical foul was levied against the Panthers, and Keenan went to the line and successfully converted the free throw.

The last seconds saw each team trade buckets, and the period end with Wheeling on top, 19-18.

Wheeling attempted to move ahead early in the second quarter on a basket by Pat Smith, but there was that man McFale again with a pair of 12-footers to regain the lead for Glenbard at 22-21.

At that point Kaage went into gear, and Wheeling started its decisive spurt. A left handed layup and a pair of charity tosses gave the lead back to Wheeling at 22-22 and it increased to 31-22 before Glenbard could manage another point. Kaage was responsible for six points in that spurt, and added several key rebounds at both ends of the court. This was a crucial factor in that Glenbard North was held scoreless for nearly three minutes midway through the quarter. The lapse enabled Wheeling to gain some needed breathing space.

Each team connected on six field goal attempts, but Wheeling made the most of seven free throw attempts, making six. That was the obvious margin of difference, as the Wildcats entered the locker room with a 37-30 lead.

The second half was simply a case of too much Kaage for Glenbard to handle as the rugged 6-4 junior forward tallied 19 of his game high 29 points. Statistics also credit him with 18 rebounds for the evening, and 11 in the second half. Wheeling, as a team, garnered 34 rebounds.

Kaage's performance seemed to act as a cohesive force for Wheeling's benefit as they increased their lead to 17 at one point in the third quarter.

Glenbard North was hampered in its attempts to maintain its earlier pace, as both McFale and Feltes fell victims to foul trouble. Despite such difficulties McFale managed to contribute 10 points to the cause. He and the hustling Vance Reed, who came off the bench, managed to keep things respectable for the Panthers.

Ecker has been concerned about his charges "jelling." During his post game comments this same concern surfaced once more.

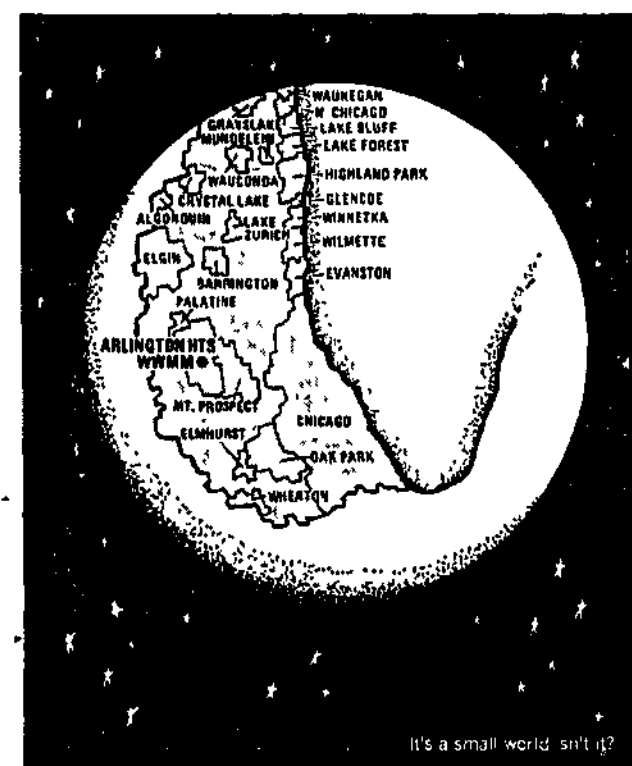

He could, however, point to that mid-second quarter spurt. That was indicative of the Wildcats' ability to put it all together.

Knowing it can be done is half the struggle. Two formidable opponents next weekend will further test the cohesiveness of the Wildcats, as Wheeling meets Arlington and Lockport Central, a team highly regarded throughout the state.

Enter our slogan contest and become a notorious WWMM-FM personality throughout the world.

Your world.

We're WWMM, your new local stereo FM station—92.7 on your FM dial. Right now, we call ourselves the UN-station. We're UNKNOWN and UNlike any FM or AM station you've ever heard.

We confine our news, programming and happenings strictly to your world, and let the rest of the world go by. But there's no way in the world that we are going to go through life with an UN-inspired slogan like the UN-station.

So UNleash your pen and enter our contest. If you win, you'll become world famous (your world, of course) for 30 minutes as a notorious personality on WWMM-FM.

You will also receive as first prize an FM radio which happens to be in the same cabinet with a 21" color television set. And your slogan will echo from Chicago to Crystal Lake, Wheaton to Waukegan. We can't tell you what kind of slogan will win, but we can tell you what won't.

Slogans that will not win our contest

WWMM-FM... the beautiful sound of Dr. Freda Kehm
WWMM-FM... the poignant new sound of the Voices of Love

WWMM-FM... the sultry sound of Jonathan Kingsley

WWMM-FM... the tender sound of Jack Stockton

WWMM-FM... the soothing sound of Bob Brynason

In other words, as you may have guessed, we are not an ordinary FM station. So it would be a good idea to listen to all of our programming to absorb the total vibes of our station before you put your pencil to paper. Make it a world-beater.

Here are our un-believable prizes!

First Prize

Co-host program with Dr. Freda Kehm, our child psychologist. Your chance to give advice instead of taking it. Plus a console model stereo FM radio which happens to have a built-in color TV and AM radio.

Second Prize

Co-host program with Jonathan Kingsley, our self-appointed sexologist. Who knows, you might teach him something. Plus a stereo FM radio that shares a console with an AM radio and a cassette player.

Third Prize

Co-host program with Jack Stockton or Bob Brynason. Be a cool duo or dudess. Tell the news. Play the music. Rap a little. Plus an FM stereo table top radio that plays AM for those who will listen to it.

Special Prize

Write a beautiful, touching script for delivery by the Incredible Voices of Love. Plus an FM stereo portable radio that plays on AM if you really have rotten taste.

And as consolation prizes for you born losers, we'll send out $2.7 (count 'em, $2.7) stereo L.P.'s to the 25 runners up.

A Night Best Forgotten; Maine South Slams Hersey

by JIM COOK

Roger Steingraber doesn't advocate two games on a weekend. It was easy to understand his philosophy Saturday night when the Huskies were overwhelmed by Maine South, 83-39. Even more frustrating was the fact that 6-11 Huskie center Dave Corzine was blanked from the scoring column.

"I think it's hard getting kids mentally prepared for two straight nights," Steingraber said. "We spend the entire week of practice preparing for our Friday night game and on this particular weekend, we couldn't even afford to look toward Maine South."

Hersey had its hands full with Forest View in an important conference test which the Huskies passed, 70-51 on Friday. But readying for Maine South just 21 hours later takes more than just a brief practice session Saturday afternoon.

Of course Maine South was in the same predicament, but head coach Bernie Brady's regulars were well-rested after hammering Maine North, 116-39 in a league bout Friday.

The Hawks caught Hersey somewhat dazed and seemingly tired with a brisk fast break offense and the most effective defense against Corzine the Huskies have ever seen.

Hawk forward 6-5 Bob Westman blanketed big Dave in one-on-one coverage while 6-5 forward Jerry Jones and 6-7 center Pete Boesen collapsed on the boards to shut off Hersey's touted rebounding game.

Senior Greg Hale tried to pick up the slack of the Huskies' scoring burden early in the contest, but a sprained ankle with a minute left in the first quarter and getting whistled for his fourth personal foul with 35 seconds remaining in the half forced the 6-6 forward into a conservative game.

Hale's heroics kept Hersey close and even ahead during the tense first period. Husky guard Mark Lephart hit his first two 15-foot jumpers from just inside the free-throw circle to boost Hersey into a 4-0 advantage, but South answered a 12-footer by Mark Conrad with a flurry of four buckets to assume an 8-6 lead.

Hale began swishing from the baseline and his three straight bucketies rallied Hersey to a 12-11 margin before the hot-headed senior twisted his ankle.

Maine protected a 15-12 first-half cushion, but after Greg Hougendobler sliced the Hersey deficit to 15-14 with a 17-footer, the Hawks reeled off 16 straight points without a reply.

Lephart finally broke the monotony a full five and one-half minutes later when he hit from 12 feet away, but South was well ahead, 31-16 and increased the margin to 36-18 at the half.

Hale and counterpart Westman from South took turns trading a pair of buckets after the intermission, but Jones spearheaded another Maine blitz with six of eight straight points by the Central Suburban League entry.

Never fully recovered from the 21-6 second period shellacking, Hersey fell into greater depths as Maine South doubled the Huskies' production in the third stanza, 24-12, for a comfortable 60-30 three-quarter bulge.

The Huskies remained out of stride in the final period as only Hale and Hougendobler recorded field goals during the nine-point outpour.

Maine South, though, was still running rampant and clicked for 23 markers including another streak of 13 straight during the middle portion of the period.

Jones and flashy guard Dave Harbeck led all scorers from Maine South with 24 and 20 points, respectively. Hale accounted for 18 of Hersey's points, but couldn't singlehandedly offset the Hawks' decisive 39-18 rebounding edge.

"They're a fine ball club," Steingraber said of South. "But not 44 points better than we are."

The disaster meant nothing to Hersey's hopes of capturing the Mid-Suburban League title. They're defending champions and have already proved themselves in a rugged opener against Forest View.

And will Corzine recover from the night of frustration?

"He's only a junior," Steingraber reminded. "He came through for us against Forest View. He'll be back."

Announce Dates For Three Paddock Bowling Tourneys

Eligibility dates for the approaching Paddock bowling tourneys are at hand with first place teams as of those dates eligible for the big events in January.

Men's event at Beverly Lanes, Jan. 20-21 will include first place teams of all men's leagues as of Dec. 23. Loop secretaries are urged to schedule time reservations at 394-2300 as soon as possible with entry deadline Jan. 6.

First place teams of all women's leagues as of Dec. 30 will be eligible for the Jan. 21 tourney at Thunderbird Lanes in Mount Prospect with Jan. 13 as the deadline for entries.

Leading squads of all mixed leagues as of Dec. 30 are eligible for the Champagne Tournament at Thunderbird Lanes with deadline for entries Jan. 13. Each participant will receive a split of champagne from Armanetti's Wine Cellar in Rolling Meadows, in addition to other awards.

Total of $2,668 is scheduled to be awarded in the three tournaments in event 93 teams compete in the men's event, 110 squads in the women's meet and 60 teams in the mixed.

In event of ties, it is up to league officials to decide upon a playoff or other method of determining exactly which team is eligible to represent the league.

In some cases, when the first place team is unable to participate, the second-place squad is eligible to compete. Tourney promoters are interested in having one team from each league in the area served by Paddock Publications, hopefully the first place squad as of the proper eligibility date.

Palatine Ice Hockey Highlights

Palatine Hockey - Pee Wee Division

The Palatine Jaycees retained their hold on first place in the Polar Dome league by defeating the Schaumburg Kings 8-1. The lone Schaumburg goal was scored by Ross, assisted by Baracca and Rogowski. Leading the Jaycees attack were K. C. Gullett with five goals and one assist, and David Anderson with two goals and five assists. Also scoring for Palatine was Andy McElman. Assists were awarded to Jay Bleeker and Mike Mikulan (2). Scott Vena protected the nets for the Jaycees.

The Jaycees ventured out to Crestwood, Ill., to participate in the St. Jude Holiday International tournament. In the first round they drew the powerful Chicago Minor Hawks. The Minor Hawks had beaten the Jaycees twice this season. The Jaycees opened the scoring early on a pass from Scott Vena to David Anderson who backhanded it in to take the lead. But the Hawks came back to tie the score. Both teams were checking furiously when Mike Mikulan stole the puck in center ice and broke in on the Hawk goalie all alone, and buried the puck over his left shoulder for the goal. The Jaycees then dropped back and played defensive hockey. With one minute left to play the Hawks pulled their goalie in a desperate effort to tie the score. Scott Vena turned back shot after shot until Mike Mikulan got control of the puck and slid a 190-foot shot down the ice to put the game out of reach. Final score, Palatine-5, Hawks-1.

The Jaycees' next opponent in the holiday tournament was the number one ranked Wilmette All Stars. The teams played well until Wilmette got a fluke goal which seemed to demoralize the Jaycees and the All Stars went on to win 5-0. Scott Vena and Rick Mitchell tended the nets for the Jaycees.

With one loss charged against them in the double-elimination tournament, the Jaycees had to beat the Elmhurst Huskies to remain in the tournament. The Huskies opened the scoring on an unassisted goal by Pluenski. One minute and eleven seconds later Mike Mikulan tied the game, unassisted. Midway through the second period Mike Mikulan stole the puck and scored for the Jaycees. In the third period the Huskies scored to tie the game on a goal by Steingard, assisted by Adams and Castro. The final score, Palatine 2, Huskies 2 with the Huskies winning the nod to continue in the tournament because they had four more shots on goal than the Jaycees.

With the tournament behind them the Jaycees traveled to Oak Lawn the next morning. The Jaycees defeated Oak Lawn 9-0. Scoring for the Jaycees were Fred Vitis assisted by Tim Cunningham, Mike Dalton assisted by David Anderson, David Anderson unassisted, Matt Kangas unassisted, Mike Mikulan assisted by Andy McElman, K.C. Gullett unassisted, Mike Mikulan assisted by Andy McElman, Ed Pika assisted by Mike Muratori and Matt Kangas assisted by Mike Dalton. Rick Mitchell was in the nets to earn another shutout.

Cards Suffer Setback

by ART MUGALIAN

Maybe the Arlington basketball Cardinals weren't expecting to run up against a superior team Saturday night when they paid a non-conference call at Barrington.

Maybe they were simply worn out from their Friday night battle with Elk Grove.

Whatever the case, George Zigman's Cardinals lost to the North Suburban Broncos of Coach Bruce Stahmer 46-42 in a defensive struggle marked by cold shooting and lots of turnovers. It was Arlington's first loss in three games this season.

Both teams had trouble getting out of low gear at the start of the game. Then Broncos guard Mark Heyse began hitting from outside and Barrington pulled away to a 21-11 halftime lead.

The 6'2" Heyse, whose 15 points led all players, showed an all-round ability on the court. He managed to do a little of everything, blocking shots, grabbing rebounds, and setting up scoring plays.

Coming out for the second half, Arlington changed their defensive alignment. Said Zigman: "We went to a full court press for awhile. I was hoping to get them moving with an aggressive defense. We did move better in the second half."

The Cardinals managed to close the gap, but not all the way. Barrington center Dennis Kelly, a burly 6-foot-6, picked up the second half slack with an assortment of close-in shots and some aggressive rebounding.

Arlington cut the Bronco lead to 43-40 with 37 seconds remaining in the game.

"Right at the end," said Zigman, "I think we had three chances. We could have pulled it out."

But 5'8" Bronco guard Pat Kelly sank two free throws in the closing seconds to seal the victory.

Barrington registered 10 for 16 at the free throw line and it provided the difference since Arlington hit 10 out of 12.

Dennis Kelly fouled out at 5:50 of the fourth quarter and 21 seconds later Bronco teammate Keith Klanner joined him. It removed a lot of height and experience from the lineup.

Barrington Coach Stahmer changed tactics at that point. Leading 39-32, the Broncos began to slow down the pace.

"After the big guys fouled out," Stahmer said, "we told the boys to play with the ball. As it was, we just held on."

After the game, Stahmer was elated. "That's two in a row," the coach reminded his team. "I wasn't too sure of our chances tonight," he admitted. "That was a big one for us."

"We looked tough on defense," Stahmer emphasized. "That defense was fantastic tonight. Our scouting report indicated that Arlington could be pressured into mistakes. So we decided to pressure-trap them. It seemed to work."

Arlington's Zigman saw things much the same way. "They alternated and switched on us," he said. "They went from a 1-1 to a man-to-man to a 2-2. We had a hard time, the young kids, adjusting to it. But we did better the second half."

"They're a physical ball club," Zigman remarked, describing the Broncos. "They gave us a good ball game last year and they've got five of six starters back."

"I thought we scrapped with them in the second half," the Cardinal coach continued. "Maybe we learned a lesson tonight. It'll be a good teacher for us the rest of the way."

Stahmer had high praise for top scorer Heyse, who had been in something of a rut so far this year.

"He has been our key man in the past," the coach related. "Lately, his shooting has been off. But he did a fine job tonight."

Arlington's high scorer was Jeff Cleveland, who dropped in 14 points, eight of them from the free throw line. Jim Stull logged ten and Dan Donahue eight.

Zigman took the loss in stride. "What hurt us," he said, "was we were a little flat in the first half."

The Cardinal coach admitted that the rough game the night before may have affected his team's performance.

"We didn't practice for this game," he allowed. "We practiced all week for the Elk Grove game. That was a conference match."

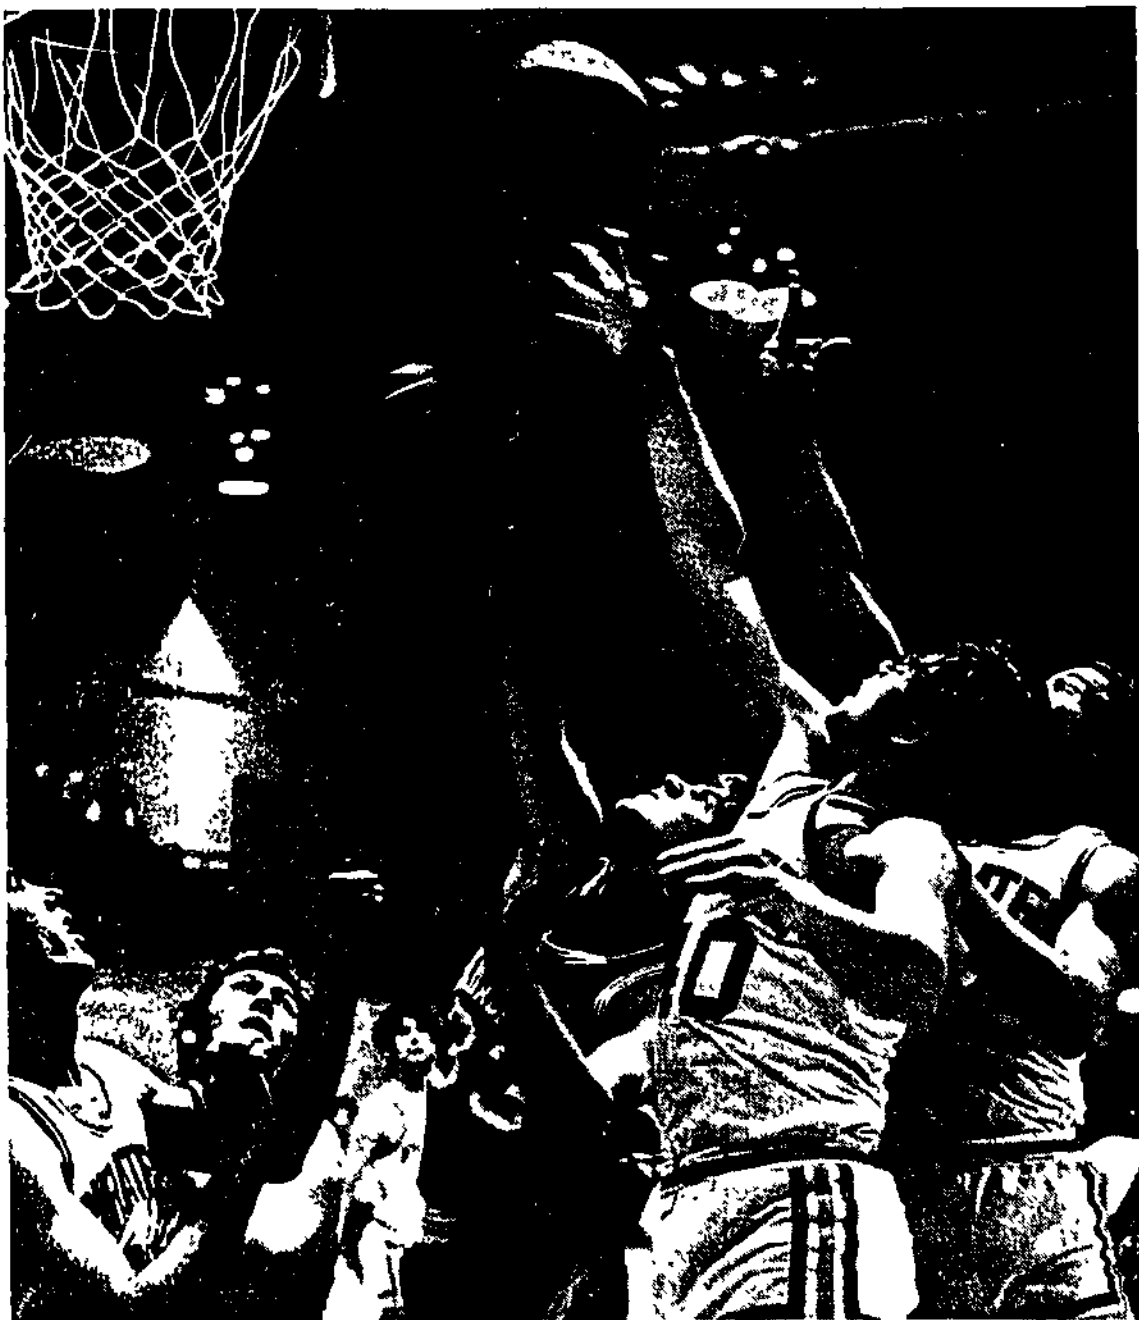

So Arlington took their first loss of the year at Barrington's hands. It was regarded as a minor upset.

Fremd Starts Fast, Gains 1st Win Of Season, 77-58

by DOUG PALM

How sweet it is!

After dropping its initial three contests of the season, Fremd decided it was time to shed some old habits for new ones.

Saturday evening before the home fans, the Fremd Vikings started quickly and never really looked back as they recorded a 77-58 victory over Downers Grove South.

An obviously satisfied Leon Kasuboske, the Fremd coach, was relieved to have that first victory behind him, as he reflected on his team's 1-3 record to date. "Our kids really needed the win. We had been beating ourselves lately," noted Kasuboske. "You begin to forget what it is like to win."

Fremd utilized a balanced scoring attack to jump out to an early 10-2 margin. 6-2 Terry Weber led the early going with eight points. The Vikings stretched that lead to 22-12 at the quarter, but they were not out of the woods yet.

Downers Grove, having made a few adjustments to the Vikings' man-to-man press, scored nine uncontested points at the outset of the second quarter to cut Fremd's margin to one at 21-22.

Within the next four minutes the momentum had swung the other way, as Mark Funk and Doug Mize paced the Vikings to a 36-23 advantage. The half ended with Fremd enjoying a 40-28 lead.

Funk, a 5-10 senior guard, scored seven in the first half, including two near length of the court drives to re-ignite his team in the second quarter spurt. He also turned in a fine floor game. Mize had five free throws among his seven points.

Fremd 22 18 21 16-77

The Vikings led 61-41 after three quarters, and thereafter numerous substitutions were made on both sides. Both teams had their problems with turnovers and fouls, but Fremd minimized their mistakes.

Kasuboske, in his post-game comments, was highly pleased with the performances of the first nine Vikings, especially the play of his guards, Funk and Mark Pettit. They ran the ball club well and broke Downers Grove early in the game with some fine outside shooting.

What pleased Kasuboske the most, perhaps, was that his team came ready to play at the outset. "We were about due for a good first half. Our kids finally decided to play basketball at 8:00, rather than at 8:15 or at 8:30."

Point-wise 6-3 Bob Youman led the balanced Viking offense with 12 points, while Pettit (11), Mize (10), Terry Weber (10), and Larry Coughlin (10) broke double figures for Fremd. Joel Yearlan and Kirk Kinnear topped the visitors with 11 points apiece.

Kasuboske and his Vikings will not have too much time to savor this long-awaited victory, as Fremd faces Rolling Meadows and Willowbrook in its next outings.

Pollitz Hits 31 In Grove's Triumph

by A STAFF WRITER

Ken Pollitz rattled off nine points in the first quarter as Elk Grove broke away early and then walked to an 81-62 triumph over visiting Fenton Saturday evening.

Pollitz finished up with 31, his top career effort, and Bill Parmentier's Grenadiers were able to snap back from a heartbreaking setback to Arlington the previous night and up their record for the season to 2-1.

The hosts had entered the contest under somewhat of a handicap since one of their starters, Jeff Stewart, was in Champaign Saturday night accepting all-state football honors rather than accepting passes on the Grenadier court.

But Bill Butler picked up the slack and the Grove was never really threatened, moving out to a 23-16 first quarter advantage, jumping it to 40-30 at midgame and upping it to a 58-42 bulge by the end of the third period.

Parmentier was generous with his praise afterwards. "The kids were feeling low after getting beat by Arlington but I thought they snapped back extremely well. Fenton's been beat before but they're not that bad a ball club. You can't let up on them."

The Blisons put up a half court one and pressed the whole game. But Elk Grove was able to overcome it with a redhot show from the floor, control of the boards and lots of running. Parmentier's gang shot for a torrid 58 per cent affield and the coach noted that it could have just as easily been 70 per cent except for the half dozen or so muffed fast break layup attempts.

In the first period the inside shots were going in though. Coupled with the handiwork of Pollitz around the net, Mike Millner picked off Fenton passes three times in a row to set up successful fast break plays.

"Mike played a key role and so did Bob Prince. Bob didn't score much in this game but he completely ran the game from the floor, instigated most of the breaks and assisted on any number of plays. Bill Butler also came off the bench to start in place of Stewart and gave his usual consistent performance. He's probably the steadiest ballplayer on the team."

While Pollitz with 11 field goals and a perfect 9-9 showing at the line, was early the game's top scorer, Butler added 16 points and seven boards to the cause and Jeff Schroeder accounted for 10 points.

Prince, Millner and Rick O'Leary rounded out Gren scoring with eight apiece. While these were the only scorers, Parmentier cleared off his bench in the late going and everyone on the squad got in on the action.

Inexperience Shows In Setback

Carmel Gives Lions 70-48 Lesson

by JEFF RAWLS

"I refuse to believe that they are 20 points better than we are," Coach Ed Wasielewski said after seeing his St. Viator charges blown off the hardwood by the Carmel Corsairs 70-48 in Mundelein Friday night.

Carelessness caused by inexperience was the key to the unravelling of the St. Viator Lions in their first conference tilt of the 1972-1973 basketball season, Wasielewski commented.

The carelessness resulted in 27 foul calls being lodged against the visiting five. This included 18 second-half foul calls.

Three of five in the St. Viator starting lineup and four Lion Players totally were forced to leave the contest early because of fouls.

Senior Mike Cook, playing in his first game this season after only one official practice, was the earliest man to exit through the foul route. Collecting three fouls in the first half, Cook sat out much of the second half actually only getting in long enough to foul out. The sole returning starter from last year's squad left with 0:32 remaining in the fourth quarter.

Dave Hutcheson, leading scorer for the visitors with 16 points; Fred Hallahan; and Mike Dwyer joined him later in the quarter.

The officials granted 32 foul shots to the Corsairs, including 22 in a nightmarish second half. The only thing that kept the score as close as it ended was that the Corsairs missed several first shots in the one-and-one situation.

The hosts, however, did outscore the Lions from the foul line 18 to 6. St. Viator only attempted 10 from the charity line all night.

The second half and especially the fourth quarter is a time in the season which Wasielewski and the Lions would rather forget.

During the first 16 minutes of the ball game, the Lions played their typical brand of ball, a controlled type offense and an aggressive defense.

Going into the contest, Wasielewski had told his squad that they would have to hold the scoring of the Corsairs' tall junior center Bob Svete down to about 20 points. Svete's scoring had been one of the major reasons for Carmel's success in their first four wins of the season.

Svete was held to nine points, three field goals and three of six free throws, during the first half.

Led by 12 points by Hutcheson in the same 16 minutes, the Lions took a five point margin with them into the locker room at 30-25.

With Cook on the bench when the Lions reentered the gym, Svete ran wild, taking charge of the backboards and scoring 19 of his total 28 points, and the roof caved in on the Lions.

The size of the Carmel Corsairs kept the St. Viator five off their defensive boards, many times resulting in multiple shots for the hosts.

On the other end of the court, a tight zone defense apparently rattled the Lions into many mental mistakes, causing numerous bad shots.

Lake County Whips Hawk Five Again

by A STAFF WRITER

It was supposed to have been a "new" season for Harper College because it opened up Skyway Conference play Friday night. However, the outcome had that same old look about it.

Playing at the Waukegan Armory against hosting Lake County, the Hawks failed again to get their first win of the season, 76-63.

Contributing greatly to their fourth straight loss was a horrid 18 per cent field goal mark (7 of 38) in the first half. This and too many turnovers caused Coach Roger Bechtold to call the game "probably our worst showing of the season."

"It's not that we aren't getting the shots, we're just not making them," continued Bechtold. "None of the teams have really dominated us. We're just not hustling and putting the ball in the basket."

"The turnovers allowed Lake County to take the lead and allowed them to maintain control of the game."

After trailing 34-23 at halftime the Hawks fell even farther behind Bechtold's substitutes brought Harper back to within 11 and "fought them to the end. I'd say Don Lewan did a good job of coming off the bench to hit five field goals," said Bechtold.

Lewan, a sophomore who prepped at Arlington, finished second in scoring to starter Steve Heidt, who tossed in 13. Following them were Chuck Neary and Scott Felge with nine each.

Felge, the team's leading scorer coming into the game, lost the ball a few times coming up the court and "lost his confidence" in the process, according to Bechtold. "He's played three excellent ball games and he's entitled to have one off game."

Neary was also signaled out by Bechtold for doing "a good job hustling and rebounding."

Harper "warmed" up in the second half to finish at 37 per cent from the field, but Lake County ended up with 48 per cent.

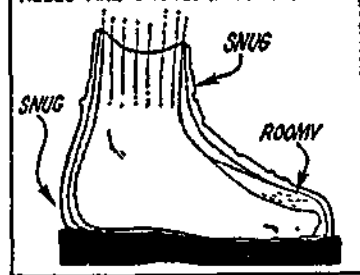

The Hawks, plagued by foul trouble, had very few fouls, but they also missed quite a few free throws. Of their 30 chances, they managed to hit on only 17. A good portion of them were on the one-and-one.

Conant Suffers 1st Loss; Lake Park Triumphs, 55-46

by LARRY EVERHAULT

No matter what else you do right, it's very difficult to win a basketball game when you step to the free throw line only five times all night.

As if Conant's Cougars needed this proven to them, they found out the hard way Saturday night in a non-league affair at Lake Park.

The host Lancers committed only eight fouls all night, not allowing Conant any bonus (one-and-one) opportunities until late in the fourth quarter when the verdict was sewed up.

That, as much as anything, spelled a frustrating 55-46 defeat for the Cougars, their first in four games this season and their first in four years at the hands of Lake Park in an annual series.

The hosts benefited from the new foul rule in effect for the first time this season, which states that non-shooting fouls result in possession for the fouled team, rather than a free throw, until the bonus is in effect.

Thus, it did not help the Cougars that they made three more field goals than the Lancers, shot a better percentage from the floor and dominated the boards in the second half.

All this was wiped out by Lake Park's sharp 17-for-21 shooting from the line as the hosts capitalized on 18 Conant fouls. A hostile visiting crowd loudly voiced its disapproval of many referees' decisions in the second half.

The game was on the rough and ragged side, an exceptionally spilt one for an early-season non-league match.

Conant had eight boys in the scoring column with a balanced output. Trouble is, not one of the Cougars cracked double figures.

Meanwhile, Lake Park was paced by a steady performance from its 6-7 center Scott Haney, who easily took honors with 21 points, including seven for eight from the line. Another key figure for the hosts was aggressive, quick six-foot guard Kurt Steger with 13 points.

"Lake Park was more aggressive than we were," admitted Conant coach Dick Redlinger, an unusual truth considering the team foul totals. "They pressured us on defense but we should have taken more shots from outside. We had three big kids underneath to rebound, but they didn't get the chance to."

Those three — Steve Irion, Roger Sander and Dave Sutherland — did a fine job on the defensive boards in the second half to keep Conant in striking distance when Lake Park's shooting cooled off. It had been red-hot in the first half.

The first quarter of any game isn't usually decisive, but it was in this one. Lake Park suddenly began to press full-court after the first two minutes and Conant surrendered a rash of turnovers.

The Cougars managed only one field goal in a spell of six and a half minutes, turning a 4-4 score into a 19-8 Lancer command after one period. Haney had almost half of his points (10) in that quarter alone.

Conant outscored the Lancers the rest of the way, but the big early margin held up. The Cougars could never get closer than nine until the last minute when it was too late.

Another surprise was pulled by the hosts when they went into a stall in the second quarter to protect their lead. The biggest margin stood at 25-10 and it was 27-14 at halftime.

Conant opened up and began playing with more gusto after the break, but Lake Park held its distance with the bullseye free-throw shooting. The other big factor was the Cougars' total of 14 turnovers.

Conant will take its 3-1 record to Prospect in a big South Division game this Friday, then will stay on the road for another non-league clash at East Leyden the next evening.

get the ball to Dave on the weak side for good shots."

Result: Corzine and Greg Hale together hit four quick baskets while blanking the Falcons. The score never again was close.

The defensive alteration, Steingraber felt, "seemed to confuse them (Forest View) because we had stayed in the zone the first three quarters."

Result: The Falcons managed only one point from the break until 1:40 remained in the game while Hersey was ringing up 12.

All of a sudden, a 47-41 game had turned into a 39-45 one and the Huskies coasted from there with flawless free-throw shooting after necessary Forest View fouls.

In fact, the winners' charity tossing was incredible throughout the evening. They sank all 15 of their free throws in the second half and 20 out of 22 for the game.

There were other reasons for the final score. Like Corzine's game-high 25 points, 19 of them in the second half. Like Hersey's much more accurate shooting from the floor — 53 per cent (25 of 42) to 42 per cent (21 of 50). Like Corzine's 10-for-12 showing from the field.

It was no accident, though, that Forest View made things uncomfortable for the hosts through three quarters. Don Woodsmall, 6-5 forward, led the attack with 19 points (seven of nine from the line) and Rick Haaning added 15.

Haaning, the other forward at 6-4, personally kept the Falcons in the game in the first quarter with its first nine points of the game. He was seven-for-10 for the evening.

Hersey had jumped to a 6-0 lead with Forest View unable to score through the first three minutes. Then Haaning went to work with three straight rebound baskets and a long one.

But even that flurry was topped in a personal shootout for the period by Hersey's 6-0 guard John Kanellis. He sizzled in those first eight minutes with five swishes, all from way outside, including one in the last second of the quarter!

The Falcons managed to slow down Kanellis after that, but not the rest of the Huskies. Corzine's three buckets led them to a 28-19 advantage before Woodsmall's three-point play and five more quick points cut it to 30-27. Woodsmall had 11 points in the second quarter.

It remained tight in the third period, as Haaning put through three more baskets. But Corzine kept Hersey ahead with his own 11-point tear and it was 47-44 entering the final session.

Then came the telltale strategic changes — which soon materialized on the scoreboard.

Steingraber summed up: "I was real pleased with our kids tonight. They played tough defense and our guards (Kevin Lephart and Kanellis) were hitting from outside against our zone."

"We should be getting Corzine even more shots, and we'll be working on that."

14 Families Left Homeless

$300,000 Fire Rips Complex

by CAROL RHYNE

Some residents of the Terrace Apartment complex at 902 Ridge Sq., Elk Grove Village, returned to their homes yesterday in the wake of a $300,000 fire that raged through their building early Saturday injuring two persons and leaving 14 families homeless.

A spokesman for Baird and Warner building management company said yesterday that some families were being allowed to move back into the three-story building as soon as water could be vacuumed out of carpeting. He added that in badly damaged units residents were offered accommodations in other apartments in the complex.

"We hope to have the people in partially damaged apartments back in their homes by Christmas, but it may take a couple of months to repair the units that were completely gutted," he said. The spokesman added that only 14 of the 54 units in the L-shaped building were uninhabitable. Many residents in the fire-damaged building chose to remain in their apartments during the weekend.

ELK GROVE Village Fire Chief Allen Hulet said the fire was started by a cigarette discarded in an overstuffed chair in Apartment 208, belonging to Patrick Fairman. He said occupants of the apartment pushed the burning chair onto the balcony, where the flames ignited the balcony above and spread to the roof.

Hulet said Donald Brady was rescued from a bedroom window of the burning apartment by a ladder truck. He was taken to Alexian Brothers Medical Center in the village where he was treated and released.

Other occupants evacuated the burning building through the hallways and out the exits.

Fireman David McCulla, 32, sustained cuts on his hands while fighting the fire inside the building. He also was treated and released at Alexian hospital.

HULET SAID the fire was brought under control in 1½ hours with the help of 13 fire departments and a Civil Defense unit from as far away as Skokie, including equipment from Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Buffalo Grove. Engines from Des Plaines and Palatine stood by at Elk Grove Village stations in case of a simultaneous emergency.

Most of the damage was to second and third-floor apartments, with the first floor sustaining mainly water damage. Firemen said five apartments were totally destroyed, six were severely damaged and 21 units sustained water damage. Damage was estimated at $200,000 to the building and $1,000 for contents.

According to Hulet, the fire was prevented from spreading to more apartments by "fire walls" in the building that blocked the passage of the blaze. He said the occupants of the building and the fire department were notified of the blaze by an alarm system that it activated by smoke.

Twelve families left homeless by the fire were given shelter at the Holiday Inn in the village while others stayed with friends and relatives.

A PARTIAL list of residents made homeless by the fire include: Theresa Molnar, Ismail Loghel, Cynthia Phillips, Dr. Pollner, Lynn Lombardo, T. Dacey, Vance Olson, Gerald Estinosa, Naji Lughod, Lorraine Leahy, Kenneth Wallock, Ellen Hill, Robert Portnoy, Ronald Saenger, Margaret and Debbie Henline, J. Crist, C. Felsted, David Mills, Michael McNew, Paul Wavra, L. Schlegel and Edward Haskell.

Hulet said the fire Saturday was very comparable to a blaze in the same apartment complex at 912 Ridge Sq. in January, which caused $207,000 damage. He said he based the weekend's damage estimate on the January fire.

A WEEKEND FIRE that caused $300,000 damage and left 14 families homeless at the Terrace Apartments, 902 Ridge Sq., Elk Grove Village, was caused by a carelessly discarded cigarette, according to fire department officials. Here firemen survey the damage in the unit where the blaze started.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE FIREMEN fought a $300,000 blaze at the Terrace Apartments, 902 Ridge Sq. for 1½ hours Saturday before the fire was brought under control. Some 13 fire departments from neighboring communities and a Civil Defense unit responded to the fire. A nearby motel supplied temporary housing for the homeless.

Magnet Wire Pollution System In Full Operation

Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. officials reported last week that the newly installed air pollution control system at the company's Elk Grove Village plant is in full operation.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said company spokesmen told him and representatives from the Illinois Attorney General's office at a hearing that the after-burners of the system had been turned on and the pollution abatement equipment was now working.

Hofert said another hearing was set for Dec. 20 to approve testing procedures of the equipment and to draw up a schedule for that testing.

The equipment installed at the plant at 901 Chase Ave. is a direct fire incinerator designed to burn off 95 per cent of the odor-producing phenolic compounds. The equipment was to have been operational by Oct. 15, but the company received an extension of the deadline because of delays in receiving some materials for the system.

AN AGREEMENT to install the equipment was made last March among the company, the village and the state to settle an air pollution suit and countersuit filed last year in Cook County Circuit Court. The agreement required Magnet Wire to install devices that would eliminate 95 per cent of the odor emitted by the plant.

Federal Flood Loan Payouts To Be Less Than Expected

Federal flood disaster relief to Elk Grove Village will be less than one fourth the amount originally announced.

Village Mgr. Charles Willis said last week the village will be eligible to receive only $44,825 in federal relief to recover losses from the Aug. 25 flood. In October Elk Grove Village officials had said they expected the village to be eligible for more than $200,000 in aid.

The lower amount stems from a review of original damage estimates and on-site inspections of the damage.

Willis said officials from the Office of Emergency Preparedness have notified the village that, after making the reviews and on-the-scene inspections, they concluded about $168,000 of the work could not be directly related to the Aug. 25 storm.

"We were told that some requests did not qualify because they were judged to be for permanent improvement instead of storm damage repair," he said. Willis added that those items eliminated from eligibility were not of an emergency nature, and the work does not have to be done at this time.

He said the excluded items include $35,000 for the inspection of sanitary sewer lines by television cameras, $37,000 in estimated damage to sewer pipes not specifically designated and $38,000 for (Continued on page 3)

Suburb Housing Mandate Not Likely

A News Analysis

Suburban towns probably don't have to fear that U.S. Dist. Court Judge Richard B. Austin will take away their power to decide whether public housing should be built within their boundaries. The plan calls for the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) to build the units within suburban boundaries if the municipalities refuse to build the housing themselves.

The proposal calling for the suburban public housing was advocated by Alexander Polikoff, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney representing a group of Chicago public housing applicants.

On the other side of the fence in the trial was the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, arguing for an order that would only pledge it to its best efforts to avoid segregation in public housing.

A THIRD, BUT almost silent participant, was the Chicago Housing Authority, which told Judge Austin it had enough budget problems trying to provide public housing in the city without taking on the suburbs.

While Austin will not rule on the proposals until January, the judge gave numerous indications of his feelings in the case during the three days of hearings.

While he openly assured Polikoff that he had not intended of adopting the ACLU proposed order in its entirety, Austin also said he was "not overly impressed" with HUD's best efforts to date.

Austin often interrupted Polikoff during the trial, sometimes to ask rhetorical questions and other times to have points clarified.

The judge's comments often touched upon his view of the suburbs and the nature of suburban discrimination.

AUSTIN SAID, for example, "Some suburban areas welcome all who are economically able to live in those areas."

At another point in the hearings the judge quipped "I'll be settling people in Utah pretty soon," as a comment on how far out some of the suburbs under consideration were from the central city.

When Polikoff countered that "there is a lot of land in suburban areas," Austin raised a question about the price of land in the suburbs.

The judge's question touched off a debate between Polikoff — who said "There is no land cost limit with respect to the public housing program," — and HUD Atty James Murray, who said federal regulations only allow spending "the amount prudently required" for public housing sites.

ANOTHER OF Austin's rhetorical questions raised the point that the ACLU proposal would "give villages additional residents to serve without additional income."

"The suburbs live on property taxes," Austin said.

The judge indicated he wasn't questioning the entire concept of public housing in the suburbs, just the concept of building public housing in the suburbs as a means of housing Chicago residents. "If these villages sought money for residents of their villages that's a different kettle of fish than building houses for Chicago residents in outlying areas," Austin said.

One of the witnesses during the hearings was Prof. Philip Hauser, an urbanologist from the University of Chicago who testified about segregation and the movement of whites from the city to the suburbs.

TALKING ABOUT Hauser's testimony Judge Austin commented, "What disturbs me about the motivation of the Hausers and others, is their objective to stop the flight from the city. We're going to put people out there so other people won't flee. We're going to circle them with a wall so the conditions out there will be the same as they are in the city."

After hearing testimony that little federal funding will be available in 1973 to finance public housing projects anywhere Austin said "Looking at the funding I don't see the emergency of threatening the municipalities with losing their veto powers (over public housing)."

Noting that a higher court decision would have some bearing on the decision he will render Austin said, "In view of the funding there's no extreme emergency at this time that this court can't wait for a supreme court decision."

Discussing Congress's reluctance to give HUD power to force municipalities to accept public housing, the judge said Polikoff's proposed order, "Would have the court step in and do what Congress has refused to do."

POLIKOFF ARGUED that a metropolitan distribution of public housing units was needed to break the pattern of racial segregation.

Correction

The date for the first meeting of the committee being formed by High School Dist. 214 to study unit school districts is Wednesday, Dec. 20, not Dec. 10 as reported in Friday's Herald.

The Dist. 214 board and its feeder elementary districts agreed at a meeting Wednesday to form the committee, which will study the impact of unit districts on the area. Elementary boards have been invited to name delegates to the committee.

Extra Hours, Special Labels To Speed Postman's Job

"Neither sleet nor rain nor gloom of night shall stay this carrier from his appointed rounds."

Christmas cards, however, have been known to slow down those carriers.

This year, the Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village post offices are planning a Christmas Card Week from Dec. 10 to Dec. 16. The three post offices will also be open two Saturdays, Dec. 9 and Dec. 16, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Starting today, mail carriers will deliver mailing labels, to include "Arlington Heights Only," "Elk Grove Village Only," "Rolling Meadows Only," and Chicago Zip Coded Only.

"We hope that everyone will bundle their Christmas cards in these four separations, with all other cards being placed in a fifth bundle before depositing them in postal boxes," said Postmaster Robert J. Proebstle. "And, please, use zip codes."

PROEBSTLE AND all of the other postal employees are getting ready for the annual onslaught of Christmas mail which in the past has doubled the daily number of letters handled by the three offices.

"We handle about 400,000 to 500,000 letters a day," said Proebstle. "In the 10-day period prior to Christmas we handle between 800,000 and a million letters daily."

Proebstle says he would like to encourage people to mail early and spread out the Christmas rush a bit.

"To avoid the last minute rush, the three post offices have an unlimited supply of two issues of the 1972 Christmas stamps, in addition to the regular issues of stamps in sheets and coil form," said Proebstle.

The Arlington Heights Post Office is located at 909 W. Euclid, and the two branch offices are located in the northwest corner of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center, 3200 Kirchhoff, and in the Grove Shopping Center at Arlington Heights and Biesterfeld roads in Elk Grove Village.

William J. Longton

Memorial services for William J. Longton, 58, a mechanical engineer, of 1330 Kingston Ln., Schaumburg, will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight in First Presbyterian Church, Rohlwing and Palatine Roads in Palatine. The Rev. Stanley Tolzer will be officiating.

Mr. Longton, a former resident of Rolling Meadows, died suddenly Friday evening in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, after an apparent heart attack. He was born March 7, 1914, in Rockford, Ill.

Preceded in death by his wife, Liesel, nee Volquarts, survivors include one son, James of Rolling Meadows, two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Grove and Mrs. Linda Schaub, both of Schaumburg, and two grandchildren.

Ahlgrim and Sons Funeral Home, Schaumburg, is in charge of the arrangements. There will be no visitation.

Tell Your Wife We've Been Thinking About Her.

Of all you cherish, what's most important to you? Your wife — of course. Just think of all she does for you and your family. She's irreplaceable and if she should die dollars can't take her place. But an adequate life insurance policy could help to get some of her many jobs done and to keep your household going. Ask your State Farm agent about person-to-person life insurance. He has a policy with your wife in mind.

Federal Flood Loan Payouts To Be Less Than Expected

pair of a sanitary sewer main. Willis said the sewer pipe that needed repair or replacement could not be pinpointed without the use of television equipment, and repair of the sewer main was dropped because there was no evidence above ground of damage.
The original $25,000 estimate of eligible damage to the Elk Grove Village Public Library on Kennedy Boulevard was approved for disaster relief, Willis said.
WILLIS SAID the decision to declare some of the original items ineligible came after a second field inspection team from the OEP surveyed the damage.
"The first inspection team did not really go into the field and look at the damage," he said. "The second team inspected every report, and as a result of a more thorough investigation, they concluded that $168,000 in damage claims did not fulfill the requirements of the program."

Willis said there were no plans to appeal the OEP decision, and he was satisfied the officials "have completed their inquiry and review and have given careful consideration of our problem."
Willis said he met with OEP officials in Elmhurst Nov. 17 to review the status of the village's request, and it was apparent at that time that some items would be declared ineligible. He said it was no surprise that claims were turned down.

Owner Sues To Expand Oasis Mobile Home Park

Oscar Brotman, owner of the Oasis Drive-In Theater in Elk Grove Township, has filed a lawsuit in circuit court challenging the Cook County Board of Commissioners decision to deny him permission to convert the theater property to a mobile home park.
Brotman said Friday he had filed the suit the previous week even though the county board did not officially turn down the request until Thursday. The county zoning board of appeals had recommended the request be rejected, and it was expected that the county board would concur.
"The next step is for the state's attorney to file an answer to the complaint, and then we'll ask for a hearing," he said.
Brotman said he didn't have any idea when his case would be heard but he did say he was going "to ask the judge for an early court date."

Brotman has requested a special permit to build a mobile home park on the 20-acre theater site near the corner of Elmhurst and Higgins roads in unincorporated Elk Grove Township. He said he wants to expand the neighboring Oasis Mobile Home Park onto the theater property, adding 232 spaces for trailers.
At a public hearing on the request held in September in Elk Grove Village, Brotman testified that the theater was no longer economically feasible to operate because of spiraling costs, including labor, motion picture rental and real estate taxes.
Brotman said earlier he was not surprised at all that his request was denied.
"I was so sure I would be turned down that I already had a lawsuit prepared to take my case to court," he said.
He has said that a trailer park was a logical use of the land because the property was bordered by two other courts.

MSD: Repair All Manhole, Sewer Lines

Metropolitan Sanitary District officials told eight businesses in the area of Higgins Road and Oakton Avenue last week that all manhole and sewer lines in their area must be repaired by Jan. 31 or they will face the possibility of being closed.
Each business will be required to pay an additional $500 for the repair work. The companies have already paid $500 each to have the sewer system inspected.
The township will assume responsibility for the sewer after it has been repaired and brought up to acceptable standards.
Repair work will consist of fixing all manholes and plugging the southern portion of the line to block off a hole found during a township inspection. No businesses or homes are attached to the line downstream from the point where it would be plugged.
HAMBURGER UNIVERSITY, McDonald's training center, was given permission to construct a manhole in front of the building. The plug will be installed when McDonald's builds the manhole.
MSD stipulated that three days notice must be given before the final inspection of the sewer is scheduled.
All businesses on the section of the sewer line were present at last week's hearing except Snacktime restaurant and the Navarone Steak House.
Township official Kay Rairdin said Friday the Navarone was the only firm which has not committed funds for the repair of the sewer line. Township Auditor Bernice Lee said the Navarone owners claim to have a special agreement signed when they first attached to the sewer that exempts them from any responsibility.
According to the officials, proof of the agreement has never been presented.
Lewis Gauger owned the sewer line until his death two years ago. Since then the line has fallen into disrepair.

Fight Pollution At Magnet Wire

countersuit were continued until the Oct. 15 deadline for installation of the abatement system, but the agreement provided for an extension of the deadline if necessary.
In September Magnet Wire officials appeared at a hearing requesting an extension of the deadline because of delays in receiving the parts for the system. Earlier this summer the company reported it was behind schedule because some deliveries from Pennsylvania were late because of flooding.
Residents from Elk Grove Village, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights have complained of the odor emitted by the plant in its manufacturing process.

Police Seek Rapist

Mount Prospect police still are looking for the man who raped a 23-year-old woman last Wednesday in a building under construction at the Huntington Commons development in Mount Prospect.
Police have released a composite drawing of the man, based on the victim's description. The suspect is reported to be white, 19 to 25 years old, about 160 pounds, and between 5 feet 8 inches and 5 feet 9 inches tall.
Police said the man was wearing a dark knit, Navy-type hat, a light or beige colored wool coat that could have been a military jacket. He had long, dark hair that covered his ears.

Area Health Care Needs To Be Told

A finalized version of the health care needs for the Schaumburg Township area will be presented today to the members of the Northwest Cook County Health Needs Study Committee.
The study, presented in a preliminary form last month, will probably contain comments and reactions from the various agencies involved.
Representatives from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Roselle, Northwest Community Hospital and Alexian Brothers Medical Center have been actively participating in a series of discussions which led to study, conducted by Ernst and Ernst.
The major recommendations of the study recommended the construction of two hospitals, one in Schaumburg Township, by 1975.
REACTION TO the study, which suggested the Barrington and Schaumburg roads intersection as a possible location, was favorable to the report from two groups who have announced plans to build hospitals in the area.

Henry Buhrman, administrator for the proposed Schaumburg branch of the Rush Presbyterian-St. Lukes Medical Center, said he was generally pleased by the study results, and that it recommended the construction of a hospital in Schaumburg.
The site for the Presbyterian-St. Luke's facility near Schaumburg and Roselle Roads is about three miles away from the recommended location.
Another group proposing a hospital in Hoffman Estates were also pleased with the report. Dr. Sanford Block, a Chicago dentist who heads the group, said the recommended site is near the location they proposed.
The committee is also scheduled to discuss what further studies should be undertaken regarding the health care needs for the area.

Delay Action On Charges By CAP

by WANDALYN RICE
The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education Thursday delayed any action on charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP) that property in Schaumburg Township is underassessed.
Board members agreed they did not have enough information on the charges to take any action. They had received a copy of the report, charging that taxing bodies are losing nearly $7 million because of underassessment of four business properties, from Doug Verdonck, president of the Dist. 211 Education Association, which helped finance the study.
In his letter to the board, Verdonck offered the legal services of the Illinois Education Association, with which his group is affiliated. If the board should want to take legal action on the assessments against Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton.
According to the CAP study, Dist. 211 will lose more than $16 million in property tax money next year because of the underassessment of Woodfield Mall, Union Oil Co., Meadow Trace Apartment Complex and Motorola Inc.-Communications Division.

IN SUGGESTING that the board table the study while awaiting further information, Board Pres. Robert Creek volunteered to disqualify himself from discussion of the report. Creek is executive vice president of Union Oil Co. and is in charge of the Union Oil facility at 200 E. Golf Rd. in Schaumburg Township.
Board member Alexander Langsdorf agreed with Creek's suggestion to table the item, noting that Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert Atcher has said the CAP's statement that commercial property in the township is worth $1 a square foot is excessive.
Supt. Richard Kolze told the board he has invited Atcher to appear to discuss the CAP report at the Dec. 14 board meeting.

Board member Robert Seger also agreed that the board should await further developments and watch actions that might be taken against Cullerton by other governmental bodies.
"Hopefully something will be done on a state-wide or county-wide basis rather than in one area," Seger said. "Maybe there is something we should do, but we should do it on the basis of complete intelligence and not on emotion. Emotionally I think the guy (Cullerton) has done a lot of things wrong."
IN OTHER action, the board also postponed a scheduled discussion of "open campus" policies at their schools because Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tuttle of Schaumburg were unable to appear before the board.
Tuttle had originally appeared before the board in October to ask that the board reconsider its policy that prohibits "open campus," which would allow students to leave the school grounds during their lunch hours.

The board has received a report on open campus operations in other school districts from its administration. Thursday it was presented with more information on the operation of open campus programs at Wheeling and Hersey high schools in Dist. 214. The board has not made the reports on open campus public.
In other action the board:
—approved a policy requiring all department chairmen to obtain master's degrees by Sept. 1, 1976. Supt. Richard Kolze estimated that about five chairmen will be affected by the new rule.
—referred to its attorney a proposed definition of "gross disobedience" to be used in student discipline cases. A report is expected from the attorney at the next meeting.

Walker Helps Celebrate Statehood

by MARY HOULIHAN
Patty Pannaia, 11, knew that Governor-elect Daniel Walker would make it to Busse School in Mount Prospect for the students' celebration of Statehood Day Friday.
"I had a dream about two weeks ago I just saw him coming up the walk and all the kids were saying 'Mr. Walker is here, Mrs. Walker is here,'" Patty explained.
And though Walker had received many other invitations to speak, he decided to come to Busse Friday to help celebrate the 154th anniversary of Illinois' admittance into the union as a state. At the last minute, it was feared the snow and near-freezing temperatures might keep him away, but at 10 a.m., Walker was ushered into the school gymnasium just in time for the opening parade.
HOLDING MISS Pannaia's hand (Patty was chairman of the day's celebration), Walker made his way to the front of the school gymnasium for a short speech. After greeting the invited guests including State Representatives Eugene Schickelman, David Regner and Eugenia Chapman and Mount Prospect Village Mgr. Robert Eppley, he explained why he decided to come to Busse.
"I selected this as the first appointment I made outside of Chicago since my election, because of who you are and what you are doing," Walker said. "Some of you may remember that I walked 1,200 miles through the state of Illinois and that was a way for me to learn about the state."
"During that time I talked with a lot of young people about their desire to get involved in government. I hope that you will continue your interest in our state, its history and its culture. I hope that each and every one of you will participate and become involved in politics and government," he said.

Walker talked briefly of Illinois' reputation as the "heartland state of America" and as the leading export state, then turned the microphone back to the students for a pantomime history of Illinois. Students traced the history of the state from its early beginnings, with various youngsters dressed up as some of Illinois' most famous citizens, including Abraham Lincoln, Jane Addams and Edward O'Hare.
AFTER THE presentation, Walker lingered for a while at the entrance of the school, talking with Dist. 57 Board Pres. Robert Novy and some teachers, but television newsmen soon engulfed him with their questions and cameras.
Asked about the possible resurrection of Crosstown Expressway plans, Walker said, "There will be no resurrection of the Crosstown. The governor has a power to control that. I made a pledge in my campaign and I keep my pledges," he said.
About plans for dismissing any state workers once he takes office in Springfield, he said there will be no mass firings. "I certainly intend to clean house in the sense of getting rid of the pay-rollers who aren't getting the job done," he explained. "But the people who do their job will be retained."
Walker said he would not give any preference as to who he would like to see selected as Illinois House majority leader (there is a fight going on now between the present majority leader Robert Blair, a Democrat and Rep. Henry Hyde, a Republican). "That is a matter for the legislature to decide," he explained.

Through it all, Patty stayed calm and, despite her dream, admitted that she was excited. "My teacher encouraged me to do the program, but I didn't think it would be this big," she said.
It was Patty's dad who suggested she write to Walker. "I talked to my dad and he said it might be a good idea," she said.
As everyone was leaving, Supt. Novy said he wondered what Patty put in her letter to coax Walker to come. "She must have been very persuasive. If she wanted to get chocolate ice cream in every classroom I don't think I could refuse her," he laughed.

Snowfall Causes Rash Of Accidents

The first measurable snowfall Friday resulted in a rash of automobile accidents in Elk Grove Village.
According to an Elk Grove Village Police Department spokesman, 12 accidents were reported Friday morning, "way above the normal average."
All the accidents involved property damage only, no injuries were reported.

Scanlon To Fill Vacancies On 4 Commissions

After five months of controversy, the Wheeling Village Board has decided not to reduce the membership of four village commissions. Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon is expected to act on the recommendations of the board and fill the commission vacancies tonight. Many of the commission seats have been vacant since April, when the appointments of several commissioners expired. The board members delayed making any appointments while they considered reducing the membership of the public relations, human relations, youth and industrial commissions. TRUSTEE ALBERT Lang suggested the reduction in July, saying it would make the commissions more workable. Lang said the commissions were plagued by poor attendance, which resulted in the inability to function due to lack of quorum. He said reducing the membership would make it easier for the commissions to meet their quorum requirements. The trustees supported Lang's proposal. They said many of the commissioners had been appointed as "watchdogs" after the last village election, but were doing little more than criticizing the village now. They also claimed that resignations had kept the board busy with continual interviews of applicants for the vacant seats. Members of three commissions affected by the cut expressed strong opposition to any reduction in membership. They said they needed more rather than fewer members to operate efficiently. IN AN EFFORT to answer questions raised by the commission members opposing the cut, the trustees had several meetings with various commissions. At the meetings each commission presented a different reason for opposing the cuts. Members of the public relations commission said a cut in membership would not alter the basic problem, which was lack of cooperation from the board. The human relations commission members said they were unable to successfully formulate projects because of lack of direction from the village trustees. June Orlovski, chairman of the youth commission, said her commission could not adequately cover all aspects of youth-related problems with a smaller number of members. She said the youth commission had "reached saturation point, and I doubt very much that any one of us could accept an assignment to attend another meeting." MEMBERS OF THE industrial commission, however, said they did not object to the cut. Commission member Harold Fagan said the commission presently serves no function and therefore did not need more members. "You don't need any members right now because we're not doing anything," he said.

Proposed improvements would add the finishing touches to this quiet park site.

Commerce Park For All Ages—And It Will Stay That Way

Editor's note: This is the first in a series examining the condition of the parks in the Wheeling Park District, and the improvements planned in a $700,000 referendum to be voted on Dec. 16. by LYNN ASINOF Chamber of Commerce Park has a split personality. The front three acres of park land are used mainly by adults and senior citizens. The back three acres are occupied by the outdoor community pool used mainly by children. Because this type of double usage seems to fit Wheeling's needs, the park district plans to continue developing the park for these two purposes when it begins its park improvement program. With funding from a bond issue that will go to the public Dec. 16, the park district plans to make the front three acres an area to be used mainly by senior citizens. Plans now call for extensive landscaping, which would define the quiet character of the park. A rose garden will be planted with funds that have been raised by local school children. Asphalt walks will run through the park with park benches available for afternoon conversation. HORSESHOE pits and a shuffleboard court would provide some diversion for the senior citizens who live near the park area. Safety lighting would make the park usable at night as well as during the day. Other basic improvements would make the park more usable. These include resurfacing of the parking lot, installation of parking barriers and seeding. In all, approximately $43,340 from the $700,000 referendum is earmarked for Chamber of Commerce Park. Federal matching funds would add another $60,940 to this amount. If the federal funds are available, they will be used for additional landscaping, a water fountain and a gazebo that could be used for afternoon concerts in the park. Picnic tables and the relocation of the park memorial from Heritage Park would also be paid for with federal funds. ALTHOUGH THE playground aspect of the park is not being stressed in the proposed referendum plans, there will be a tot lot for preschool children. This play area would be set off from the rest of the park by landscaping. Park Supt. Dave Phillips said Chamber of Commerce Park is a heavily used area because it is located in a well-traveled section of town. "It's been a very important park area because it is community oriented," he said. Interest in the park began when the land was purchased from the Chamber of Commerce. The community building at the park is a historic church moved to the site with the help of the Historical Society and others in the village. The church now provides one of the few places where various clubs and civic organizations can meet. The building is so popular as a meeting place that it is booked almost every day of the week. PHILLIPS explained that Chamber of Commerce Park is one of the few recreation areas in town that has been continually upgraded. He said plans for the design of the park were originally laid out in a study done in 1968, and that the park district has closely followed these plans. For example, the park district moved the ball field from this site to Northside Park this spring to de-emphasize the more active recreational uses of the park. Phillips explained that children who are old enough to play ball had other facilities in the area, and therefore did not miss the playfield. Improvements for the outdoor pool section of the park will be financed completely with federal funds. Phillips said the plans call for a roof on the locker sections to reduce maintenance and protect the building from winter weather. He said the park district also plans to install a new entrance to the pool that would direct people to the cashier's booth and establish a better traffic flow. Phillips said that Chamber of Commerce Park is now approximately 75 percent developed and that the referendum work would complete its development. "It's like the frosting on the cake," he said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The nation's Democratic governors voted in St. Louis to recommend that Jean Westwood resign as Democratic national chairman and that former party treasurer Robert Strauss be elected later this week to replace her. The Food and Drug Administration's product safety director said the hidden hazards in toys — pins embedded in dolls or squeaker devices that can be swallowed — have been virtually eliminated from the market this year. Helmed National Park rangers braved plummeting chunks of ice and freezing water in efforts to retrieve the torn bodies of a couple who made an apparent lovers suicide leap 1,430 feet down thundering Yosemite Falls in Yosemite.

Calif. A team of climbers retrieved what appeared to be "the upper thigh" of a body on the third attempt to reach the bodies. The United States will consult West Germany and its other allies at the coming NATO meeting on when and how to extend formal diplomatic recognition to East Germany, State Department sources said. Children in Belfast found the body of still another victim of Northern Ireland's sectarian violence. The British Army announced the capture of two high-ranking officers of the Irish Republican Army in its continued crackdown on IRA suspects. A chartered jetliner packed with German tourists crashed in a towering ball of flame seconds after takeoff from the Canary Islands and all 155 persons aboard were killed. The crash was the worst in Spanish history and one of the four worst in the annals of civil aviation. The Indianapolis Star said that plans to dump Chicago area sewage onto farms in northern Indiana are still being considered by the Army Corps of Engineers Office at Chicago. Sen. Charles Percy arrived in Vietnam for a 24-hour visit as part of a tour of Asian nations during the U.S. Congressional recess. It is his first visit to Vietnam since his narrow escape from death in 1968 when his helicopter sustained heavy groundfire during a field trip into the Central Highlands.

WHEELING PARK Director Dave Phillips was among six representatives from this area who met with state legislators in Springfield to voice opposition to the proposed real estate tax freeze.

THE CAMBRIDGE subdivision of Buffalo Grove was omitted from the Buffalo High School attendance boundaries when the decision was announced by Dist. 214 officials. The board adopted a recommendation that all students from the Cooper and Rand junior high school areas be assigned to Buffalo Grove.

ROGER STRICKER, Wheeling director of public safety announced that Wheeling may seek a second ambulance, to be financed by matching funds from a grant. The grant would include radio equipment.

BUFFALO GROVE officials sent telegrams to several state representatives urging them to vote against the proposed property tax freeze.

THE BUFFALO Grove village board lifted, temporarily, its moratorium on annexation and zoning long enough to consider a proposal for a fire station site on Dundee Road. The Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District is hoping for annexation and zoning of a 6½-acre plot west of Kingswood Methodist Church.

OFFICIALS OF High School Dist. 214 began investigating charges by a plumber that plumbing work at Buffalo Grove High School is being installed unsatisfactorily. The charges were made at a school board meeting by a plumber who had been fired from the job site.

THE METROPOLITAN Sanitary District (MSD) announced it is studying a 40-acre tract east of the Soo Line R.R. tracks in Wheeling for possible use as a major retention basin in the lower Buffalo Creek watershed.

falo Creek watershed.

THE NORTHWEST Community Hospital paramedic program began Friday, and Buffalo Grove Fire Department had two calls shortly after the system was in operation. The program links the emergency crew to the hospital by two-way radio.

TWO BUFFALO Grove homeowners went to court over citations charging them with illegal sewer connections. Associate Judge Thomas O'Malley ruled the corrections were required because they were in violation of the village ordinance governing water and sewer operations.

THE BUFFALO Grove Police Department received approval from the village board to seek federal funds to join a combined communications dispatch network that includes Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village and Arlington Heights.

THE WHEELING Zoning Board recommended that zoning be granted for a 225-unit condominium townhouse complex south of Manchester Drive and east of Wolf Road.

THE BUFFALO Grove Alliance (BGA) criticized the Buffalo Grove high school boundaries and participation by Trustee Randall Rathjen in purchasing of land for a fire department site.

WHEELING Trustee Michael Valenza was left off the slate proposed by Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon when the To Overall Progress (TOP) ticket was announced. Scanlon gave health as the reason Valenza was not selected to run again for his seat.

SANTA CLAUS will come to town early this year when the Wheeling Jaycee Jills have their "Lunch with Santa" party for village children fourth grade and younger. Diane Schnaitmann and Mike Reinagle got a preview of the party's main attraction. Other youngsters will have to wait until Saturday to meet Santa at the Wheeling High School Cafeteria.

Today Last Day To Signup For Lunch With Santa

Village children will have a chance to eat lunch with Santa Claus Saturday at a special Christmas party to be given by the Wheeling Jaycee Jills.

The lunch will be at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Wheeling High School cafeteria. Children in the fourth grade and younger are invited to register for the event. There is a $1 fee to cover the cost of the meal. Today is the last day for registration. Children were given registration forms at school.

The Shriner's clowns will provide entertainment during the party, and the children will receive Christmas treats.

For more information, phone Gloria Maracek, 537-4292.

Kids! Get Your Santa Lists In By Dec. 16

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees are reminding all youngsters that Santa Claus must have received all Christmas lists by Dec. 16 in order to fill them by Christmas Eve.

The Jaycees are assisting Santa again this year by collecting letters in the two special mailboxes in the Ranchmar shopping center and the Buffalo Grove Mall.

The letters are sent special delivery to the North Pole and Santa will answer all the letters that include a return address.

2 Park Board Incumbents Undecided

The two Prospect Heights Park District board incumbents whose terms end in April remained undecided on whether or not to run again.

The two are William Kuhns, 44, who has been on the board since the park district's formation six years ago, and Wendell Sampson, 41, who was appointed last year to fill the unexpired term of a resigning board member.

Kuhns, of 9 N. Parkway, served two years as president of the park board.

"I'm going to have to do some real serious thinking about running again. There are things started that I'd like to see completed," he said, listing condemnation of the south end of the Hillcrest Slough as an example. Kuhns is advertising at Industrial Marketing Service in Chicago.

Sampson, of 502 W. Willow Rd., was appointed last year when Lewis Walthausen, a member of the first park board, resigned. Sampson owns the W. A. Sampson Construction Co. in Prospect Heights.

Nominating petitions for the April 3 election of Prospect Heights Park District commissioners must be filed by Dec. 30.

Petitions can be picked up at the park district office, 9 N. Elmhurst Rd., in Prospect Heights next week, according to Ron Greenberg, park director. Petitions must be filed between Dec. 26 and 30 because of a new law passed earlier this year, according to Greenberg. Candidates must have at least 25 signatures of park district residents on their petitions, he said.

Pledges Fraternity

Carol Reese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reese, 274 S. Willie Ave., Wheeling, was recently pledged to Alpha Gamma Delta, International Fraternity for college and university women. She is a freshman at Illinois Wesleyan University, majoring in elementary education.

Irwin 2nd Lieutenant

Brian W. Irwin, 23, son of Mrs. Margaret W. Irwin, 400 N. Maple St., Prospect Heights, was commissioned an army second lieutenant upon his recent graduation from artillery officer cadet school at Fort Sill, Okla. A 1968 graduate of Wheeling High School, Irwin received his degree in 1971 from Winona State College in Minnesota.

Avionics Specialist

S-4 Mark E. Nurczyk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley N. Nurczyk, 754 Dennis Rd., Wheeling, was recently named distinguished graduate of the 3rd U. S. Army and 101st Airborne Division non-commissioned officers academy at Fort Campbell, Ky. He is an avionics repair specialist.

He is a 1968 graduate of Wheeling High School.

Parish Backs Convent Use For Retarded

by JOANN VAN WYK

Lease of Our Lady of the Wayside convent to Clearbrook Center for the establishment of a live-in center for retarded adults was endorsed by parish leaders last week.

However, before any lease is finalized the parish leaders want to get public reaction to the proposed live-in center. A public meeting has been called for 8 p.m., Dec. 8 in the auditorium of Our Lady of the Wayside Junior High School, Park Street and Ridge Avenue in Arlington Heights to "see what the temper of the community is."

Several representatives from Clearbrook Center for the Retarded in Rolling Meadows will be at the public meeting to answer questions.

"We are very encouraged and looking forward to the meeting on the 8th," said Byrne Witt, Clearbrook director. "Once the people have the facts, we hope we will be able to dispel any natural fears."

Lease of the convent at 412 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights, is also contingent on rezoning by the Arlington Heights Zoning Board of Appeals and approval from the Chicago Archdiocese.

"WE FEEL WE will get approval from the archdiocese if the people here are favorable to the proposal," said the Rev. John J. Mackin of Our Lady of the Wayside Church.

Endorsement of the proposed lease by the Our Lady of the Wayside group composed of the advisory council and presidents of parish societies followed a recommendation by a three-man study committee appointed last month to investigate the possibility of a retarded live-in center here.

The study committee visited Clearbrook Center, the Clearbrook Sheltered Workshop in Elk Grove Village and a live-in center in Proviso Township patterned along the same lines Clearbrook is proposing before recommending lease of the convent.

Representatives of Clearbrook started investigating the possibility of leasing Our Lady of the Wayside convent last month when negotiations with the Chicago Archdiocese on the rental of the Sacred Heart of Mary convent in Rolling Meadows reached a standstill.

The convents at Sacred Heart of Mary and Our Lady of the Wayside are the only facilities we are aware of in the community which could meet the Illinois Department of Public Health licensing requirements, said Witt.

WITT DESCRIBED the convent at Our Lady of the Wayside as "very adequate." It is within the community and not isolated, within walking distance of recreation facilities and stores and centrally located for transportation, he elaborated. Few modifications of the building are expected to be necessary.

The proposed, live-in center, the first of its kind in the area, would house 20 mildly or moderately retarded adults. It would be primarily a residential facility with a training program in educational, recreational and vocational rehabilitation.

tion. A trained staff would be at the live-in center 24 hours a day.

Witt said Clearbrook would more than meet the minimum staff standards of the Illinois Department of Mental Health.

The live-in center is aimed at keeping mildly and moderately retarded adults in the community and out of institutions.

A NORMALIZATION process will be stressed. This means efforts will be made to find jobs for the residents and get them back in the community, according to Witt.

Clearbrook has received a federal grant of $16,800 under the Developmental Disabilities and Facilities Construction Act of 1970 to be used to rent a facility and convert it, if necessary, into a residence and train the staff.

The Illinois Department of Mental Health and the Department of Public Aid have also promised monthly per-resident grants up to a maximum of $400 per resident to maintain the live-in center after the start up grant has been depleted.

Clearbrook is proposing a three-year lease at $12,000 a year, although terms have not been finalized.

AT PRESENT, six nuns are living in the Arlington Heights convent. Father Mackin said the sisters were anxious to move because the convent, which was built for 23 sisters, is too large for them to maintain. He said the sisters may move into apartments or get a house more appropriate for their needs.

If the proposed lease is approved it would not take effect until the end of this school year, according to Father Mackin.

It's 'Rush' Season For The Post Offices

"Neither sleet nor rain nor gloom of night shall stay this carrier from his appointed rounds."

Christmas cards, however, have been known to slow down those carriers.

This year, the Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village post offices are planning a Christmas Card Week from Dec. 10 to Dec. 16. The three post offices will also be open two Saturdays, Dec. 9 and Dec. 16, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Starting today, mail carriers will deliver mailing labels, to include "Arlington Heights Only," "Elk Grove Village Only," "Rolling Meadows Only," and Chicago Zip Coded Only.

"We hope that everyone will bundle their Christmas cards in those four separations, with all other cards being placed in a fifth bundle before depositing them in a fifth bundle before depositing them in postal boxes," said Postmaster Robert J. Proebstle. "And, please, use zip codes."

PROEBSTLE AND all of the other postal employees are getting ready for the annual onslaught of Christmas mail which in the past has doubled the daily number of letters handled by the three offices.

"We handle about 400,000 to 500,000 letters a day," said Proebstle. "In the 10-day period prior to Christmas we handle between 800,000 and a million letters daily."

Proebstle says he would like to encourage people to mail early and spread out the Christmas rush a bit.

"To avoid the last minute rush, the three post offices have an unlimited supply of two issues of the 1972 Christmas stamps, in addition to the regular issues of stamps in sheets and coil form," said Proebstle.

The Arlington Heights Post Office is located at 909 W. Euclid, and the two branch offices are located in the northwest corner of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center, 3200 Kirchoff, and in the Grove Shopping Center at Arlington Heights and Biesterfeld roads in Elk Grove Village.

Cambridge Group Gear To Protest School Boundary

by JILL BETTNER

A group of Cambridge residents, irate that their children will not be allowed to attend Buffalo Grove High School, are scheduled to attend the village board tonight to voice their protests.

The High School Dist. 214 board decided last week not to include the subdivision in the new boundaries, set to open next fall. Although the trustees have no authority over the school board, Cambridge residents are hoping they will be able to persuade Dist. 214 officials to change their minds.

ACCORDING TO a letter (dated Nov. 30) sent to the village board by several Cambridge homeowners, residents support their bid to be included in the high school boundaries more vocally before the decision was made. They feel the trustees' support might have helped them win their fight.

The board did pass a resolution on Feb. 8, 1971, urging Dist. 214 officials to include all Buffalo Grove residents of the district within the boundaries of the school.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong wrote a letter to Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert last week expressing "shock and disbelief" at the school board's decision. He explained the trustees were unable to attend the sessions conducted to discuss the high school boundaries because they coincided with village board meetings.

IN HIS LETTER also dated Nov. 30, Armstrong noted the referendum to build the new school was passed by a margin of 584 votes. He speculated that had the 888 registered voters in Cambridge known they would not be included in the boundaries, the outcome of the referendum might have been different.

In other business, a public hearing is expected to be postponed tonight on the plans of Levitt & Sons, Inc. to develop two parcels of land north of Mundelein Road.

The trustees two weeks ago declared a moratorium on annexation and zoning of projects of more than one acre until a village master plan is approved, probably sometime after the first of the year.

VILLAGE ATTY. Richard Rayns suggested at last week's meeting the trustees delay the public hearing on the Levitt proposals for 30 days. By that time, if a plan has not been adopted, the hearing will again be deferred.

Levitt plans to build townhouse condominiums, apartment condominiums and single-family homes on a 50-acre plot known as the Koelper-Demuth parcel.

The firm also proposes to develop another 61-acre site known as the Wanger parcel, just south of Aptakisic Road. A school and neighborhood park are planned for this development of townhouse condominiums.

Also slated on tonight's agenda is discussion of recommendations from the Board of Health to consider participating in community guaranteed blood replacement program sponsored by the North Suburban Association for Health Resources (NSAHR).

MEMBERSHIP in the community donor program provides free blood replacement anywhere in the country for all residents of participating communities if 4 per cent of the population donates blood each year.

Dr. Earl E. Suckow, chairman of the NSAHR medical advisory board, will be present tonight to discuss the cooperative blood replacement program.

The trustees will also consider the Board of Health's request that Mrs. Joan Kuffel be reappointed to another three-year term.

A STAFF REPORT concerning repairs of well number one will be discussed. Authorization is expected to be given to advertise for bids for the work, estimated at $94,000.

The trustees are also scheduled to announce meeting dates for the last week in December.

BUFFALO GROVE FIRE Chief Wayne Winter dives from ambulance as he and Lt. Robert Krause prepare to take patient into Northwest Community Hospital. The Buffalo Grove fire department was the first to use the new emergency paramedic program at the hospital, one minute after it officially started and again four hours later. Doctors and hospital officials credited the department with saving the lives of two women in the village.

New Program Begins

Paramedics Save A Life

Within one minute after the new emergency paramedic program went into effect in the Northwest suburbs, the Buffalo Grove Fire Department was saving a life.

The department's rescue units responded to a call at the home of a resident at 8:01 a.m., only one minute after the new program officially started.

The woman had reportedly taken an overdose of drugs.

When the paramedics arrived on the scene they found the woman unconscious and began administering first aid. They then began communicating with doctors at the hospital and were given instructions as to what medical action should be taken.

BECAUSE OF THE snow and traffic early Friday morning, the paramedics worked on the unidentified patient for more than 50 minutes before reaching the hospital.

"It was because of the Buffalo Grove firemen that the woman was kept alive. The definitive emergency aid given by the paramedics in the ambulance and at her home helped get the woman to the hospital alive," said a hospital spokesman.

Hospital and fire officials said the new radio and medical equipment, which worked without a flaw, was also credited for saving the woman's life.

Officials would not release details of the woman's identity or address because of circumstances involved in the illness.

Tree Ceremonies Changed Slightly

The schedule of Christmas tree ceremonies sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Woman's Club this week at the Buffalo Grove Mall have been changed slightly.

The Danish program announced for Tuesday will be on Wednesday, and the Hanukkah program will be on Tuesday instead of Wednesday. The Sunday program will begin at 1 p.m. instead of 2 p.m., as announced.

Buffalo Creek Reservoir Cost Rising

The proposed Buffalo Creek Retention Reservoir, seen as a major part of the solution to area flooding problems, is going to cost $150,000 more than originally estimated.

The cooperative project, to be located just west of Arlington Heights Road in Lake County, is being undertaken by Buffalo Grove, the Lake County Forest Preserve District and the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD).

Due to a lack of funds available to the other agencies, the MSD has been asked to carry the bulk of the financial burden of the project. Approximately $1,600,000 is required for the land, plus $300,000 for construction costs. The $1.2 million total is $150,000 above the first projection.

..... The Lake County Forest Preserve has applied for a HUD federal grant that would reimburse the MSD for half the land acquisition cost.

ACCORDING TO a report written by Forrest C. Nell, MSD chief engineer dated Nov. 14, the MSD intends to review the legal implications of the project. If there are no legal impediments, he said, an agreement will be drafted and submitted to the board of trustees for their consideration.

The MSD will do the engineering for the project and Buffalo Grove will assume the responsibility for maintenance of the spillway and dam.

Plans are to develop the reservoir site into a public park with recreational facilities. Dick Lanyon, head of the flood control section of the MSD, has said the site provides a natural spot for both functions.

Most of the land being considered for the reservoir is presently farmland. There is one farm home in the area and another residence north of Checker Road.

Now 'Improved'

Kenneth Stanley, 10, of 1441 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, was listed as "somewhat improved" yesterday in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

The youth was unconscious for almost two weeks after being struck by a car as he tried to cross Wolf Road on his bicycle.

Mrs. Munson, Ahern Seek Full Trustee Terms

Thomas Ahern

Shirley Munson

Terry Leighty

Two Palatine village trustees who were appointed to their positions since the last election plan to seek full terms.

Thomas F. Ahern, who was named to fill a vacancy on the village board in July of 1971, and Shirley A. Munson, who was appointed to the board last January, are seeking spots on the Village Independent Party (VIP) ticket.

Both had been expected to run to retain their seats, and are likely to be slated by the VIPs at the party's convention Jan. 13.

Three four-year terms will be available on the village board in the April 17 election, and one two-year term.

Both Ahern and Mrs. Munson indicated their preference for a four-year term.

ANOTHER INCUMBENT trustee, Terry L. Leighty, had announced last week his plans to run for reelection, also as a VIP. Leighty had been considered a possible candidate for village president, but took himself out of the race by endorsing trustee Clayton W. Brown for the post.

Another trustee, Wendell E. Jones, is seeking the Republican nomination for the presidency.

Warren Coleclusser, chairman of the GOP screening committee, said eight prospective candidates have been interviewed so far and other interviews are being set up.

Coleclusser said some of the persons contacted the screening committee for an interview and others were approached by the committee, but he declined to name any of the possible nominees.

The Republican organization will select its slate in a meeting Dec. 19.

The VIPs, meanwhile, have extended their deadline for prospective candidates to submit petitions seeking the party's nomination.

Petitions bearing signatures of 200 registered voters can be submitted until Jan. 8, rather than the previous Dec. 10 deadline, for consideration at the VIP convention.

The VIPs also decided in a meeting Thursday night to suggest to convention delegates that nominations for village office be permitted from the floor. The delegates are to make the final decision.

OF THE THREE declared candidates for village trustee, Leighty has the longest service on the village board.

A self-employed insurance broker and real estate salesman, he was appointed to the board in 1969 and was successful in his bid for a four-year term later that year.

Leighty is former president of the Palatine Jaycees, and last year was selected Palatine man-of-the-year by the Jaycees.

Ahern, director of public relations for the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, Chicago, also is a former president of the local Jaycees.

He also served as a member of the Palatine Zoning Board of Appeals for four years, and has been active in organizing Fourth of July observances. In addition, he's been an advisor for the Palatine Township Youth Organization, director of the Palatine Community Combined Appeal and governing member of the Countryside YMCA.

To Get $4.3 Million From IHDA

'Mixed-Income' Housing Plan Eyed

A federally financed apartment complex in unincorporated Palatine Township is being planned for residents with incomes ranging from $6,000 to $16,000.

Labelled "mixed-income" housing, the development will be located on a 12½ acre site southwest of the Dundee Road-Rand Road intersection. Plans include a community center and outdoor pool in the 216-apartment project.

The Illinois Housing Development Authority recently committed $4.3 million for construction of the apartments. According to IHDA spokesman George Headrick, the purpose of the organization is "to pump money into the state's housing industry."

NO ZONING CHANGE request for the project has come before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals. Secretary Paul Marcy was unaware of the proposed development when asked about its zoning.

The strip of land between Baldwin and Hicks roads on the south side of Dundee is already zoned for multiple-family housing, but it has a "special use" designation. Any change in plans for that section of land would require an appeal to the zoning board, Marcy said.

Atty. Perry Snyderman, heading the group developing the property, was unavailable for details.

Occupants of the new development will supposedly pay less rent because of the IHDA financing and federal funds. The Palatine site was chosen because "there is a definite need for housing there," Headrick said.

There is little chance that other projects will get similar funding in the area.

"There may be more need in another area," Headrick said.

Palatine mayor Jack Moodie said he could accept "any housing that complies with the zoning and building codes. I'm not interested in who finances it." But he doesn't believe the government should subsidize housing.

"It's unfair to taxpayers," Moodie said. Four other housing developments were included in the group being financed by recent IHDA commitments. They include an $8 million Chicago complex at 61st Street and South Stony Island Avenue and construction in Addison, Carol Stream and Quincy.

Claim Property Underassessed

Delay Action On Charges By CAP

by WANDALYN RICE

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education Thursday delayed any action on charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP) that property in Schaumburg Township is underassessed.

Board members agreed they did not have enough information on the charges to take any action. They had received a copy of the report, charging that taxing bodies are losing nearly $7 million because of underassessment of four business properties from Doug Verdonck, president of the Dist. 211 Education Association, which helped finance the study.

In his letter to the board, Verdonck offered the legal services of the Illinois Education Association, with which his group is affiliated, if the board should want to take legal action on the assessments against Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

According to the CAP study, Dist. 211 will lose more than $1.6 million in property tax money next year because of the underassessment of Woodfield Mall, Union Oil Co., Meadow Trace Apartment Complex and Motorola Inc. Communications Division.

IN SUGGESTING that the board table the study while awaiting further information, Board Pres. Robert Creek volunteered to disqualify himself from discussion of the report. Creek is executive vice president of Union Oil Co. and is in charge of the Union Oil facility at 200 E. Golf Rd. in Schaumburg Township.

Board member Alexander Langsdorf agreed with Creek's suggestion to table the item, noting that Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert Atcher has said the CAP's statement that commercial property in the township is worth $1 a square foot is excessive.

Supt. Richard Kolze told the board he has invited Atcher to appear to discuss the CAP report at the Dec. 14 board meeting.

Board member Robert Seger also agreed that the board should await further developments and watch actions that might be taken against Cullerton by other governmental bodies.

"Hopefully something will be done on a state-wide or county-wide basis rather than in one area," Seger said. "Maybe there is something we should do, but we should do it on the basis of complete intelligence and not on emotion. Emotion" (Continued on page 3)

2 Commercial Projects On Village Agenda

Two proposed developments on Northwest Highway in Palatine will be discussed tonight by the Palatine Village Board.

Meeting as a committee-of-the-whole, the trustees will consider a request for a special use to operate a Pizza Hut restaurant at 231 N. Northwest Highway, and a request for a special use for a MacCleen's franchise car wash just south of Robertson Street.

The plan commission, over the objections of two members, issued a positive recommendation to the pizza parlor, but recommended denial of the car wash, mainly because of increased traffic it would generate.

In other action tonight, the trustees will discuss a proposed revision in the engineering plans for the Village Oasis shopping center on Northwest Highway, west of Smith Street.

The board meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock in the village hall.

Apartment, Shop Center Proposal Will Be Heard

A meeting will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in Rolling Meadows City Hall to discuss developer Eugene Beery's proposal to construct an apartment and shopping center complex on 45 acres near Harper College.

Discussing the proposal will be a five-man committee made up of Aids. Tom Waldron, Kenneth Retzke, Stephen Eberhard, Tom Scanlan, and John Rock. The five were chosen Oct. 10 by Mayor Roland Meyer to meet with Palatine developer Beery to, as Meyer put it, "iron out the differences between Mr. Beery and the city."

Beery's plan calls for the construction of five 3-story buildings, two 13-story buildings and a five-acre shopping center, which will all be known as the Aspen Apartments. The plan has sought acceptance for more than two years within the Northwest suburbs. Rolling Meadows was approached with the project in January.

MEYER HAD appointed the committee during a city council meeting after Waldron, chairman of the city's building and zoning committee, recommended a final vote on the plan be deferred until the council's Dec. 12 meeting.

Prior to that council meeting, Waldron's committee had voted to recommend the city deny approval of the project because it was felt the city should not have another large apartment complex. But while Waldron said at the time his committee was "against the plan as presented," it might be receptive to a plan that "included more of a mix of single-family units."

Submitted plans call for the construction of 738 one-bedroom and 246 two-bedroom apartments.

The project has encountered opposition from residents in the Hunting Ridge subdivision in Palatine since their homes would face the development. The residents have objected that the highrise structures would alter the "complexion of the residential area" as well as add to traffic problems in the area.

Plan For Police Patrol Of Parks Hits New Snag

Officials of the Rolling Meadows Park District have yet to work out arrangements with the city police on a plan to have city police assume greater patrolling powers of park facilities.

Delays in arranging details of the plan have put off the start of the program, expected by late November. As originally presented in early October, the plan called for the police to oversee park security on a full-time basis, with the park district paying half the program's salary cost.

But according to Ald. William Ahrens, chairman of the license, police and health committee, the district is now asking for only weekend supervision at the sports complex.

"For some reason they're dragging their heels on this, and I've asked them to appear before our committee (tomorrow)," Ahrens said Friday. "This should have been made number one priority," he said. "They've let this slide and I don't know why."

PARK BOARD chairman William Billings, said Friday that only the financial aspects of the program remain to be worked out. He said the park and city have to decide whether to pay for the program on an hourly basis or lump sum payment.

The plan at present calls for a 50 day contract with the police to patrol the sports complex from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Before the plan can be put into effect, it would have to be approved by both the park board and the city council. City approval would come at a council meeting, with the next meeting scheduled for Dec. 12.

City police currently act as ex officio park police by patrolling park grounds. Billings said the new proposal would have police on duty inside park buildings. Previously, security within the buildings was provided by a private firm.

Sports complex security needs are heightened now, Ahrens pointed out, since the hockey season is under way.

Discussion of the matter at tomorrow night's committee meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the city hall.

THE NORTH POLE is a long way away, and even special delivery letters take a long time to get there. So Mike Smith of Palatine mailed his Christmas list, including a railroad, an Army jeep and a toy streamroller, to Santa Saturday. The special delivery mailbox is at the Palatine Post Office, 440 N. Golf, and post office officials guarantee delivery by Christmas.

ally I think the guy (Cullerton) has done a lot of things wrong."

IN OTHER action, the board also postponed a scheduled discussion of "open campus" policies at their schools because Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tuttle of Schaumburg were unable to appear before the board.

Tuttle had originally appeared before the board in October to ask that the board reconsider its policy that prohibits

"open campus," which would allow students to leave the school grounds during their lunch hours.

The board has received a report on open campus operations in other school districts from its administration. Thursday it was presented with more information on the operation of open campus programs at Wheeling and Hersey high schools in Dist. 214. The board has not made the reports on open campus public.

In other action the board:

—approved a policy requiring all department chairmen to obtain master's degrees by Sept. 1, 1978. Supt. Richard Kolze estimated that about five chairmen will be affected by the new rule.

—referred to its attorney a proposed definition of "gross disobedience" to be used in student discipline cases. A report is expected from the attorney at the next meeting.

Golf-Higgins Crossing To Open

The long-awaited opening of the Golf and Higgins roads intersection project is scheduled for Wednesday, according to an official of the state highway department.

Howard Westhal of the state department of transportation said plans are to open the complete intersection about 3 p.m. Wednesday to accommodate the evening rush hour traffic.

The construction project at the intersection has been delayed for months and monumental traffic jams have occurred there.

Westhal said he hopes the completion of the intersection will relieve some of the congestion.

The intersection will allow two lanes of traffic to flow each direction. Left and right turn lanes have also been built. Traffic flow will be controlled by electric traffic signals.

The construction, which was originally scheduled to be completed in August, was first held up by delays in relocating underground utilities in the area. Bad weather and heavy rains also pushed the completion back more than a month.

"The opening of the intersection should be welcomed by many area motorists," Westhal said.

Campbell To Seek Election To Park Board Position

Recently appointed Rolling Meadows Park Board Commissioner Robert Campbell has announced he will seek election to the post in April.

Campbell was appointed to the board Sept. 29 to fill the unexpired term of Charles Boyer who resigned. Campbell is seeking a two-year term to complete the original six-year park board term of office.

Campbell revealed his decision at a recent board meeting at which Edward Peszek said he will not seek reelection.

After being appointed to the board in 1970, Peszek won election to a two-year term which now expires. The seat is for a full six-year term.

There are only two park board seats up for election this year and persons interested in running for the offices may pick up petitions at the park district administration office, 1 Park Meadow Pl.

Candidates for the park board must receive 25 signatures which represents two per cent of the total votes cast in the last election.

Under an amendment to the Illinois Park District Code, candidates have from Dec. 26 to Dec. 30 to file their nominating petitions. Candidates formerly had until Feb. 1 to file for a spot on the April ballot.

Edward Peszek

There has been speculation the few days allowed to file petitions for office might drive away potential office seekers.

But Sen. Edward McBroom, R-Kankakee, sponsor of the park code amendment, said the change was made to simply make election procedures more uniform.

"It seemed to me that all other office (township offices) have 10 days to file and the law just wasn't consistent," he said.

Although McBroom said he intended a 10-day filing period, the law has been interpreted to allow five days.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE FIREMEN fought a $300,000 blaze at the Terrace Apartments, 902 Ridge Sq. for 1 1/2 hours Saturday before the fire was brought under control. Some 13 fire departments from neighboring communities and a Civil Defense unit responded to the fire. A nearby motel

Stalemate Drags Into 10th Week

No Optimism In General Time Strike

In the midst of one of the longest industrial strikes in the Northwest suburbs this year, there appears to be little hope that the General Time Corp. in Rolling Meadows and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) Union will reach an accord soon.

"The parties are reluctant to meet and I rather doubt there will be talks scheduled for next week," Clair Willmoth, a spokesman for the Federal Mediation Service, said Friday. "The company says they have made their offer and will not change it."

That offer involves the company's refusal to allow its 125 production workers to have a closed union shop.

spokesmen say they will not return to work unless the closed union shop issue is included in a new contract. The stalemate has dragged the strike into its tenth week.

The only other major industrial strike this year, at the Honeywell plant in Arlington Heights, was resolved after nine weeks. The issue prompting that walkout was fringe benefits.

Workers at General Time had originally approved a strike vote Sept. 28 in an effort to force the company to abandon a dual wage scale that benefited new employees over those with seniority. That issue has apparently been settled, union spokesmen indicate, but the closed shop question seems to have developed into an even greater stumbling block.

REPRESENTATIVES OF the company continue to remain silent on the strike, but IBEW officials say the union will never agree to a contract that does not include the guarantee of a closed shop. They say the majority of workers involved in the strike support this position, even though the union admits that some workers have broken the strike and returned to their jobs.

The company had started a back-to-work movement last week in an effort to bring the employees back, the union says.

A letter was sent by the company to employees telling them among other things that insurance and medical benefits would terminate as of Nov. 30 for those who remained on strike.

Advertisements were also placed by the company in an attempt to hire replacements. The ads included a statement saying a strike was in progress at the company.

While IBEW spokesman Jerry Sauriol says the union will not attempt to stop replacement workers who cross the picket line, the union will demand that those hired during the strike be released when the walkout is ended.

Delay Action On Charges By CAP

THE HERALD Monday, December 4, 1972 Section 1 —3

by WANDALYN RICE
The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education Thursday delayed any action on charges by the Citizens Action Program (CAP) that property in Schaumburg Township is underassessed.

Board members agreed they did not have enough information on the charges to take any action. They had received a copy of the report, charging that taxing bodies are losing nearly $7 million because of underassessment of four business properties from Doug Verdonck, president of the Dist. 211 Education Association, which helped finance the study.

In his letter to the board, Verdonck offered the legal services of the Illinois Education Association, with which his group is affiliated, if the board should want to take legal action on the assessments against Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton.

According to the CAP study, Dist. 211

will lose more than $1.6 million in property tax money next year because of the underassessment of Woodfield Mall, Union Oil Co., Meadow Trace Apartment Complex and Motorola Inc.-Communications Division.

IN SUGGESTING that the board table the study while awaiting further information, Board Pres. Robert Creek volunteered to disqualify himself from discussion of the report. Creek is executive vice president of Union Oil Co. and is in charge of the Union Oil facility at 200 E. Golf Rd. in Schaumburg Township.

Board member Alexander Langsdorf agreed with Creek's suggestion to table the item, noting that Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert Atcher has said the CAP's statement that commercial property in the township is worth $1 a square foot is excessive.

Supt. Richard Kolze told the board he has invited Atcher to appear to discuss the CAP report at the Dec. 14 board meeting.

Board member Robert Seger also agreed that the board should await further developments and watch actions that might be taken against Cullerton by other governmental bodies.

"Hopefully something will be done on a state-wide or county-wide basis rather than in one area," Seger said. "Maybe there is something we should do, but we should do it on the basis of complete intelligence and not on emotion. Emotionally I think the guy (Cullerton) has done a lot of things wrong."

IN OTHER action, the board also postponed a scheduled discussion of "open campus" policies at their schools because Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tuttle of Schaumburg were unable to appear before the board.

Tuttle had originally appeared before the board in October to ask that the board reconsider its policy that prohibits "open campus," which would allow students to leave the school grounds during their lunch hours.

The board has received a report on open campus operations in other school districts from its administration. Thursday it was presented with more information on the operation of open campus programs at Wheeling and Hersey high schools in Dist. 214. The board has not made the reports on open campus public.

In other action the board:

- approved a policy requiring all department chairmen to obtain master's degrees by Sept. 1, 1976. Supt. Richard Kolze estimated that about five chairmen will be affected by the new rule.
- referred to its attorney a proposed definition of "gross disobedience" to be used in student discipline cases. A report is expected from the attorney at the next meeting.

Her Dream Becomes A Reality

Walker Helps Celebrate Statehood

by MARY HOULIHAN
Patty Panala, 11, knew that Governor-elect Daniel Walker would make it to Busse School in Mount Prospect for the students' celebration of Statehood Day Friday.

"I had a dream about two weeks ago I just saw him coming up the walk and all the kids were saying 'Mr. Walker is here, Mrs. Walker is here,'" Patty explained.

And though Walker had received many other invitations to speak, he decided to come to Busse Friday to help celebrate the 154th anniversary of Illinois' admittance into the union as a state. At the last minute, it was feared the snow and near-freezing temperatures might keep him away, but at 10 a.m., Walker was ushered into the school gymnasium just in time for the opening parade.

HOLDING MISS Panala's hand (Patty was chairman of the day's celebration), Walker made his way to the front of the school gymnasium for a short speech. After greeting the invited guests including State Representatives Eugene Schlickman, David Regner and Eugenia Chapman and Mount Prospect Villages Mgr. Robert Eppley, he explained why he decided to come to Busse.

"I selected this as the first appointment I made outside of Chicago since my election, because of who you are and what you are doing," Walker said.

"Some of you may remember that I walked 1,200 miles through the state of Illinois and that was a way for me to learn about the state."

"During that time I talked with a lot of young people about their desire to get involved in government. I hope that you will continue your interest in our state, its history and its culture. I hope that each and every one of you will participate and become involved in politics and government," he said.

Walker talked briefly of Illinois' reputation as the "heartland state of America" and as the leading export state, then turned the microphone back to the students for a pantomime history of Illinois. Students traced the history of the state from its early beginnings, with various youngsters dressed up as some of Illinois' most famous citizens, including Abraham Lincoln, Jane Addams and Edward O'Hare.

AFTER THE presentation, Walker lingered for a while at the entrance of the school, talking with Dist. 57 Board Pres. Robert Nevy and some teachers, but television newsmen soon engulfed him with their questions and cameras.

Asked about the possible resurrection of Crosstown Expressway plans, Walker said, "There will be no resurrection of the Crosstown. The governor has a power to control that. I made a pledge in my campaign and I keep my pledges," he said.

About plans for dismissing any state workers once he takes office in Springfield, he said there will be no mass firings. "I certainly intend to clean house in the sense of getting rid of the pay-rollers who aren't getting the job done," he explained. "But the people who do their job will be retained."

Walker said he would not give any preference as to who he would like to see selected as Illinois House majority leader (there is a fight going on now between the present majority leader Robert Blair, a Democrat and Rep. Henry Hyde, a Republican). "That is a matter for the legislature to decide," he explained.

Through it all, Patty stayed calm and, despite her dream, admitted that she was excited. "My teacher encouraged me to do the program, but I didn't think it would be this big," she said.

It was Patty's dad who suggested she write to Walker. "I talked to my dad and he said it might be a good idea," she said.

Christmas Card Week Extra Hours, Special Labels To Speed Postman's Job

"Neither sleet nor rain nor gloom of night shall stay this carrier from his appointed rounds."

Christmas cards, however, have been known to slow down those carriers.

This year, the Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village post offices are planning a Christmas Card Week from Dec. 10 to Dec. 16. The three post offices will also be open two Saturdays, Dec. 9 and Dec. 16, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Starting today, mail carriers will deliver mailing labels, to include "Arlington Heights Only," "Elk Grove Village Only," "Rolling Meadows Only," and Chicago Zip Coded Only.

"We hope that everyone will bundle their Christmas cards in these four separations, with all other cards being placed in a fifth bundle before depositing them in a fifth bundle before depositing them in postal boxes," said Postmaster Robert J. Proebstle. "And, please, use zip codes."

PROEBSTLE AND all of the other postal employees are getting ready for the annual onslaught of Christmas mail which in the past has doubled the daily number of letters handled by the three offices.

"We handle about 400,000 to 500,000 letters a day," said Proebstle. "In the 10-day period prior to Christmas we handle between 800,000 and a million letters daily."

Proebstle says he would like to encourage people to mail early and spread out the Christmas rush a bit.

"To avoid the last minute rush, the three post offices have an unlimited supply of two issues of the 1972 Christmas stamps, in addition to the regular issues of stamps in sheets and coil form," said Proebstle.

The Arlington Heights Post Office is located at 909 W. Euclid, and the two branch offices are located in the northwest corner of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center, 3200 Kirchoff, and in the Grove Shopping Center at Arlington.

Walker Helps Celebrate Statehood — And Girl's Dream

by MARY HOULIHAN

Patty Panala, 11, knew that Governor-elect Daniel Walker would make it to Busse School in Mount Prospect for the students' celebration of Statehood Day Friday.

"I had a dream about two weeks ago. I just saw him coming up the walk and all the kids were saying 'Mr. Walker is here, Mrs. Walker is here,'" Patty explained.

And though Walker had received many other invitations to speak, he decided to come to Busse Friday to help celebrate the 154th anniversary of Illinois' admittance into the union as a state. At the last minute, it was feared the snow and near-freezing temperatures might keep him away, but at 10 a.m., Walker was ushered into the school gymnasium just in time for the opening parade.

HOLDING MISS Panala's hand (Patty was chairman of the day's celebration), Walker made his way to the front of the school gymnasium for a short speech. After greeting the invited guests including State Representatives Eugene Schlick-man, David Regner and Eugenia Chapman and Mount Prospect Village Mgr. Robert Eppley, he explained why he decided to come to Busse.

"I selected this as the first appointment I made outside of Chicago since my election, because of who you are and what you are doing," Walker said. "Some of you may remember that I walked 1,200 miles through the state of Illinois and that was a way for me to learn about the state."

"During that time I talked with a lot of young people about their desire to get involved in government. I hope that you will continue your interest in our state, its history and its culture. I hope that each and every one of you will participate and become involved in politics and government," he said.

Rezoning Hearing Dec. 15

192-Unit Luxury Complex Planned For River Road

A 192-unit "luxury-type" multi-family development is being planned for the west side of River Road, just north of Euclid Avenue in Mount Prospect.

A public hearing for a rezoning of the property will be held Dec. 15 before the Mount Prospect Plan Commission. The purchaser of the 10-acre site is Ceisel-McGuire Industries, Inc., of Northbrook, developers of the Mallard Lake housing complex in Wheeling.

Edwin A. McGuire, of Ceisel-McGuire, said that while the decision of whether the units will be apartments or condominiums has not yet been made, they will be of a garden-type. Other plans, such as the number or height of the buildings, have not been determined at this time but will be ready by the hearing.

The firm is seeking a multi-family planned unit development zoning for the property.

THE LAND is currently zoned for single-family residential as it is part of the land annexed to the village just over a year ago. McGuire said that his group had the proper zoning for the 192-units in the county.

Another spokesman for the company, Wally Fitzsimmons, said that soil tests have just been completed and facts, such as the number of buildings, will follow from these tests and others. Fitzsimmons said he believed the land had been rezoned in the county in 1969.

Other recent rezoning requests for land along River Road have met with mixed success.

Two weeks ago the village board turned down a request for a planned unit development zoning to allow a five-story, 80-unit condominium project on River Road, just north of Camp McDonald Road. Owners of that property, including Brickman Midwest Corp., had based their petition partially on the fact that they had already had the proper zoning in the county and prior to annexation to the village.

Last July the village board approved "in concept" a four-story, 140-unit apartment building at the northwest corner of River and Kensington roads. No construction has taken place on the site.

GOV-ELECT DANIEL WALKER holds Patty Panala's hand as he waits to be presented to the audience at Busse School in Mount Prospect during celebration of Statehood Day last Friday. Patty, chairman of the festivities commemorating the anniversary of the state's entrance into the union in 1818, wrote to the governor-elect asking him to attend the special ceremonies.

Dr. Bradley Among Hundreds Honoring 'Pastor Steve'

Several hundred persons, including Dr. Preston Bradley of The Peoples Church of Chicago, paid tribute to the Rev. Edwin Stevens, dean of Mount Prospect's ministerial community, at a banquet in his honor Saturday night.

Rev. Stevens, who is 67, has served as the pastor of South Church Community Baptist in Mount Prospect for the last 33 years. He will retire on Christmas Eve this year.

Among the more than 420 persons attending the "Pastor Steve Appreciation Dinner" at the Casa Royale Restaurant in Des Plaines were State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Telchert and Dr. Bradley who was the principal speaker.

DR. BRADLEY TOLD the audience, "The greatest opportunity the church ever had is coming. There is a renewal of man's yearning for God," said Dr. Bradley, in predicting a religious renaissance unlike anything that has gone before.

"Something is going to happen in the next quarter century. The next 25 years are the most critical in the history of man."

"This is one world for the first time in the history of mankind, and we'd better realize it. Today we can press a button and light a continent."

"This is the first time man has held energy in the palm of his hand. When Einstein split the atom, we learned the relationship between energy and matter. And if we wait for some maniac to press a button and send us all floating through space, then God will weep."

Now, he warned is the time to realign the nation's priorities. "Three more boys will soon make a visit to the moon. Why I don't know. We can't even live together in Chicago. Why should we go to the moon? I'm not interested in spending one more dollar to go to the moon."

AND ABOUT THE Vietnam War, Dr. Bradley said, "Look at how one man, (President) Thieu, can stymie the peace for the world that we had been promised by Mr. (Presidential adviser Henry) Kissinger. I wish someone would say to Mr. Thieu, 'Not another dollar, not another life. We are going to build peace, and you can help or get out of the way.'"

Sounding a call for brotherhood among religions, Dr. Bradley noted that while Christianity itself is almost 2,000 years old, Christian theology did not start until the 5th Century when a group of bishops "held a nice Christian meeting at Nicea and two of them were killed."

Concluding, he said, "I respect loyalty. If I were Catholic, I'd out-Catholic the Pope. But, let's be loyal together!"

PRESENTATIONS to Rev. Stevens Saturday night included a gift of $10,000 from the congregation. He also received a Mount Prospect Village Board Resolution of Appreciation from Mayor Telchert. Other awards came from the Mount Prospect Rotary Club, Mount Prospect Ministerial Association, Salvation Army Community Counseling Center, Chicago Baptist Association, Chicago Baptist Ministers Association, Mount Prospect Park District and the Baptist Retirement Home.

Rev. Stevens was born in southern Vermont. He entered the ministry as a student pastor almost 50 years ago. Rev. Stevens was formally ordained in April, (Continued on page 3)

Wagon Full Of Gifts Stolen From Lot

A White Volkswagen bus filled with Christmas gifts was stolen Thursday from the Randhurst Shopping Center parking lot in Mount Prospect.

The 1968 vehicle, valued at $1,300, was owned by Glenn Richert of Glenview, according to police. He had been shopping and had made several trips from the center to the vehicle to leave gifts, however, when he went out about 6:30 p.m., the vehicle was gone. The gifts included a woman's jacket, some children's clothes and tools.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The nation's Democratic governors voted in St. Louis to recommend that Jean Westwood resign as Democratic national chairman and that former party treasurer Robert Strauss be elected later this week to replace her.

The Food and Drug Administration's product safety director said the hidden hazards in toys — pins embedded in dolls or squeaker devices that can be swallowed — have been virtually eliminated from the market this year.

Helmeted National Park rangers braved plummeting chunks of ice and freezing water in efforts to retrieve the torn bodies of a couple who made an apparent lovers suicide leap 1,430 feet down thundering Yosemite Falls in Yose-mite, Calif. A team of climbers retrieved what appeared to be "the upper thigh" of a body on the third attempt to reach the bodies.

The United States will consult West Germany and its other allies at the coming NATO meeting on when and how to extend formal diplomatic recognition to East Germany, State Department sources said.

The World

Children in Belfast found the body of still another victim of Northern Ireland's sectarian violence. The British Army announced the capture of two high-ranking officers of the Irish Republican Army in its continued crackdown on IRA suspects.

A chartered jetliner packed with German tourists crashed in a towering ball of flame seconds after takeoff from the Canary Islands and all 155 persons aboard were killed. The crash was the worst in Spanish history and one of the four worst in the annals of civil aviation.

The State

The Indianapolis Star said that plans to dump Chicago area sewage onto farms in northern Indiana are still being considered by the Army Corps of Engineers Office at Chicago.

Sen. Charles Percy arrived in Vietnam for a 24-hour visit as part of a tour of Asian nations during the U.S. Congressional recess. It is his first visit to Vietnam since his narrow escape from death in 1968 when his helicopter sustained heavy groundfire during a field trip into the Central Highlands.

state from its early beginnings, with various youngsters dressed up as some of Illinois' most famous citizens, including Abraham Lincoln, Jane Addams and Edward O'Hare.

AFTER THE presentation, Walker lingered for a while at the entrance of the school, talking with Dist. 57 Board Pres. Robert Novy and some teachers, but television newsmen soon engulfed him with their questions and cameras.

Asked about the possible resurrection of Crosstown Expressway plans, Walker said, "There will be no resurrection of the Crosstown. The governor has a power to control that. I made a pledge in my campaign and I keep my pledges," he said.

About plans for dismissing any state workers once he takes office in Springfield, he said there will be no mass firings. "I certainly intend to clean house in the sense of getting rid of the pay-rollers who aren't getting the job done," he explained. "But the people who do their job will be retained."

Walker said he would not give any preference as to who he would like to see selected as Illinois House majority leader (there is a fight going on now between the present majority leader Robert Blair, a Democrat and Rep. Henry Hyde, a Republican). "That is a matter for the legislature to decide," he explained.

Through it all, Patty stayed calm and, despite her dream, admitted that she was excited. "My teacher encouraged me to do the program, but I didn't think it would be this big," she said.

It was Patty's dad who suggested she write to Walker. "I talked to my dad and he said it might be a good idea," she said.

Police Seek Rapist

Mount Prospect police still are looking for the man who raped a 23-year-old woman last Wednesday in a building under construction at the Huntington Commons development in Mount Prospect.

Police have released a composite drawing of the man, based on the victim's description. The suspect is reported to be white, 19 to 25 years old, about 160 pounds, and between 5 feet 8 inches and 5 feet 9 inches tall.

Police said the man was wearing a dark knit, Navy-type hat, a light or beige colored wool coat that could have been a military jacket. He had long, dark hair that covered his ears.

Magnet Wire Pollution System On

Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. officials reported last week that the newly installed air pollution control system at the company's Elk Grove Village plant is in full operation.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said company spokesmen told him and representatives from the Illinois Attorney General's office at a hearing that the afterburners of the system had been turned on and the pollution abatement equipment was now working.

Hofert said another hearing was set for Dec. 20 to approve testing procedures of the equipment and to draw up a schedule for that testing.

The equipment installed at the plant at 901 Chase Ave. is a direct fire incinerator designed to burn off 95 per cent of the odor-producing phenolic compounds. The equipment was to have been operational by Oct. 15, but the company received an extension of the deadline because of delays in receiving some materials for the system.

AN AGREEMENT to install the equipment was made last March among the company, the village and the state to settle an air pollution suit and countersuit filed last year in Cook County Circuit Court. The agreement required Magnet Wire to install devices that would eliminate 95 per cent of the odor emitted by the plant.

Both the air pollution suit and the countersuit were continued until the Oct. 15 deadline for installation of the abatement system, but the agreement provided for an extension of the deadline if necessary.

In September Magnet Wire officials appeared at a hearing requesting an extension of the deadline because of delays in receiving the parts for the system. Earlier this summer the company reported it was behind schedule because some deliveries from Pennsylvania were late because of flooding.

Residents from Elk Grove Village, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights have complained of the odor emitted by the plant in its manufacturing process.

2 Burglaries Reported

Two home burglaries, resulting in only slight losses, took place in Mount Prospect Thursday.

Police said a burglar crawled through a bedroom window at the home of Nick J. Mattea, 514 S. Owen St. to take $200 to $300 from a bedroom dresser. When the family returned home about 10 p.m., they told the police they heard footsteps and believe the burglars were still in the home. Entry was gained when a storm window was forced.

The second burglary took place at 101 N. Maple St., the home of Frank A. Spoford, where the burglar took a $15 transistor radio and $5 cash from a piggy bank. Police said the front door's window had been broken to allow the burglar to reach the inside door knob. The front door is hidden from the street by a large pine tree.

Both burglaries took place sometime during the day and in the second instance, the home was ransacked, police said.

Park Candidates To File Petitions From Dec. 26-30

by CINDY TEW

Residents planning to run for one of five Arlington Heights Park District seats will have from Dec. 26 to Dec. 30 to file their nominating petitions, according to an amendment in the Illinois Park District Code.

Candidates formerly had until about Feb. 1 to file for a spot on the April ballot.

So far none of the current park board commissioners will say they plan to seek reelection. However, Comr. C. Robert Rees, who was appointed to the board last spring, definitely has decided against seeking a seat.

BECAUSE OF four resignations within five months last year, all five seats on the board are open. Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation, this is the first time in recent history that all five seats are being vacated at once.

At stake will be two six-year terms, one unexpired four-year term and two unexpired two-year terms.

Petitions are available at Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge, and must be returned by Dec. 30 with at least 193 signatures on them. The number of signatures required is 2 per cent of the total number of votes cast in the last election.

Park district residents who say they may run for one of the five non-paying positions are William E. Schumann, William G. Hesse and Mrs. Vincent A. Cunningham. Schumann and Hesse were unsuccessful candidates in the 1971 election.

FOUR BOARD members who are considering seeking another term are board president Charles Cronin, Jack Edwards, Lloyd Meyer and Kay Muller. Cronin has been on the board for 14 years, and Edwards, Meyer and Mrs. Muller were appointed to the board last spring. Edwards previously had served a six-year term on the board.

These four board members say they plan to make the decision within the next 2½ weeks.

"There are lots of things to consider before deciding to run for a board seat," said Comr. Lloyd Meyer. "I'll probably decide after the Dec. 16 ($2.55 million) referendum, which is my first priority now."

Park board commissioners and residents who regularly attend to board's meetings were surprised at this short, early time for filing nominating petitions. The change was made in the law in July with an amendment to the Illinois Park District Code, and an interpretation of the change was recently sent to all park districts from Attorney Robert Stewart.

Sen. Edward McBroom, R-Kankakee, sponsor of the park code amendment, said the change was made simply to make election procedures more uniform.

THE AMENDMENT says a nominating petition for park commissioners must be filed the same number of days before the election as that for senatorial office. Senatorial candidates must file "not more than 99 and not less than 92 days" before the election according to the Illinois Election Code.

"It seemed to me that all other offices (that is township offices) have 10 days to file and the law just wasn't consistent," McBroom said.

Though McBroom said he intended a 10-day filing period, the filing time allowed is only five days, according to Stewart's interpretation.

The Arlington Heights municipal elections, at which at least two trustee seats and the village presidency will be at stake, will be held in conjunction with the park district election April 3.

Village Clerk Ken Bonder, however, said candidates for that election have from Dec. 26 through Jan. 29 to file nominating petitions. Bonder received the filing dates from the Illinois Secretary of State's office.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE FIREMEN fought a $300,000 blaze at the Terrace Apartments, 902 Ridge Sq. for 1½ hours Saturday before the fire was brought under control. Some 13 fire departments from neighboring communities and a Civil Defense unit responded to the fire. A nearby motel

Jaycees Endorse Park Referendum

The Arlington Heights Jaycee group is the first organization to officially endorse the Dec. 16 Arlington Heights Park District referendum, Robert Clark, assistant referendum chairman, told a press conference Saturday.

Other groups that have endorsed the referendum include the United States Figure Skating Association and the Chicago Figure Skating Club.

"Those three groups are the only ones I've contacted so far," said Clark, who is in charge of soliciting endorsements for the $2.55 million referendum. Clark says he hopes to get endorsements from the village, the school board and the Northwest Council of Realtors as well as businesses, homeowners groups, PTAs and other village organizations.

IN AN EFFORT to get out "yes" votes for the referendum, Clark says he is planning to contact 152 families who are members of the Arlington Hockey Association and have each family get 10 additional families in their neighborhood to vote "yes," on Dec. 16.

"By this type of pyramiding, we could get 3,000 yes votes," said Clark. If the voter turnout is comparable to the last park district referendum in 1968 when 5,784 people voted, the 3,000 "yes" votes could mean a park district victory.

Clark says the hockey families will support the referendum because of the $1.275 million sports complex, which is included in it. The complex will include two ice surfaces, an 85-by-200-foot rink and a 50-by-100-foot lesson rink.

The complex will be located at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner. It will face Douglas Street and be placed behind the existing swimming pool, replacing the outdoor hockey rink and a Boys' Baseball Inc., storage building. Some 2,000

Jaycee Christmas Tree Sales Begin

This year, the Arlington Heights Jaycees annual Christmas tree sale has an added personal touch.

Several weeks ago, the Jaycees journeyed to Newaygo, Michigan, to select, cut and wrap the trees they'll be selling at the Arlington Market shopping center.

This was the first time that the Jaycees had done their own on-site tree selection. In the past the trees have been delivered by a private contractor sight unseen.

Trees are on sale now at Arlington Market through Dec. 24. Funds from the sale are used to sponsor Jaycee community service projects.

square feet of space will be provided in the sports complex for baseball storage.

ALSO ELIMINATED at Recreation Park by the proposed complex will be three softball diamonds. The one remaining diamond will be lighted.

"Softball diamonds will be located at the Wilke-Kirchoff Road retention basin and at land we lease from the First Methodist Church at Miner and Gibbons to replace those diamonds lost at Recreation Park," said Park District Commissioner Kay Muller.

Park District officials determined the need for an indoor ice facility through three feasibility studies completed in the past few years by the Arlington Heights Jaycees; Carl Larson, a marketing expert, and by a citizens committee.

"Though there are commercial ice facilities near Arlington Heights, a park district facility can still be very successful because it can charge a lower admission fee," said Clark. Fees for resident use of the park district facility would be about half that of a commercial facility, according to the citizens committee. The complex, however, would produce enough revenue in the long run to abate taxes or help fund other park district programs.

THOUGH FINAL ice time schedules have not been made, a tentative schedule shows more than 40 hours of public skating time per week at the proposed facility, as compared with 21 hours of hockey time. Also included in the tentative schedule are lessons and open rental time.

Also to be included in the sports complex are administrative offices for the park district. The 2,300 square feet of office space, to be located on the second floor of the building, will be about twice the size of the present administrative offices at Olympic Park.

"We have less than half the office space per person as is considered as a minimum right now," said Roger Burke, park district treasurer. "We have a growing district and a growing staff and we need more space to operate."

Burke said the present offices could be leased to High School Dist. 214, which, he says, is in need of more office space.

Also to be included in the referendum are: $625,000 for general park improvements at 22 parks including lighting play apparatus, ball diamonds and landscaping; $70,000 for renovation of Recreation Park pool; $75,000 for a maintenance garage at Frontier Park; $70,000 for the purchase of 3.9 acres of land at Dryden, Greens and Frontier Park; $137,875 for architect, legal and other fees, and $297,125 as a contingency fund for insurance and miscellaneous expenses.

The $2.55 million referendum plus a .025 increase in the corporate tax rate of the district will add about $10 to a tax bill of $800 or about $12 to a tax bill of $1,000.

$135,000 Fire At Stonebridge Hill Complex

A fire destroyed the recreation building of the Stonebridge Hill apartment complex, 650 W. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights, early yesterday morning.

According to a police report, the building and its contents, valued at $135,000, is a total loss. There were no injuries.

The fire apparently started by a gas furnace, the police report said, and probably burned most of Saturday night and Sunday morning before the fire department was called at 8 a.m. Sunday.

Charge Pharmacist With Illegal Sales

Police have arrested an Arlington Heights pharmacist who allegedly sold controlled drugs to police informants.

Carl Cohen, 39, 2723 Dryden Pl., was charged with violation of the Illinois Controlled Substance Act for allegedly selling Rohibussin AC, a drug containing codeine, to several police informants, both men and women. Cohen is owner of the Rand-Way Pharmacy, 2314 E. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights.

Cohen has been released on 10 per cent of a $2,000 bond. His court date has been set for Dec. 29.

Police said they got a tip from an informant a week before the arrest was made that Cohen was illegally selling certain controlled drugs. The drugist would not ask for proper identification of those he was selling to, as required by law, police said.

For several days, police sent informants into the pharmacy to purchase the drugs. On each occasion, police say Cohen filled the order without asking for identification, even though he allegedly knew that some of the informants were using false names.

Arlington Heights Road

Imaginative Ideas Sought For Street

The Arlington Beautification Council (ABC) has urged the village to think beautification in "giant and imaginative doses" and to embark on a program that would give Arlington Heights Road the look of a tree-lined boulevard.

ABC Pres. Jo Hayes outlined a four-point beautification mandate which included the minimization of commercial zoning, strong architectural controls, subdued lighting and lavish use of greenery along the street.

Her comments came at a recent meeting called by the comprehensive plan committee to discuss the future development of north Arlington Heights Road. About 75 interested residents attended the meeting.

"With the amount of underdeveloped and fallow land in the central business district, further extension of commercial zoning, particularly near the central core, seems unnecessary," Mrs. Hayes said.

"Businesses should be encouraged to locate in the CBD (Central Business District)," she said.

ABC also called for stronger architectural controls on new building to "insure architectural compatibility and to reflect the subdued village residential areas immediately backing Arlington Heights Road."

ON THE SUBJECT of signs, Mrs.

Hayes urged that they be designed to preserve good taste and avoid light "spillage" and light pollution on neighboring residential areas.

"Decorative night lighting on commercial buildings should be encouraged for both aesthetic and security reasons," she said.

ABC has asked that all existing non-conforming signs and lighting be brought into conformance within five years.

Referring to greenery as "the single most important aesthetic factor on Arlington Heights Road," the ABC president urged that all parking lots along the roadway be shielded by a hedge, berm or wall and that medians be planted and then maintained.

"WE FEEL IT is an absolute must that Arlington Heights Road convey the feeling of a tree-lined boulevard, not a barren ugly scar bisecting our village," she told the committee.

ABC has recommended that parkway trees be made mandatory in all zoning categories including commercial and industrial areas.

Mrs. Hayes told the committee that Arlington Heights' beautification efforts have not kept pace with the growth of the village and that the village must intensify its efforts "or we will awaken one year to find that we are just one more piece of urban sprawl."

IT WAS A LONG stretch to the top of the Arlington Heights Historical Society Christmas tree, at 500 N. Vail, but Patti Grudzien and two other members of Arlington Heights Girl Scout Troop 474 managed to cover the tree with paper chains, snowmen and strings of cranberries. All the decorations were handmade by the troop.

Christmas Card Week

Extra Hours, Special Labels To Speed Postman's Job

"Neither sleet nor rain nor gloom of night shall stay this carrier from his appointed rounds."

Christmas cards, however, have been known to slow down those carriers.

This year, the Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village post offices are planning a Christmas Card Week from Dec. 10 to Dec. 16. The three post offices will also be open two Saturdays, Dec. 9 and Dec. 16, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Starting today, mail carriers will deliver mailing labels, to include "Arlington Heights Only," "Elk Grove Village Only," "Rolling Meadows Only," and "Chicago Zip Coded Only."

"We hope that everyone will bundle their Christmas cards in these four separations, with all other cards being placed in a fifth bundle before depositing them in a fifth bundle before depositing them in postal boxes," said Postmaster Robert J. Proebstle. "And, please, use zip codes."

PROEBSTLE AND all of the other postal employees are getting ready for the annual onslaught of Christmas mail which in the past has doubled the daily number of letters handled by the three offices.

Proebstle says he would like to encourage people to mail early and spread out the Christmas rush a bit.

"To avoid the last minute rush, the three post offices have an unlimited supply of two issues of the 1972 Christmas stamps, in addition to the regular issues of stamps in sheets and coil form," said Proebstle.

Board To Review Bids For Public Works Center

The village board tonight will review bids for a $350,000 addition to the public works center at 222 N. Ridge Avenue and construction of a $100,000 passenger depot at Arlington Park Race Track.

The public works facility is being planned to house the forestry, electrical and sign divisions.

The commuter depot at the race track is Arlington Heights' share of a three-way agreement among the village, Arlington Park and the Chicago and North Western Ry.

Railroad officials had said they hoped the new depot would be open by Jan. 1 but at this late date it seems certain the opening will be pushed back several months.

OTHER BOARD business tonight includes consideration of a multi-family development at the northeast corner of Palatine Road and Rte. 53, a proposed amendment to the village code covering townhouses and proposed changes in the planned development for Randhaven.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said once bids are approved construction of the depot would begin immediately.

Two weeks ago the railroad, which has been working on the track and platform construction for the new station demolished the old Arlington Park platform used by racing fans every summer.

Arlington Park has agreed to donate land and lighted parking area for the new depot which village officials hope will relieve some of the congestion from the downtown Arlington Heights station.

Plans for a new multi-family development near the Palatine Road-Rte. 53 intersection include 223 townhouses, 42 semi-detached houses, 30 single-family homes and 120 condominium apartments.

Homeowners Like BOLI's New Policy

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) tried something new last week and as a result won the appreciation of homeowners in Arlington Heights and Pinelake subdivisions.

BOLI has been thinking about starting a project to put village water in those areas, areas which have been in the village two years and still use private wells. Normally, BOLI would wait to hear from homeowners until after the project is under way, but Thursday night the board took a step unprecedented in its history and listened to homeowners before any action was taken on the project.

The meeting was used by the board to answer homeowners' questions and to explain how BOLI works and how the homeowners can save money on the water project by not dragging BOLI to court.

The usual process is for BOLI engineers to prepare strip maps of an area and draw up an estimate of costs. At this point, homeowners affected by the project are heard in an informal hearing and later in a formal hearing. But by this time the project is already rolling, and in most cases the homeowners fight tooth and nail not to pay the resulting special assessment. And the homeowners usually lose the battle.

BOLI PRES. Dave Patterson told the Arlington Heights residents that they could save money by not fighting a losing battle, but by voluntarily entering into a contract with the village for the work to be done.

But more importantly, BOLI listened to what the homeowner had to say, a courtesy many of them said hadn't been extended to them by the village Board of Trustees when they once went there to be heard. And because the general consensus of opinion was that village water isn't currently needed in the areas, BOLI didn't try to force it down the residents' throats.

Patterson did tell the dozen or so residents at the meeting that they would need village water in the future and that it would be cheaper (probably) to have it put in now. Still, he and the rest of the board seem willing to wait with the project if that's what the residents want.

Some of the homeowners said they would poll their neighbors on the matter and come before BOLI again late in January. BOLI engineers will draw up the strip maps required so that all involved can better determine if water should go into those areas now or later.

"I just want to say that you listened to what I said without trying to silence me down," said Robert Schultz, 402 E. Waverly Rd., the oldest resident in Pinelake. "We appreciate it, and I thank you."

Toys To Hospital

Members of Girl Scout Troop 121 in Arlington Heights recently presented toys they had made to children in the pediatric ward at Northwest Community Hospital.

The girls, Therisa Kopp, Dennis Roser, Michaele Landry, Sarah Monroe and Tamara Burnette, made yarn dolls as part of the Girl Scouts toy maker merit badge.

Senior Girl Scout Troop 294 in Arlington Heights will sponsor a Christmas boutique and bake sale Dec. 9 at the American Legion Hall, at the corner of Miner Street and Douglas Avenue.

The sale will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Homemade articles will include candles, candies, old-fashioned Christmas cards, note cards and other items.

Troop 294 is made up of 18 girls, all of whom are high school freshmen or sophomores. Co-advisors for the troop are Barbara Strickler and Mrs. Jack Tuitt.

2 Charged With Possession Of Drugs, Alcohol

Police arrested two Arlington Heights youths on drug charges midnight Wednesday after they were detained by a park district officer for allegedly drinking beer as minors.

Arrested were Perry G. Cummings, 20, 1550 N. Vail Ave., and Robert N. Fly, 19, 113 S. Waterman Rd. Both were charged with possession of marijuana and possession of alcohol as minors. Cummings was also charged with driving while intoxicated, transporting open liquor and resisting arrest. Both were released on bond.

Police said they answered a call for assistance from a park district officer who had allegedly observed the two drinking at the intersection of Palatine and Arlington Heights roads. Upon their arrival, police say they found open beer and suspected marijuana in the men's car.

After he was arrested, Cummings allegedly tried to kick the police officers and escape from the squad car, police said.

Earl Suckow To Speak On Blood Donor Plan

Representatives from 17 Arlington Heights churches are expected to attend a meeting on the cooperative village blood replacement program tonight at 8 p.m.

Dr. Earl E. Suckow of the North Suburban Blood Center will explain the center's "four per cent" plan that the village board recently endorsed.

Under the terms of that program, if 4 per cent of the village population donates one pint of blood a year, every resident would be guaranteed unlimited free blood replacement anywhere in the country.

A special committee has been created to supervise the village blood program. Members include Mike Silverman, chairman; Barbara Bourgeois, Clyde L. Groover Jr. and Delores Bricker, an employee of the village health department.

Jaycees To Sponsor Kids' Movies Dec. 10

The Arlington Heights Jaycees will sponsor an afternoon of "Kiddie Movies" Dec. 10 in the Bristol Theatre at Arlington High School.

The Jaycees are asking that each child bring one canned good as his ticket to see the movies. All the canned food collected will be donated to local charities.

The feature movie is "The Red Balloon" along with "Road Runner" cartoons at 1:30 p.m., 3 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the high school, 502 W. Euclid Ave.

Seating is limited to 330 children per show.

Women's Night Slated At Park

Activities for women only will be held from 8 to 9:30 p.m. on Thursdays at Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kennicott, beginning Dec. 7.

Volleyball, basketball and other sports will be included in the activities.

Obituaries

Harriet M. Sapper

Miss Harriet Mae Sapper 44, of 100 N. Dryden Pl., Arlington Heights, formerly of Erie, Pa., died Friday in Evanston Hospital, Evanston, after a short illness. She was born May 11, 1928, in New Jersey, and was employed as a clerk for Nuclear Data.

Visitation is today from 3 to 10 p.m. in Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, where funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Officiating will be the Rev. William H. Herman of Community Church of Rolling Meadows. Burial will be in Randall Park Cemetery, Palatine.

Surviving are her parents, Earl R. and Rose M. Sapper of Arlington Heights, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Jane (Alfred) Quade of Rolling Meadows.

Saturday's a great day of rest for most people — or, for watching the ball game, or socializing, or doing home chores. But not for our men. Probably only customers on our Wednesday-Saturday routes realize that our crews work 6 days a week — every week. Never a 2-day weekend — unless one of their six annual holidays happens to fall on a Monday.

So, if you see our man hustling to get through — on a Saturday, or any day — if he's ever a little impatient when you ask him to "wait a moment" — we hope you'll remember that he, too, has his own home chores, and the only time he gets to do his is late in the day or on Sunday — never during the day on Saturday.

Meeting At 8 p.m. Tonight

Council To Discuss Double Taxing Of New Car Buyers

The Des Plaines City Council is expected to discuss possible double taxing of new car purchasers at its 8 p.m. meeting tonight.

The Illinois Supreme Court ruled Thursday that taxing of cars by both Cook County and suburban municipalities is legal.

Officials in five other suburbs have indicated that their car taxes will be rescinded to avoid hardship on residents.

"It's very possible we'll do that, too," Mayor Herbert Behrel said. "I don't want to prejudge the council, though."

Des Plaines had approved an ordinance in February levying taxes between $3 and $15 on motor vehicles sold in the city. The county's sales tax became effective Jan. 1.

DES PLAINE, Evanston, Arlington Heights, Oak Park, Niles and Berwyn filed suit, claiming the courts should invalidate the county tax because of Illinois Constitution home rule priority.

By upholding a Cook County Circuit Court decision, the state supreme court refused to invalidate the county tax.

Two suburbs, Oak Park and Niles, placed provisions in their ordinances "ul-tilizing the local tax if the municipalities lost in court.

Des Plaines' five-page ordinance did not contain a similar clause.

"We all thought — based on what Mr. (Robert) DiLeonardi (city attorney) said — that double taxing was illegal and that the court would allow the county to tax in unincorporated areas and the city to tax within its limits," Behrel said.

"I GUESS we'll just have to discuss it again Monday night," the mayor said.

Des Plaines tax, which has not been collected, would levy a $5 tax on two-wheel vehicle sales, a $7.50 tax on three-wheel sales, a $10 tax on four-wheel vehicles, a $12.50 tax on "special mobile equipment" and a $15 tax on trucks.

The ordinance requires monthly reports by car dealers and payment of the tax to the city comptroller. Possible fines range between $100 and $500 for violation.

Local dealers have collected a $10 tax on car sales since Jan. 1, Comptroller Duane Biletz said. The funds have been placed in an "escrow" account, pending settlement of the suit.

In other action, the council is expected to consider a list of revenue sharing priorities recommended by the finance committee. The list, adopted last week, includes seven projects totaling $338,200.

FIVE OF THE projects would aid flood prevention, including a $140,000 retention basin at Oakton Street and Pennsylvania Avenue and $40,000 for installation of backup valves in four areas to prevent sanitary sewers from overflowing in city sewers.

Two non-flood projects are $22,200 to purchase eight new police cars and $24,000 to purchase a city sanitation truck.

Bus Firm Purchase At Least 2 Meetings Away

Negotiations to purchase United Motor Coach Co by the Des Plaines Mass Transit District are at least two city council meetings away.

A major stumbling block in a city attempt to take over the ailing bus firm may be the final purchase price, two appraisals conducted by the city indicate.

Mayor Herbert Behrel is expected to call a city council committee to discuss the whole meeting this month to discuss the appraisals — one on real estate and the other on bus company assets — and preliminary federal and state aid information gathered by City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi.

BEHREL AND mass transit officials received a final, written appraisal of bus company assets recently. The real estate estimate "is coming," Rex Wilson, mass transit district chairman, said. "The preliminary totals are in."

Although officials refused to discuss exact appraisal totals, the city-contracted estimates "are higher than we anticipated," Wilson said. "Of course, that doesn't mean we'll offer that much."

Value of the firm has been debated since the city began purchase discussion in 1970. A report by consultants Ernst and Ernst estimated total assets at $500,000. An appraisal by United was $793,000. Behrel has even talked of a $1 million purchase.

Wilson has discussed scheduling of the committee-of-the-whole meeting before the Dec. 18 council meeting with Behrel.

"I haven't done anything yet," said the mayor, who returned Friday from a convention in Indianapolis. The council already has scheduled one committee-of-the-whole meeting Dec. 7 to discuss personnel.

SCHEDULING OF the bus meeting will indicate that DiLeonardi is ready to outline steps to apply for an estimated $600,000 federal-state grant to finance the purchase.

Wilson, former president of Des Plaines National Bank, said DiLeonardi has been instructed to use a "median total" of $600,000 in pre-application steps.

"We instructed him to pre-apply so that it would be in the mill," Wilson said. "There's a lot of paper work to go through."

Behrel said the city attorney "will come up with ideas and suggestions for preliminary application. We can go through all the preliminary steps and still drop out."

If the district and bus company agree on a $600,000 price, the proposed federal share, under the Urban Mass Transit Act, would be about $400,000. The state would pay about $134,000 from more than $90 million earmarked for transportation. The city share would be about $66,000.

"More than likely any contract negotiated would be contingent on getting federal and state funds," DiLeonardi said. "Nothing has been worked out yet. There haven't been any definite go signals yet."

If THE council leans toward purchase negotiations, actual authorization would come at a regular Monday night meeting with Dec. 18 the first possible date.

The council also could send the concept to committee, delaying full council consideration until January or later.

Des Plaines has boosted the bus firm with $22,310 in Illinois motor fuel tax rebates since mid-1971. Niles has contributed $13,068; Park Ridge $5,790 and Morton Grove $2,492 to the firm which operates in 20 northwest suburban communities.

Des Plaines is the only municipality that has indicated interest in purchasing the firm, which also transports local school children in Maine Township. Bus company officials estimated that 40 percent of the firm's riders are from Des Plaines.

Des Plaines actual financial participation in the project could top $365,000. A purchase proposal by Ernst and Ernst totals $3.42 million, including cost of 65 new 53-passenger buses. About $2.28 million is maximum federal participation in the project.

Snow Causes Many Minor Accidents

Friday's unexpected snowstorm swept through Des Plaines during the morning rush hour, resulting in 28 auto accidents including an auto-train collision at Frontage Road and the Soo Line tracks.

Police said no one was injured in the wreck, which occurred at 8:30 a.m. The driver and his wife jumped out of their stranded car just before the train struck, police said.

According to reports, Toshio Suda, 57 of 774 Arlington Ave., Des Plaines, was driving northbound on Mannheim Road and turned right onto Frontage Road because the northbound lanes were blocked due to an earlier accident.

Suda reportedly told police as he drove across the tracks his auto got stuck in the snow and ice and could not be moved off the tracks.

Suda said he saw the train coming down the tracks and he and his wife jumped out of the stranded auto seconds before the train hit their car.

The impact of the collision reportedly caused Suda's car to spin around and hit the crossing signal which was then out of order for a couple of hours until it was repaired.

Police said the department normally handles 10 to 15 auto accidents during a 24-hour period but on Friday there were 28 reported accidents between 7 a.m. and noon. Most of them were due to the slippery roads and the large volume of traffic during the rush hour, police said.

14 Families Left Homeless

$300,000 Fire Rips Complex

by CAROL RHINE
Some residents of the Terrace Apartment complex at 902 Ridge Sq., Elk Grove Village, returned to their homes yesterday in the wake of a $300,000 fire that raged through their building early Saturday injuring two persons and leaving 14 families homeless.

A spokesman for Baird and Warner building management company said yesterday that some families were being allowed to move back into the three-story building as soon as water could be vacuumed out of carpeting. He added that in badly damaged units residents were offered accommodations in other apartments in the complex.

"We hope to have the people in partially damaged apartments back in their homes by Christmas, but it may take a couple of months to repair the units that were completely gutted," he said. The spokesman added that only 14 of the 54 units in the L-shaped building were uninhabitable. Many residents in the fire-damaged building chose to remain in their apartments during the weekend.

ELK GROVE Village Fire Chief Allen Hulet said the fire was started by a cigarette discarded in an overstuffed chair in Apartment 208, belonging to Patrick Fairman. He said occupants of the apartment pushed the burning chair onto the balcony, where the flames ignited the balcony above and spread to the roof.

Hulet said Donald Brady was rescued from a bedroom window of the burning apartment by a ladder truck. He was taken to Alexian Brothers Medical Center in the village where he was treated and released.

Other occupants evacuated the burning building through the hallways and out the exits.

Fireman David McCulla, 32, sustained cuts on his hands while fighting the fire inside the building. He also was treated and released at Alexian hospital.

HULET SAID the fire was brought under control in 1 1/2 hours with the help of 13 fire departments and a Civil Defense unit from as far away as Skokie, including equipment from Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Buffalo Grove. Engines from Des Plaines and Palatine stood by at Elk Grove Village stations in case of a simultaneous emergency.

Inn in the village while others stayed with friends and relatives.

A PARTIAL list of residents made homeless by the fire include: Theresa Molnae, Ismail Loghel, Cynthia Phillips, Dr. Polner, Lynn Lombardo, T. Dacey, Vance Olson, Gerald Estinosa, Naji Lugliod, Lorraine Leahy, Kenneth Wallock, Ellen Hill, Robert Portnoy, Ronald Saclenger, Margaret and Debbie Henline, J. Crist, C. Folsted, David Mills, Michael McNew, Paul Wavra, L. Schlegel and Edward Haskell.

Hulet said the fire Saturday was very comparable to a blaze in the same apartment complex at 912 Ridge Sq. in January, which caused $267,000 damage. He said he based the weekend's damage estimate on the January fire.

Fire Safety Tips Offered For The Christmas Season

Des Plaines Fire Chief Frank Haag has released a list of Christmas fire safety suggestions to help reduce fire hazards around the home during the holiday season.

Purchase a freshly cut tree which has been stored out-of-doors. Do not set it up until a few days before Christmas, preferably Christmas Eve.

A stand that holds water in its base is best. Make a fresh cut at the base of the trunk, and place in water. Be sure that water is added each day.

The location of the tree is of vital importance whether it is in the home or a place of assembly. Do not place near a stairway as this acts as a flue and would carry the fire to the upper floors. Inspect the tree daily to determine whether the tree is safe to have lights turned on again that day.

Locate the tree in the coolest part of the room. If necessary, shut off any nearby radiator or hot air register. Do not place the tree near a stove or fireplace or other source of heat or direct flame.

Choose only electrical tree decorations (lighting fixtures or sets) which are approved by the Underwriters' Laboratory. If a fuse blows when the tree lights are turned on, you must remove other electrical appliances on the circuit over the Christmas season to prevent overloading the circuit.

Turn out the tree lights when the family leaves the house unattended, and never leave the children alone in the house when the tree is on display. Remember it takes less than 60 seconds for the average tree to burn up completely.

Do not use flammable materials for decorations of the tree or around the base of the tree. Also, do not use electrical appliances under the tree as the metallic tinsel can cause a short and start the transformer to burn.

Avoid toys operated with flammable liquids. Nitrocellulose toys burn with surprising ferocity.

Do not allow your children to collect discarded Christmas trees after the holidays, to build "huts, forts" etc.

Magnet Wire Pollution System In Full Operation

Chicago Magnet Wire Corp. officials reported last week that the newly installed air pollution control system at the company's Elk Grove Village plant is in full operation.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert said company spokesmen told him and representatives from the Illinois Attorney General's office at a hearing that the afterburners of the system had been turned on and the pollution abatement equipment was now working.

Hofert said another hearing was set for Dec. 20 to approve testing procedures of the equipment and to draw up a schedule for that testing.

The equipment installed at the plant at 901 Chase Ave. is a direct fire incinerator designed to burn off 95 per cent of the odor-producing phenolic compounds. The equipment was to have been operational by Oct. 15, but the company received an extension of the deadline because of delays in receiving some materials for the system.

ANY AGREEMENT to install the equipment was made last March among the company, the village and the state to settle an air pollution suit and countersuit filed last year in Cook County Circuit Court. The agreement required Magnet Wire to install devices that would eliminate 95 per cent of the odor emitted by the plant.

Both the air pollution suit and the countersuit were continued until the Oct. 15 deadline for installation of the abatement system, but the agreement provided for an extension of the deadline if necessary.

In September Magnet Wire officials appeared at a hearing requesting an extension of the deadline because of delays in receiving the parts for the system. Earlier this summer the company reported it was behind schedule because some deliveries from Pennsylvania were late because of flooding.

Residents from Elk Grove Village, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights have complained of the odor emitted by the plant in its manufacturing process.

Lifeline—A New Dimension In Life

canoeing, horseback riding, rafting, snow and water skiing. "We feel we need to have kids get away from the asphalt," said Dart.

The camping trip is "intended to help the boys see other dimensions of life," said Dart. The boys spend a lot of time talking during the weekend, said Dart. They discuss their problems, how they got in trouble, what their life has been like, what they want to change, and their education and job goals.

LIFELINE ADVOCATES the "balanced life philosophy," said Dart. There are four divisions of life: mental, physical, social and spiritual, and a happy person has an equal amount of each, he said. During the weekend camping trip and weekly Lifeline meetings, the four divisions are exemplified, said Dart. Physical exercise and social interaction between the boys is combined with some heavy thoughts about life and God, he said.

Lifeline counselors are first concerned with earning the right to be heard by the boys, said Dart. Once the boys know "I am a regular guy" and "we are really concerned with them as individuals," they trust the counselors and begin to talk and share ideas, he said. A "horizontal relationship" is built between each of the boys and the counselor.

"It is a matter of understanding them," said Dart. "They know we're not judging them." The counselors admit they themselves have problems and they share "some of the answers they have found in life."

When the boys begin to benefit from this relationship, Lifeline counselors introduce a "vertical relationship" with God, said Dart.

"WE DON'T TRY to hit them over the head with religion," according to Dart, who said no boy comes to camp not knowing that he will hear about the Bible and God. During nightly rap sessions, the group discusses verses of the Bible in relation to everyday life. Some of the boys are quite surprised at some of the ideas they find, said Dart.

Dart also plans to include some weekends of "stress camping" in the program. With subsistence supplies of food and water, the boys and counselors hike through a wilderness area, said Dart. It's an "attitude building" experience, he said, the boys must depend on nature and each other to survive, that's a good way for them to learn that it's alright for them to depend on each other.

When the boys return from the camping trip, they get together weekly for various activities and talk sessions. They go bowling, work out at the YMCA, swim and attend football games, said Dart. He said the Lifeline program is now looking for meeting places with athletic facilities in Maine Township that the boys may use.

Activities and camping trips provided by the Lifeline program are free to the boys. The program is run solely on contributions from churches, youth groups, civic organizations and individuals, said Dart. If enough funds are available next year, it will be expanded, said Dart.

The Lifeline program now operates with one counselor and the director. Dart said he hopes to hire more counselors so more boys can be admitted to the program. A woman counselor will be hired in the near future so Lifeline can be started in Maine Township for teenage girls. Dart said he also hopes to do some work with Maryville Academy, in Des Plaines, a home for children who are wards of the court.

Maine Township's program is the only Lifeline in the Chicago area, said Dart. Most Lifeline programs are located in large cities and work with inner city kids, said Dart and Campus Life hopes to begin a Lifeline program in Chicago in the near future.

THE LIFELINE PROGRAM helps township program, talks to one of the boys referred to him by a local police department. Bruce Dart, director of the Maine

Enter our slogan contest and become a notorious WWMM-FM personality throughout the world.

Your world.

We're WWMM, your new local stereo FM station—92.7 on your FM dial. Right now, we call ourselves the UN-station. We're UNKNOWN and UNLIKE any FM or AM station you've ever heard.

We confine our news, programming and happenings strictly to your world, and let the rest of the world go by. But there's no way in the world that we are going to go through life with an UNinspired slogan like the UN-station.

So UNleash your pen and enter our contest. If you win, you'll become world famous (your world, of course) for 30 minutes as a notorious personality on WWMM-FM.

You will also receive as first prize an FM radio which happens to be in the same cabinet with a 21" color television set. And your slogan will echo from Chicago to Crystal Lake, Wheaton to Waukegan. We can't tell you what kind of slogan will win, but we can tell you what won't.

Slogans that will not win our contest

WWMM-FM... the beautiful sound of Dr. Freda Kehm

WWMM-FM... the poignant new sound of the Voices of Love

WWMM-FM... the sultry sound of Jonathan Kingsley

WWMM-FM... the tender sound of Jack Stockton

WWMM-FM... the soothing sound of Bob Brynteson

In other words, as you may have guessed, we are not an ordinary FM station. So it would be a good idea to listen to all of our programming to absorb the total vibes of our station before you put your pencil to paper. Make it a world-beater.

Here are our un-believable prizes!

First Prize
Co-host program with Dr. Freda Kehm, our child psychologist. Your chance to give advice instead of taking it. Plus a console model stereo FM radio which happens to have a built-in color TV and AM radio.

Second Prize
Co-host program with Jonathan Kingsley, our self-appointed sexologist. Who knows, you might teach him something. Plus a stereo FM radio that shares a console with an AM radio and a cassette player.

Third Prize
Co-host program with Jack Stockton or Bob Brynteson. Be a cool dude or dudess. Tell the news. Play the music. Rap a little. Plus an FM stereo table top radio that plays AM for those who will listen to it.

Special Prize
Write a beautiful, touching script for delivery by the Incredible Voices of Love. Plus an FM stereo portable radio that plays on AM if you really have rotten taste.

And as consolation prizes for you born losers, we'll send out 92.7 (count 'em, 92.7) stereo L.P.'s to the 53 runners up.

Suburb Housing Mandate Not Likely

by ANNE SLAVICEK
A News Analysis

Suburban towns probably don't have to fear that U.S. Dist. Court Judge Richard B. Austin will take away their power to decide whether public housing should be built within their boundaries.

Austin is the judge who spent three days last week hearing testimony on a proposal to house poor blacks from Chicago in low-income housing units in the suburbs. The plan calls for the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) to build the units within suburban boundaries if the municipalities refuse to build the housing themselves.

The proposal calling for the suburban public housing was advocated by Alexander Polikoff, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney representing a group of Chicago public housing applicants.

On the other side of the fence in the trial was the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, arguing for an order that would only pledge it to its best efforts to avoid segregation in public housing.

A THIRD, BUT almost silent participant, was the Chicago Housing Authority, which told Judge Austin it had enough budget problems trying to provide public housing in the city without taking on the suburbs.

While Austin will not rule on the proposals until January, the judge gave numerous indications of his feelings in the case during the three days of hearings.

While he openly assured Polikoff that he had not intention of adopting the ACLU proposed order in its entirety, Austin also said he was "not overly impressed" with HUD's best efforts to date.

Austin often interrupted Polikoff during the trial, sometimes to ask rhetorical questions and other times to have points clarified.

The judge's comments often touched upon his view of the suburbs and the nature of suburban discrimination.

AUSTIN SAID, for example, "Some suburban areas welcome all who are economically able to live in those areas."

At another point in the hearings the judge quipped "I'll be settling people in Utah pretty soon," as a comment on how far out some of the suburbs under consideration were from the central city.

When Polikoff countered that "there is a lot of land in suburban areas," Austin raised a question about the price of land in the suburbs.

The judge's question touched off a debate between Polikoff — who said "There is no land cost limit with respect to the public housing program," — and HUD Atty James Murray, who said federal regulations only allow spending "the amount presently required" for public housing sites.

ANOTHER OF Austin's rhetorical questions raised the point that the ACLU proposal would "give villages additional residents to serve without additional income."

"The suburbs live on property taxes," Austin said.

The judge indicated he wasn't questioning the entire concept of public housing in the suburbs, just the concept of building public housing in the suburbs as a means of housing Chicago residents. "If these villages sought money for residents of their villages that's a different kettle of fish than building houses for Chicago residents in outlying areas," Austin said.

One of the witnesses during the hearings was Prof. Philip Hauser, an urbanologist from the University of Chicago who testified about segregation and the movement of whites from the city to the suburbs.

TALKING ABOUT Hauser's testimony Judge Austin commented, "What disturbs me about the motivation of the Hausers and others, is their objective to stop the flight from the city. We're going to put people out there so other people won't flee. We're going to circle them with a wall so the conditions out there will be the same as they are in the city."

After hearing testimony that little federal funding will be available in 1973 to finance public housing projects anywhere Austin said "Looking at the funding I don't see the emergency of threatening the municipalities with losing their veto powers (over public housing)."

Noting that a higher court decision would have some bearing on the decision he will render Austin said, "In view of the funding there's no extreme emergency at this time that this court can't wait for a supreme court decision."

Discussing Congress's reluctance to give HUD power to force municipalities to accept public housing, the judge said Polikoff's proposed order, "Would have the court step in and do what Congress has refused to do."

POLIKOFF ARGUED that a metropolitan distribution of public housing units was needed to break the pattern of racial segregation.

"Can't that be done by Congress?" Austin asked.

Polikoff answered that Congress had refused but that the judiciary had the power to take the action needed.

During another discussion Polikoff told Judge Austin "the image of the CHA in the suburbs isn't the greatest."

"Why do I impose the CHA on the suburbs then?" Austin asked.

POLIKOFF SAID it was necessary "to effect federal constitutional relief" to the black indigents who had filed the suit.

"The violation was by the City of Chicago, not by the suburbs, not by the adjoining counties," Austin said.

Polikoff argued that the racial segregation pattern of the city is duplicated in the suburbs. "That's not because of anything the suburbs have done to this point," Austin responded.

Polikoff admitted that was so, but told the judge suburban segregation did not have to be purposeful, it merely had to exist in order for the judge to have the authority to correct it.

AUSTIN ALSO said at another point in the hearings that he had no intention of setting local zoning ordinances aside in order to allow public housing in the suburbs.

Polikoff pointed out that the suburban sites were needed because the judge's original order produced nothing for the plaintiffs who filed the suit except a small amount of public housing that was as segregated as existing public housing had been.

"I predicted my first order would mean an end to new public housing in the city," Austin said adding that he had no reason to believe an order like the one proposed by the ACLU would ever result in actual public housing units in the suburbs.

"OUTSTANDING CHAPTER of the Year" was the top award given to Gamma Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha at the sorority's recent state convention. Representing Gamma Theta were Mrs. Donald Bernard, Hoffman Estates; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shanahan, Des Plaines; Mr. and Mrs. John Latko, Hoffman; Mr. and Mrs. Harlo Sartorius, Schaumburg; and Mrs. Allen Schoeld, Hoffman.

Local ESA Chapter Is Outstanding In State

For the second consecutive year, Gamma Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha earned the top award of "Outstanding Chapter of the Year" at the sorority's state convention held recently in St. Louis.

The award, in the form of a traveling engraved plaque, was presented to Mrs. John Latko, president of Gamma Theta, at the banquet honoring accomplishments in all 51 chapters throughout the state. Several members of the local group attended, along with three of the husbands.

To earn the distinction of "outstanding chapter," the women excelled in the three symbolic letters of ESA — education, service and association. The award covers philanthropic, educational and social endeavors.

IN PHILANTHROPY, the women supported Larkin Home in Elgin; the Bensenville Home Society; St. Jude's Hospital, Memphis, and its affiliate in Peoria; the Heart Association and Cancer Society. They gave both volunteer hours and money or equipment to these projects.

For St. Jude's Hospital, Gamma Theta conducted the first Teenager March

(TAM) in the area and initiated preparations for the second annual march. A total of 1,000 volunteer hours plus cash and merchandise donations of $728 were given in addition to the $2,004 netted in the first TAM drive.

Highlights of the chapter's social functions were a road rally, Chinese auction, "work your heart out" night and a crazy hat fondue party.

FOR EDUCATIONAL excellence individual members were honored. A state paper, ESA's Yours, was co-edited by Connie Schoeld and Suzie Sartorius for the year's final three issues. Also, Gamma Theta hosted the Woodfield Area Council leadership conference in February, at which Mrs. Schoeld and Mrs. Richard Shanahan, Des Plaines, were co-chairman with Mrs. George McAdie, Arlington Heights, president of Alpha Nu chapter.

Next year's ESA state convention will be held at Nordic Hills Country Club, Itasca, in October. The site was chosen by Woodfield Area Council which consists of seven chapters in the Northern District. Co-chairmen will be Mrs. Schoeld and Mary Joy Gallagher of Delta Beta chapter in Lombard.

All those BP (beautiful people) How they wreak havoc with the wardrobes of all us common folks!

This fall when I needed a new winter coat, I shopped for a boot-length wool one, with the belt and fur trimmed hood. The fur and the hood were two features I particularly opted for. I was with it . . . so I thought.

Now I find I'm out of style before I begin. In a recent edition of Women's Wear Daily, there was my coat . . . used as an example of what went out last year.

And if I'm outdated now, what will I be this time next year and the year after? For unlike all the BP, I can't afford to trade in my coat every year. But then again, if it lasts long enough I might catch the same style on its second go around. That's a laugh, of course. They don't make coats to last.

I CONTINUED to read on, for if my brand new coat is antiquated, what else can I be guilty of? The picture is very dim for all of us. Here goes.

The clutch bag has it. The shoulder bag is out. (I'll never give up the shoulder bag.)

Masses of chains and charms are definitely out. Simple beads or pearls are in. (I agree.)

Rings on every finger? Not anymore. Just a sentimental ring or two. (That's better on the pocketbook.)

The wide jeans belt is passe. The narrow belt with simple buckle is back. (I'll still wear both, thank you.)

The All McGraw cap is out and the jersey turban is in. (A jersey turban? I'd feel like a fool.)

Hot pants are no longer welcomed. The short dinner dress is back. (Definitely.)

THE WHITE-COLLARED and cuffed shirt is out. The luxury shirt in natural fabrics is in. (I'm still buying the shirts with little white collars . . . and cuffs too.)

The layered look shirt, tank top, blazer and pants are out. Monotone sportswear, the side-wrapped skirt and sweater sets have taken over. (What can I say. That last one dates my entire wardrobe. And I was just amassing enough layers to do justice by the look. Anyhow I hate wrap-around skirts.)

The turtleneck sweater is out. The deep V shirt, sweater and jacket are in. (I kinda think it's fun to switch off. Nothing can beat a turtleneck sweater for warmth. Tell the BP it gets cold in Chicago.)

THE ANKLE-LENGTH tartan skirt, ascot shirt and velvet blazer for evening are outdated. In its place is the sweater dress. (Well, that one I never made at all.)

I've often thought that the only solution is to buy just the opposite of what you see advertised. I'll place bets you'll be dressed in all the latest fashions.

I wonder what effect this has on the baggy pants. I'm just beginning to like them. I'm probably obsolete already.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I'd like to know more about "newspaper logs" that burn colorfully in the fireplace. I know they're soaked in certain chemicals, but that's about the extent of my information. I'm quite pollution-conscious and want this only for the upcoming holidays. —Mrs. Rebecca Maus

Don't think you have to worry much about pollution with this one holiday sport. For those who don't know about "newspaper logs," these are made by rolling batches of newspapers into log form, then tying them loosely in three places with heavy twine. They can be treated so they burn with differing colors. Copper sulphate gives off green flames; calcium chloride, orange; copper chloride, blue; lithium chloride, carmine, and potassium chloride, purple.

These solutions have to be made outdoors and should be only in wooden pails or earthen crocks. The ratio is a pound of chemical to a gallon of water. If you want many colors, you either have to have many pails or start fresh with each chemical. One has to wear rubber gloves.

NEVER use chlorates, nitrates or potassium permanganate. Keep to what I've listed.

Allow the logs to soak for a day or two in the solution, then dry thoroughly. Pine cones can also be tossed in these mixes. The end result is often rather spectacular.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any nutritional difference between the dark and light meat of chicken? —Nancy S.

Practically none. The dark meat contains a little more fat, the white meat a trifle more nicotinic acid. Whichever one prefers, chicken contains a lot of nutritious elements.

Dear Dorothy: If you are planning a salad made of raw cranberries, freeze the berries before grinding and you won't lose all of the juice. —Irma Hightower.

Lineup Change

Bratkowski, Huarte Next Luncheon Guests

It may not sound like good football strategy to any coach, but two quarterbacks have been scheduled to replace a linebacker.

In a lineup switch announced today, Chicago Bears' backup quarterback John Huarte, former Heisman Trophy winner, and quarterback coach "cke" Bratkowski will sub for linebacker Doug Buffone at the next Paddock Publications Pro Sports Club Luncheon Monday, Dec. 11 at Old Orchard Country Club.

Buffone will be in New York next Monday on personal business, and he expressed his regrets to the Herald for this late notice.

"Although we're naturally disappointed at not having Doug Buffone as advertised for our next luncheon," Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk said, "we do feel there is so much interest in the Bears' quarterback situation right now that it would be appropriate to have Bratkowski and Huarte as our special guests. They were very happy to cooperate and help us out."

"Bratkowski, of course, brings years of National Football League experience to his position with the Bears, and he should be able to examine not only the Chicago situation but also the upcoming pro draft and the overall NFL picture, including some comments on his former employers, Green Bay.

"Huarte doesn't have much playing time in pro ball but it's always an interesting situation to look at the quarterback position from the status of the backup man. As a former Heisman Trophy winner from Notre Dame, Huarte should also be able to give our luncheon guests some observations on the pressures of a Heisman winner coming into the pro game."

Bratkowski returned to the Bears this season as a coach. He played five seasons with Chicago after being a second round draft choice as a future in 1933.

Since 1963, he had been with the Green Bay Packers, a backup quarterback to Bart Starr through 1969; then two years as backfield coach and, in 1971, active again as a player.

With the Bears, Bratkowski, who played at Danville (Ill.) High School and the University of Georgia, saw action in 1951, went into the Army for two years, then got in four more seasons (1957-1960) before he was traded with Ernie Barnes to Los Angeles for Bill Wade in 1961. He remained with the Rams in 1961, 1962 and early 1963 before he was sold to Green Bay.

In 14 NFL seasons Bratkowski completed 762 passes out of 1,484 attempts for 10,291 yards and 65 touchdowns.

Huarte, a total unknown at the beginning of the 1964 college season, quarterbacked the top-ranked Irish to a spectacular 9-1 season, losing only to Southern California in the finale, 20-17. This was Ara Parseghian's first year as head coach at Notre Dame.

Huarte and end Jack Snow combined in a forward passing battery that brought both men All-American honors, and Huarte the Heisman Trophy before he graduated.

Huarte won that 1964 Heisman over such candidates as Joe Namath, Tucker Fredrickson, Gale Sayers, Craig Morton, Jerry Rhyme and Dick Butkus.

The quarterback with the rifle arm has not known success yet in professional football, and he joined the Bears this season from the Kansas City Chiefs to serve as the backup man for Bobby Douglass. He's waiting for his chance.

In addition to the two quarterbacks next Monday at the luncheon, other guests at the head table will be Athletic Director Tom O'Driscoll and Football Coach Angelo Barro of Rolling Meadows High School and Mustang All-State linebacker Jack Lloyd. The Herald is recognizing Lloyd as the first All-Stater at the newest school in the Herald area.

"It's an accomplishment for any school to produce an All-Stater," said Frisk, "but it's even more significant when a school that's only two years old and has played only one year of varsity football has a boy honored. That's why we felt it was appropriate to recognize this achievement."

There are still some good tickets available for this second Paddock Pro Sports Luncheon, but another turn-away crowd is expected by next Monday.

Tickets are $5.00 per person, including tax and tip, for the program and a chef's steak lunch. For reservations, call Anne Chalikis at 394-2300.

Join "Zeke" Bratkowski, John Huarte and high school star Jack Lloyd at Old Orchard Country Club next Monday from noon until 1:30 p.m.

Maine North First To Fall In Friday Rout

Maine South Convinces Norsemen, Hersey

by MIKE KLEIN
The cute little high school coed, virtually alone in a brightly lit hallway, had wanted to know.

"Are you the reporter that was talking to Willie Vail?" she questioned with excitement in her voice.

She was told yes.

"Are you a girlfriend or a sister?" she was asked.

"A girlfriend."

"Hi! I'm Willie Vail's little brother." shrieked a short, thin young fellow with long hair.

It was as if he belonged to Dick Butkus, Wilt Chamberlain or Jesus Christ Superstar.

Or maybe even the Easter Bunny.

They were an odd couple, this little brother and girlfriend who adorned the Maine North halls waiting for Willie Vail.

Odd, you see, because they were happy.

It is difficult to crack a smile when your favorite basketball team has been turned into mashed potatoes, 116-39, by Maine South.

But this odd couple — their smiling faces could have lit the world Friday night.

They were elated because Willie Vail — he with the see-thru moustache — had proven that to a degree, Maine South's Hawks are human.

He did it with nine field goals. Only a pair of missed free throw attempts during the second quarter kept Willie from scoring 20 points.

Pumping mostly from the outside, Vail totalled 18 before Coach Jerry Nelson pulled him midway through the final period of this mismatch.

Vail rose above defeat despite two very glumpy shoulders. One has already been knifed on the table. The other has a post-season appointment.

It is Vail's uncut left shoulder which occasionally pops out of joint, as it did

That makes shooting a bit more challenging for the southpaw long range bomber.

"In a game, you don't think about it," Vail said later. "Plus, it didn't come out real bad tonight."

But the shoulder problem flares frequently. "This week in practice it came out all the way and hurt for a few days," he said.

The very same injury caused Vail to miss early season cage practice after the continual jolts from 10 weeks of football.

"They outclassed us a little. They're a great team," Vail said about the visitors from Maine South who had raced to a 30-10 first quarter lead and allowed just 12 points after halftime.

Victory inserted Bernie Brady's Hawks into undisputed first place of the Central Suburban League South. Nelson's Norsemen, at 0-1, garnish the CSL North collar.

Overall, the Hawks were 2-1 and North 0-3 after Friday.

Maine South turned basketball into a line art against its little brothers. It was almost pleasurable to watch the Hawk fast break (52 field goals) and sticky defense pick North apart.

But Brady was apologetic to Nelson and most everyone else he encountered after the game.

"I didn't want to run up the score like that on Jerry but what could I do?" he queried. "I had to start our regulars in the third quarter because they need the work."

"What with Hersey tomorrow night (last Saturday) we needed the work to be sharp."

They were plenty sharp in the pre-Hersey tuneup. One dozen Norsemen could attest to that.

Six-foot-seven center Pete Boesen, who Brady claims has more potential than any sophomore he's ever coached, scored all of his 21 points before halftime. He also collected 12 rebounds as the Hawks enjoyed a 30-12 advantage in that department.

Assuredly, the Hawks could have rebounded more caroms. But their shots rarely missed and after halftime, the Norsemen were allowed few attempts at the bucket.

Hawk forward Bob Westman (6-5) turned nine field goals and five free throws into a team-leading 23 points. He scored 15 in the first quarter and then watched much of the game as Brady emptied his 12-man bench.

Other double figure scorers for Maine South were Bill Harbeck (17), Tony Reibel (10) and Pete Schmelzer (13).

Only Vail with his 18 points achieved double scoring figures for the Norsemen. Next highest was center Derrick Brown with six points.

Nelson and Brady confronted each other after the slaughter. Friendly words prevailed.

"We could have sat back on the ball and played ring around the rosey," Nelson told Brady who seemed embarrassed about the result.

"But these kids want to learn to play basketball and to do that, we've got to go up and down the court."

Nelson told Brady, "It's just unfortunate that we have to play the No. 11 ranked ballclub in the state, which is yourself, and then come back with Proviso East."

Proviso, No. 8 state ranked, hosts North next Saturday. One night earlier, New Trier West plays at Maine in the Norsemen's second CSL game.

Just minutes into Friday's game, the decision was no longer being contested. South had a 9-2 lead at 6:27 of the opening quarter. That swelled to 15-4 and 23-8 before the Hawks settled on their 35-10 first period margin.

The Norsemen played their best ball during the second eight minutes. South enjoyed just a 24-17 advantage then and Vail had eight points for North.

But the Brady bunch glided to 30-7 and 24-5 advantages during the final two quarters.

"I told them they were beaten by a good ballclub," Nelson said of his post-game meeting comments. "Their personnel overmatched our personnel. And when that happens, you lose."

"If we can learn anything from this game, it's to walk out of here with more in our heads than just what happened on the scoreboard," Nelson said.

"We want to de-emphasize that score-

4th Period Sinks West At Waukegan

by A STAFF WRITER
Maine West played its best basketball game of the young season Friday night. But the Warriors had fourth quarter problems and lost, 54-43, at Waukegan.

Gaston Freeman's ballclub scored just four points in the final eight minutes. "We just had too many late turnovers," said Freeman. "And we had three baskets taken away from (Doug) Myers on lane violations."

Waukegan led only 41-39 when the two clubs began the final eight minutes.

The Warriors were on top, 26-24, at halftime and were holding a 36-32 lead midway through the third quarter.

But baskets by Ted Kudrick and Jerome Whitehead of Waukegan tied the game at 36-36. It was then that Maine's Myers had a field goal disallowed due to a lane violation.

So instead of a 38-36 lead, the Warriors were underneath by one point when the Bulldogs' Laurence Brown converted a free throw.

The Warriors were unable to get back on top although it was a 44-41 game with just over six minutes to play.

Myers led the Warriors 22 points. He scored seven field goals and was good on eight of 10 charity shots. He also led West with seven rebounds.

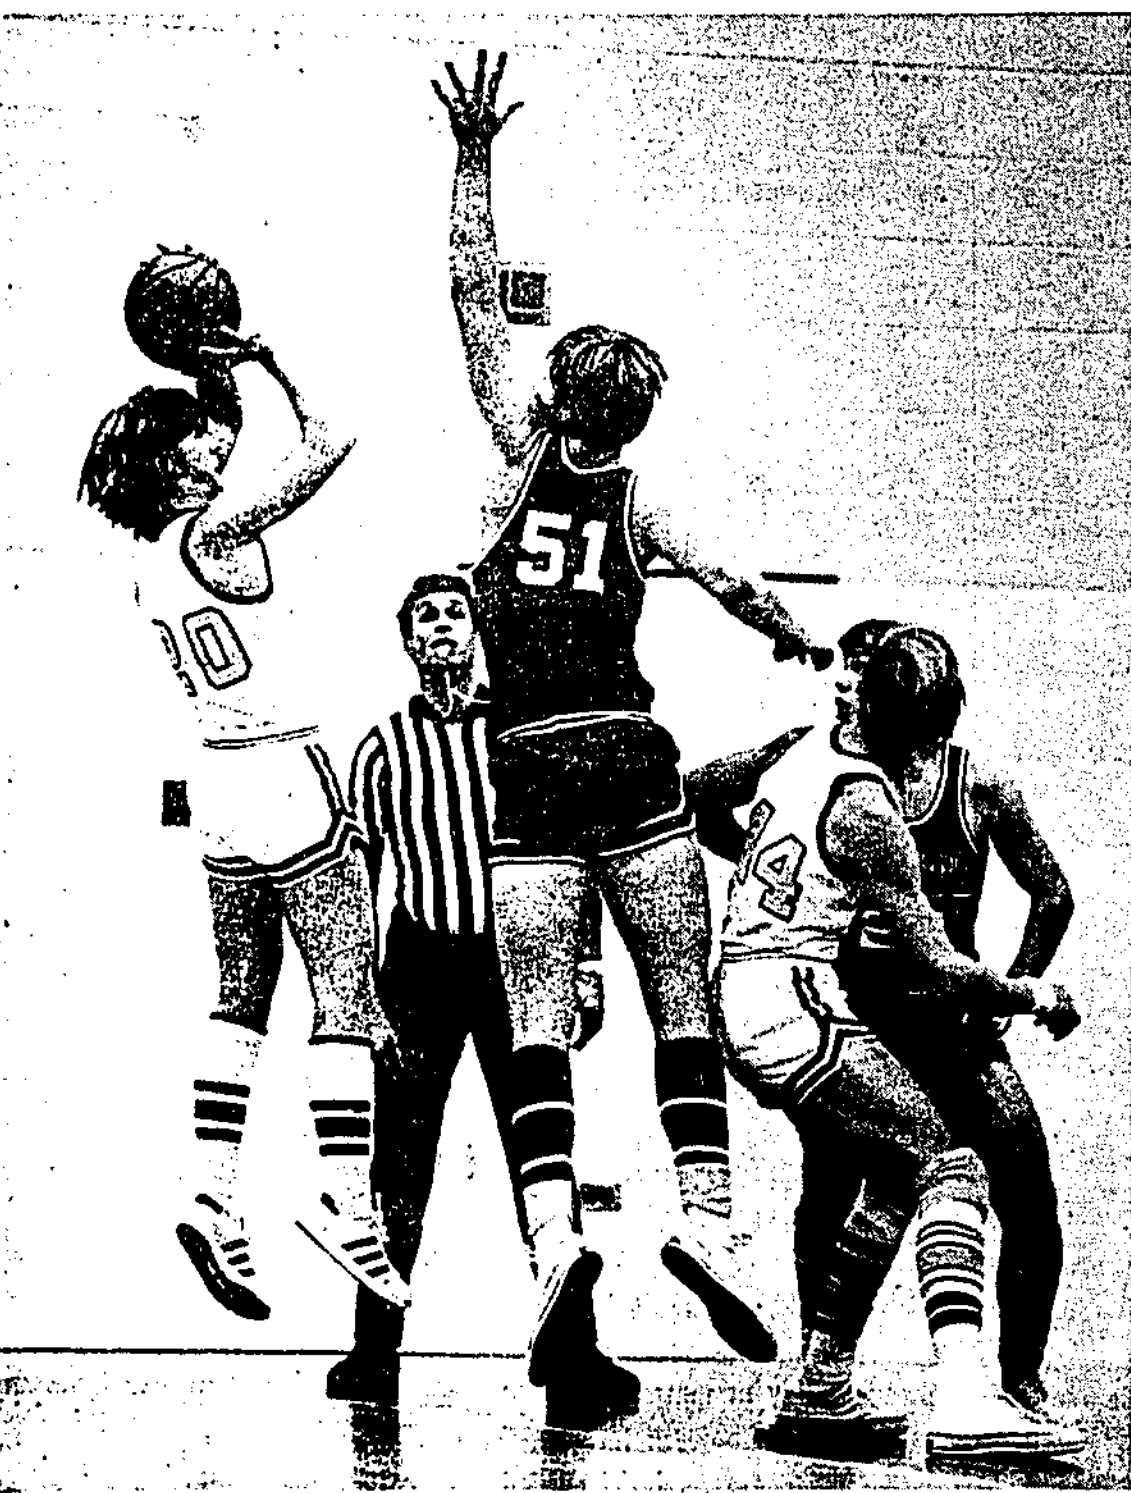

"It was his best performance to date," Freeman said of Myers' play. "On the boards defensively and offensively and at both ends of the court I thought he played an outstanding game."

Whitehead of Waukegan turned 11 field goals and one charity shot into 23 points which led both teams. The 6-6 center was 11-14 from the field. He and Bulldog guard Columbus McCoy tied for team rebounding honors with eight apiece.

The Warriors are now 0-3, having lost to Forest View, Arlington and Waukegan. They'll open their Central Suburban League championship season Friday night at Niles East.

Rugged Hawks Crush Huskies

by JIM COOK
Roger Steingraber doesn't advocate two games on a weekend.

It was easy to understand his philosophy Saturday night when the Huskies were overwhelmed by Maine South, 63-39. Even more frustrating was the fact that 6-11 Huskie center Dave Corzine was blanked from the scoring column.

"I think it's hard getting kids mentally prepared for two straight nights," Steingraber said. "We spend the entire week of practice preparing for our Friday night game and on this particular weekend, we couldn't even afford to look toward Maine South."

Hersey had its hands full with Forest View in an important conference test which the Huskies passed, 70-51 on Friday. But readying for Maine South just 24 hours later takes more than just a brief practice session Saturday afternoon.

Of course Maine South was in the same predicament, but head coach Bernie Brady's regulars were well-rested after hammering Maine North, 116-39 in a league bout Friday.

The Hawks caught Hersey somewhat dazed and seemingly tired with a brisk fast break offense and the most effective defense against Corzine the Huskies have ever seen.

Hawk forward 6-5 Bob Westman blanketed big Dave in one-on-one coverage while 6-5 forward Jerry Jones and 6-7 center Pete Boesen collapsed on the boards to shut off Hersey's touted rebounding game.

Senior Greg Hale tried to pick up the slack of the Huskies' scoring burden early in the contest, but a sprained ankle with a minute left in the first quarter and getting whistled for his fourth personal foul with 35 seconds remaining in the half forced the 6-6 forward into a conservative game.

Hale's heroics kept Hersey close and even ahead during the tense first period. Husky guard Mark Lephart hit his first two 15-foot jumpers from just inside the free-throw circle to boost Hersey into a 4-0 advantage, but South answered a 12-footer by Mark Conard with a flurry of four buckets to assume an 8-6 lead.

Hale began swishing from the baseline and his three straight bulleties rallied Hersey to a 12-11 margin before the hot-
